Danger Of War Is Less

Signs Of Sharp Drop In Tension

WASHINGTON (AP) — High U.S. officials said Saturday the danger of the Reds starting a bigger war in response to the American air strike on North Viet Nam shore bases now appears to be dwindling.

While the high-ranking sources warned that Peking and Hanoi still could decide on major military action, there were these signs of a sharp drop in the tension which gripped Washington last week in the crisis over the Red PT boat attacks on the U.S. counterblow:

—U.S. intelligence has spotted no overt Communist military movements portending a stepup in Communist Chinese or North Vietnamese armed action—no massing of troops to move south, no gathering of sea forces, no aircraft appearing to search for targets.

With each day that goes by without such signs, U.S. strategists believe the prospects diminish for a Communist escalation of the fighting.

—Administration officials now are suggesting the torpedo attacks on U.S. destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin may have been a spur of the moment North Vietnamese military venture, not a part of a Peking-Hanoi master plan to broaden the war and bring the United States directly into the fighting.

This was a more relaxed interpretation than newsmen got during the tense moments after President Johnson ordered the U.S. counterattack Tuesday. There were hints that the torpedo boat assaults were part of a long-planned broad Red strategy to widen the war.

Whichever explanation turns out to be true, the U.S. official said the counterattack was necessary for defense of U.S. ships on the high seas and for showing Peking-Hanoi they could not get away with the assaults.

—Deputy Secretary of Defense Cyrus R. Vance said the U.S. destroyer patrol in the Tonkin Gulf will be ended "in the next few days." He said other patrols will be sent into the gulf between North Viet Nam and Red China later, but "I hope very much that this military crisis is over."

Vance and others did predict an increase in activities by the Red Viet Cong guerrillas in South Viet Nam.

Mrs. Johnson Will Make Western Tour

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson announced Saturday a preconvention three-state western tour that will include her dedication of the $1-billion Flaming Gorge Dam, on the Green River along the Utah-Wyoming border.

On her Aug. 14-17 journey, the First Lady plans also to take a look at national parks, Indian reservations, and the beautiful natural wilderness near the dam, and in Montana as well.

The White House said she will stay at Jackson Lake Lodge, Wyo., in the Grand Tetons National Park, during her visit.

The trip was described by her press secretary, Mrs. Elizabeth Carpenter, as a rugged but beautiful one. She said it probably will be the first time that a first lady has made such a tour on her own.

The three states happen to be ones that voted Republican in the 1960 presidential election, and where Democratic U.S. senators are making a bid for re-election this November.

Asked if there was any political significance to the journey, Mrs. Carpenter replied, "Land and people are part of the life of this country, and she's interested in both."

The Weather

Generally fair and pleasant Sunday with high 85 to 93. Increasing cloudiness and a little warmer Sunday night with lows in 60s. Partly cloudy and warmer Monday.

To Withdraw Troops

LONDON (AP) — All British troops will be withdrawn from the former African colony of Kenya by Dec. 12, the Ministry of Defense announced.

Arrests Are Imminent In Murder Case

PHILADELPHIA, Miss. (AP) — Arrests in the slaying of three civil rights workers were believed imminent Saturday. In Texas, President Johnson said "substantive results can be expected in a very short time" in the case.

Reliable sources said the FBI was trying to locate the weapon matching five bullets removed from the bodies of the men during autopsies in Jackson.

President Johnson, in a news conference at his ranch home near Johnson City, Tex., said he had talked with FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover by telephone and was assured by Hoover that the investigation in Mississippi was going exceedingly well.

One of the slain trio, Andrew Goodman, 20, a Queens College student from New York City, had come to the state as a volunteer worker in the Mississippi summer project only two days before the three mysteriously vanished.

At Jackson, the Council of Federated Organizations — COFO — announced that many of the summer volunteers would be leaving the state within the next two months to return to college. But COFO said other volunteers would take their place.

The other victims were Michael Schwerner, 24, a New York City social worker, and James Chaney, 22, a Negro from Meridian, Miss.

An intensive search was launched by the FBI and state investigators, assisted in the massive land search by 400 sailors from the Meridian Naval Air Station.

The search apparently netted no leads until Tuesday, when an informer reportedly accepted the FBI's reward and gave directions on where to find the bodies.

High sources had reported the FBI knew the identity of the killers.

Townsfolk believed that the informer who led the agents to the bodies may also know the identity of the slayers.

When no arrests followed immediately, conjecture was that arrests would come after the completion of the FBI laboratory investigation.

Coroner Fulton Jackson said Saturday the coroner's jury had been unable to render a verdict in the deaths because the report from Washington had not been received, but he indicated he expected it soon.

226-184 Vote

Antipoverty Bill Passed By House

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's prize legislative package — the $947.5-million antipoverty bill — sailed through the House on Saturday by a 226-184 roll-call vote.

The 42-vote victory margin widely exceeded the predictions of House leaders, who had worked for weeks to line up votes and looked for a 10-vote edge.

Unexpectedly strong support from Southern Democrats and Republicans helped account for Johnson's solid triumph. The Southerners provided nearly 60 votes and the GOP chipped in 22. Forty Democrats voted with 144 Republicans against the bill.

The President, spending the weekend on his ranch near Johnson City, Tex., told a newsconference, "We have by this compassionate commitment kept faith with the morality of our society."

Noting the measure drew some Republican support, he also said: "I congratulate the members of both parties in Congress who have supported this historic measure.

"The struggle in this century between freedom and tyranny has been a struggle among men in many lands to find a system which would relieve them from the oppression of poverty."

Johnson, who played a leading role in lining up votes, had made it clear he regards the bill as the most important legislation he has sent to Congress since he became president. All other major bills enacted this year were products of the Kennedy administration.

The bill, which now goes back to the Senate, seeks to mobilize federal, state and local resources inot an attack on the causes of poverty, in which an estimated nine million American families are mired.

The Senate has passed an almost identical measure, but two changes made by the House may prove troublesome in getting the Senate to accept the House version without further delaying its final passage.

One would give governors the right to reject federal grants to all community groups seeking to mount a local campaign against poverty. The Senate had restricted the governors' veto power to grants to private agencies.

Both bills let the governors veto the establishment of conservation-type camps for idle youths in their states.

The other change would require a loyalty oath for all those participating in the many programs authorized by the bill. It was proposed by Rep. John Bell Williams, D-Miss., and put in by a nonrecord vote of 144-112.

Search For Deficit In School Money

WARRENTON, Mo. (AP) — Investigation has begun into a reported deficit of more than $600,000 in Warren County's R-3 school district.

Sheriff Melvin Twiehaus said he and prosecuting attorney Robert Hoelscher were investigating the deficit and an alleged school milk fund overpayment to the R-3 school district. Twiehaus said the school district financial report last week reported a deficit of $63,766.

The report said about half the deficit was in unpaid teacher's salaries.

Because of the deficit, school board president William Early said taxes must be increased or the school program will have to be curtailed. The school board is asking for a $1.50 school tax raise over the present $3.20 per $100 of assessed valuation.

Five meetings will be held starting Monday to advise Warren County voters of the school district's plight.

Early also said he understood that auditors of the United States Department of Agriculture had discovered an overpayment of the school district's milk program. He said reports estimated the overpayment at between $15,000 and $100,000. A spokesman for the Department of Agriculture said the final au-

On Many Subjects

President Holds News Conference

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson Saturday forecast "substantive results" soon in the slaying of three civil rights workers in Mississippi.

But he declined to say whether this means arrests in the case are imminent. And in Washington an FBI spokesman said: "We have nothing to announce as yet."

After talking by telephone with FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, Johnson told a news conference at his ranch:

"He (Hoover) assures me that the investigation in Mississippi is going extremely well; that substantive results can be expected in a very short period of time."

The President went on to say that "Murder in any state, whether Mississippi or Georgia or New York, and civil disorder in any region — North or South, East or West — cannot and will not be condoned in this country."

"We must not allow violence and lawlessness to go unpunished," he added. "No person can be allowed to attack the right of every American to be secure in this land."

The President's 25 - minute news conference, moved into his ranch office from the front lawn by rain, touched many bases, including the crisis in Southeast Asia, renewed fighting on Cyprus between Greek and Turkish Cypriots and the progress of his legislative program.

After the session, he got out a statement hailing House passage Saturday of his Antipoverty Bill by a vote of 224 to 186.

"All Americans can be proud of the action taken by the House of Representatives in committing the strength and talents of our nation to the war on poverty," Johnson said.

In a philosophical mood, the President recalled that he had been referring to "our summer of discontent." While, he added, there has been discontent and dissatisfaction "These last seven days deserve very special consideration in the contemplation of every thinking citizen."

All week long, he commented, "Americans have been doing what Americans do best—working together" and "the results have been highly gratifying."

"Wherever we have faced them, we have been meeting our challenges—at the Gulf of Tonkin, the halls of Congress, in distant space of our universe and all sections of our nation."

As a result of retaliatory bombing of North Viet Nam trol bases and an oil dump for attacks on U.S. warships, he said, "Both adversaries and allies have the basis for new respect and understanding for America's resoluteness.

"In the unity of nonpartisanship and common sense which Americans rally together for, we have the basis for new confidence in the continued strength of our society. . . ."

Turkish Air Force Hammers At Cyprus

UN Security Council Into Urgent Session

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—Turkish air force jets hammered Greek Cypriot villages and military forces moving toward a Turkish Cypriot strip in northwest Cyprus Saturday. United Nations headquarters here reported many casualties from the rocket and machinegun fire and said one Turkish jet was shot down during an attack on the port of Xeros.

The United Nations Security Council was summoned into urgent session in New York at the request of Cyprus, Turkey and Greece.

In Ankara, the Turkish government said the air force attacks were ordered by Premier Ismet Inonu in an effort to stop Greek Cypriot military advances into Turkish communities in the Pilliria promontory area.

A government spokesman said the Turkish military intervention was limited and called it a "police action."

The Turks said Inonu decided on the attacks because the U.N. peace force on Cyprus had failed to halt three days of fighting in the Pilliria promontory area.

A government source said the United States voiced opposition to the jet attacks and appealed to Inonu to call them off.

The air attacks hit at Greek Cypriot targets from Polis, near Cyprus' northwestern tip, to Xeros, about 25 miles to the northeast. Polis is 55 miles west of Nicosia.

At Xeros, the jets blasted a Greek Cypriot gunboat, set it afire. It was beached.

U.N. headquarters in Nicosia said five crewmen were killed and 13 were wounded. AP correspondent Hal McClure reported from Xeros that five crewmen were wounded. He made no mention of any dead.

While the jet attacks were still under way, a Turkish government announcement said they were aimed at military vehicles.

"In view of the actions of Greek Cypriot President Makarios (has) undertaken to annihilate Turkish Cypriots around the Mansoura area (near Xeros), we contacted the United Nations and our allies for putting an end to this action," said Deputy Premier Kemal Satir in Ankara. "But we could not obtain any results.

"Turkish air force jets now are cleaning up all Greek Cypriot military vehicles (which are) on their way to annihilate Turkish Cypriots."

GOP Congressmen Vote Against Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — All the Republican congressmen of Missouri and Kansas voted against passage of the administration's anti-poverty bill Saturday.

The measure was returned to the Senate by a 226 to 184 vote.

Symington Opens His Campaign

Senator Attacks Domestic Policies Of GOP Nominee

PARIS, Mo. (AP)—Missouri's senior senator, Stuart Symington, opened his campaign as the Democratic candidate for re-election in November, with a stinging attack Saturday on the domestic policies of the Republican presidential nominee, Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

The St. Louis Democrat did not mention his Republican opponent, Jean Paul Bradshaw of Springfield, in a speech prepared for a rally at nearby Mark Twin State Park. Both Symington and Bradshaw were nominated at Tuesday's primary election.

"Today America is the strongest and most prosperous country in world history; and very possibly the primary reason for that enviable position is the fact that this nation, under our party has always worked for those policies which insure the greatest good for the greatest number; policies directly opposite to those recommended by the candidate of the Republican party (Goldwater)," Symington said.

"It is the right of all Democrats, therefore, along with countless Republicans, to ask themselves whether the United

Fleet On Way To Turkey For Invasion

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Cyprus Ambassador Zenon Rossides told the U.N. Security Council on Saturday night a Turkish fleet was on its way to Cyprus and that the island would be invaded "within one hour."

Turkish delegate Ornan Eralp followed immediately with a statement that Rossides had thrust "sensational news" on the council. He added that the council had had similar experiences in the past on a similar subject "and I am sure it can judge of the veracity of the matter for itself."

The council was in emergency session to consider the deepening Cyprus crisis marked by Turkish air strikes against Greek Cypriot positions on the embattled eastern Mediterranean island.

Rossides was given permission to speak briefly after he requested the floor to transmit "serious information" to the delegates.

"According to a telephone message received a few moments ago, six warships from Turkey are heading for Cyprus for the purpose of invading, and they have been followed by another 26 warships — warships and troopships — for the purpose of aggression" and "within one hour they will be landed on the island," Rossides said.

Rossides added: "In these circumstances I thought fit to let the Security Council know of the situation before we embark on a discussion of a very minor matter in comparison with the invasion of the island."

He said the gravity of the situation is "not only one concerning Cyprus but the United Nations and the Charter, if we go back to the rule of the jungle."

He said the imminent danger in which his country was threatened "may bring a world war."

Dangerous Numbers Of Forces

Along Demarcation Line In Northern Area Of Viet Nam

GIO LINH, South Viet Nam (AP)—The commander of South Vietnamese forces along the northern border told Premier Nguyen Khanh Saturday there were dangerous concentrations of North Vietnamese forces across the demarcation line.

Khanh, in battle dress, visited border installations and, from an observation post, looked out over North Vietnamese forces who appeared to be strengthening their fortifications.

Brig. Gen. Nguyen Chanh Thi, the local Vietnamese commander, told Khanh of the Hanoi buildup on the other side of the demarcation line—the narrow Ben Hai River.

Khanh rode in a camouflaged car as he toured a artillery emplacements and tank and troop positions within a few thousand yards of the frontier.

Asked by a newsman if a major conflict appeared imminent, he replied, "At this point, the future is in the hands of God. It depends what the Communists do next. But we are ready for any provocation.

"By Communists, I do not mean Hanoi. It is Communist China that is running this. I don't know what the Chinese will do, but we do know the Chinese have sent MIG fighters to North Viet Nam."

Col. Leroy P. Collins Jr., of Hampton, Va., senior American adviser to the South Vietnamese 1st Division, said he believes the crisis has not passed.

"The situation is just as tense right now as it was on Wednesday, when the U.S. retaliatory raids on North Vietnamese torpedo boat bases took place," Collins said. "they could come in strength at any time, from any direction. But we're ready for them."

Khanh, who on Friday declared a state of national emergency, went to the front with Vietnamese officials and newsmen, traveling in 10 helicopters, escorted by fighter planes and armed helicopters.

Red Blanchard To Speak At Ham Breakfast

Red Blanchard, nationally known sports personality, will be the speaker at the Old Missouri Country Cured Ham and Bacon Breakfast, which will be held at 8:30 a.m. Monday, Aug. 24, as a feature of the Missouri State Fair.

Al Domingue will sing the National Anthem and during the breakfast organ music will be by Rosalind Gibson.

Among those expected to attend are Governor and Mrs. John Dalton, Senator Stuart Symington and family, Senator Edward V. Long, Representatives William Randall, Durwood Hall, and other state officials and distinguished guests.

The grand champion and reserve ham winners and the grand champion and reserve bacon winners will be announced, following which the hams and bacon will be auctioned with Harry Glasscock as auctioneer.

Tickets are on sale at the Chamber of Commerce office.

Train Is Derailed

PACIFIC, Mo. (AP) — Seventeen cars of a Frisco freight train were drailed here Saturday. No one was injured.

The Highway Patrol reported the accident tore up about a quarter of a mile of track. The patrol said cause of the wreck had not been determined, but it is believed to have stemmed from a burned out journal.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: Our 13-year-old daughter, Natalie, told us she was going to the library for the afternoon to see an art exhibit. Instead we learned that she and a girl friend went to see a foreign movie which was billed for adults only.

Natalie is tall for her age and could pass for several years older. From the description given by a friend who saw her in the movie house Natalie painted herself up like a trollop, wore my wig and high-heeled shoes and got by the cashier.

When I confronted Natalie with the report she did not try to lie out of it. She said she was curious about the picture and thought it would be fun to see if she could get in to see it. My husband feels we should deprive the girl of her allowance for six weeks. What do you say?—COPING

Dear Coping: I do not believe in depriving teen-agers of their allowances as punishment. I assume that the allowance is earned by performing some services in the house, and so long as the services are performed, the allowance should be paid.

A more logical punishment would be no movies for six weeks.

Dear Ann Landers: Our 23-year-old daughter Annette was always the shy type. We never knew what was in her mind most of the time because she was so quiet.

Around Christmas she told us she was expecting a baby. My husband and I couldn't believe it. The father was a boy named Harvey who is also shy and quiet. They had gone out together for three months, but had only five dates.

We gave them a hurried wedding—very small and nobody suspected a thing. Harvey took a job 2,500 miles from here which was fine with us. The baby was born in May. We didn't tell anyone about the baby, not even Harvey's folks. Annette wanted it that way. Last night Annette phoned to say she is sick of lying and wants to come home in a couple of weeks—with the baby.

I dread facing my friends. When they see that the baby is several months older than she ought to be they will know everything. What is your advice? — ASHAMED

Dear Ashamed: The baby is exactly as old as she ought to be so drop that ridiculous notion.

Tell Annette to come home and don't feel that you must apologize or explain to friends. Anyone who would refer to the baby's "advanced age" is no friend.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: Maybe I can help Hattie who is dreading the arrival of 300 guests (she has a small home) to a party honoring her parents on their 50th wedding anniversary. Here is the solution, figured mathematically.

Invite 60 for 2 p.m.; 60 for 3 p.m.; 60 for 4 p.m.; 60 for 7 p.m., and 60 for 8 p.m. Approximately 10 percent of the invited guests will be unable to attend At peak time, there will be no more than 75 people in the house. Between 6:30 and 7 p.m. the family can take off their shoes and catch their breath.

This plan calls for approximately 100 dishes, and cups and saucers, with continuous washing and drying. It's easier than she thinks.—M.B.

Dear M.B.: You make it sound so simple I think I'll try it myself. One of these days.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

World Watching

Catholics Move Into a Showdown

By GERALD MILLER

VATICAN CITY (AP) — In an age of change and crisis, the Roman Catholic Church is moving toward a showdown on some of the major issues of modern times — and the world is watching.

The stirrings within the church encompass such questions as its position on artificial birth control, the population explosion, relations with communism, race relations and its role in an age of space exploration, atomic weapons and emerging nations.

What directions the church will take will become clearer next month with the resumption on Sept. 14 of the Vatican Ecumenical Council — the third session.

Before the prelates will be a draft schema on "The Church in the Modern World," and the debates will give clues to the church's future.

But much change has already taken place.

Church historians say that not since the First Century has the Catholic Church been so aware of its public image. This has accounted, at least in part, for some of the external changes. For example, the change in nuns' apparel by many orders, from long robes and tight headpieces to simple black dresses and bonnets.

But there have been significant changes within the church. In recent years there has been less emphasis on proclamation of dogma for Catholics and more emphasis on explaining and clarifying the things that all Christians have in common.

All of this, say the church historians, is a natural evolution because the church is a living body made up of human members. Even the historians, however, seem a little amazed at the many changes in so short a time. What the church is trying to do, they say, is to accommodate itself to the new world without compromising its fundamental beliefs.

Much of the new movement in the church today is due directly to the late Pope John XXIII. Much of the outcome will rest with Pope Paul VI.

Within the church are conservatives who feel that traditionalism is strength, that sudden change could mean disruption, doubts and danger to the faith.

Other prelates — largely pastoral bishops who live and work away from Rome — say that if the church is to survive in an age of scepticism, doubt and materialistic philosophy, it must change.

Many of the Church felt as Pope John did about the necessity for modernization. But by voicing his views as the absolute ruler of the Roman Catholic Church and spiritual leader of the world's half-billion Catholics, Pope John gave the tendencies toward change great impetus. The council provided the platform.

Pope John called for aggiornamento — "updating." He said he wanted to open the windows of the Church and let in fresh air. He said he hoped to create a climate for eventual unity of all Christians in brotherhood and peace.

Pope Paul has pledged himself to carry on John's program.

But the changes already undertaken have had profound meaning for the modernization movement.

The council's liturgy reform makes it possible for the first time for Roman Catholics to celebrate most of the Mass and sacraments in their own language instead of Latin. The council also has expressed approval of modern styles in ecclesiastical art and the use of native instruments like tom-toms in place of pipe organs in primitive countries.

And now Pope Paul has made it clear that the Church is undergoing change on the controversial issue of birth control. He broke long years of official Vatican silence to say that the Church is studying the issue in the light of new developments and would report results as soon as possible.

It is accepted that the Pope was discussing birth control pills, which have become the focus of a widening discussion among churchmen.

In announcing the study June 23, Pope Paul reaffirmed the traditional Church ban on artificial birth control. And no one in authority at the Vatican is willing to predict whether or not when the study is done the Church will allow Catholics to use the pills.

It is in the same spirit that other recent changes have come about.

The Church, for example, has eased the traditional ban against cremation, no longer condemning it for Catholics in areas where local custom or shortage of cemetery space make burial difficult.

Saturday Masses are now permitted for worshippers who for special reasons cannot attend mass on Sunday.

The next council session will take up two other provocative issues — declarations on religious liberty and on the Catholic attitude toward Jews and other non-Christians.

There are those who say that for all this, Pope Paul is moving more slowly than John. Pope John was a man in a hurry. He was 77 when he became pope. He often said he did not have much time.

But Pope Paul was 65 — eleven years younger than John — when elected. He has every reason to expect more time to bring about what he desires for the church.

Sheppard Is Honored By Guardsmen

CAMP RIPLEY, Minn. (AP) —Missouri National Guardsmen Saturday honored Maj. Gen. A. D. Sheppard, who is retiring soon as the state's adjutant general.

The 4,500 guardsmen, at the mid-point of their annual summer field training, marched in review before General Sheppard and the staff of the 35th Command, Divisional. The general, who plans to retire later this year, also was cited by the National Guard Bureau in Washington for his 42 years of service.

At a reception Friday night, officers of the command presented the general and Mrs. Sheppard with a silver tea service.

General Sheppard, now 67, has directed the operations of the Missouri National Guard the past 13 years. He was appointed assistant adjutant general in 1949 and promoted to adjutant general in October, 1951, after the death of Maj. Gen. John A. Harris.

The general, who has served in the post longer than any other officer, served as an infantry officer in World War I and in World War II served as executive officer of the 134th Infantry Regiment. He received the bronze star with the oak leaf cluster.

One of the original 55 members of the Missouri Highway Patrol when it was organized in 1931, General Sheppard served as a captain and commander of Troop E in southeast Missouri and was named acting patrol superintendent in 1939. He was called to active duty with the Missouri National Guard in 1940.

Symington

States should have as its leader one who recommends withdrawal of this type of support for our elderly and handicapped, for our agriculture, and for the education of our youth.

"If he were ever in a position to carry out these policies, those who owned stocks and bonds could well ask, 'What will happen to our property?'

"And those without the good fortune of such holdings could well ask, 'What will happen to our people?'

"These are the domestic issues as I see them, and as soon as this long session (of Congress) is over, I plan to discuss them further in detail, along with our international problems, all around the state."

Symington stressed that "it is the Democratic party that has backed adequate education, rural electrification, a better deal for the people of agriculture, more housing, slum elimination, and simple justice for those who have reached the afternoon of their lives."

And quoting from Goldwater's published writings, he said the GOP presidential nominee wanted to drop many of these programs.

Among those Sedalians who attended the opening of U. S. Senator Stuart Symington's campaign were Sam Boyle, Dan Robinson, William F. Brown, Jack Curran, Carl Yates, Mike O'Connor, Mr. and Mrs. George Esplin and son Carl Bruce.

Mrs. Kurman Riley, Alma Brauer, Russell McFatrick, Julian H. Bagby, W. C. Corlew, Albert Anderson and Barry Williams.

● Accidents

City parking lot nine, near the intersection of Main and Osage was the scene of a two-car accident at 2:06 p.m. Saturday.

Involved, according to the police accident report, were a 1960 Chevrolet, driven south by Charles W. Ziegelbein, 70, 1801 South Barrett, and a 1956 Oldsmobile, being backed west by Robert S. Parker, 68, Kansas City.

Damage was to the right door of the Chevrolet.

The driver of a car which figured in a one-vehicle accident about 5.9 miles south of Sedalia on the Ingram Avenue road, was injured painfully about 7:55 p.m. Saturday. The driver and owner of the car was James Lee "Tom" White, 30, 1214 South Massachuetts.

White suffered injuries about the mouth, lacerations of the inside of his lip and damage to the front upper and lower teeth. He also had a laceration on the right hand.

According to Trooper Richard Joos, of the State Highway Patrol, White was driving a 1937 Mercury sedan and headed north when the accident occurred. It appeared he came upon a sharp curve in the road too quickly. He applied his brakes and skidded approximately 66 feet before the car went into a side skid and went off the blacktop pavement and down in a small ditch. The car did not turn over.

White was taken to the Bothwell Hospital in a Ewing ambulance where Dr. H. O. Wilbur rendered medical treatment.

The car was towed to Sedalia by Walter Shoemaker's wrecker.

The 100 block of South Ohio was the scene of a two-car accident at 2:47 p.m. Saturday.

Involved were a 1964 Ford, parked by Mary Sue Shelton, Nelson, and a 1956 Ford, driven south on Ohio by Milton A. Boone, 54, Warrensburg.

Damage was to the left rear fender and chrome of the Shelton car and to the right front fender of the Boone car.

Slight confusion as to who was the driver of a 1954 Ford that flipped over on its top in the 1300 block of North Missouri at 3:57 p.m. Saturday resulted in two men receiving police summons for careless and imprudent driving.

Donald E. Robinson, 25, Route 3, Warrensburg, and Willie H. McMinn, 41, Columbia, received the summonses and are to appear in police court, Aug. 14. The car was being driven south when it left the highway.

Damage was to the top of the car.

● Police Reports

Police Officer Edward Laird was dispatched to investigate a routine disturbance call and wound up in a 26-block motor chase about 10 p.m. Friday. The call was to 1709 South Grand. According to reports the incident was as follows:

The officer pulled along side a 1954 Pontiac, occupied by Donald Gibson, 25, Route 2, Bosworth, Mo. After being asked several questions Gibson pulled the car door shut and drove away. The officer pursued him.

With the red light on and the siren being used, the chase proceded north on Grand to Ninth thence west on Ninth to Prospect. At the intersection Gibson started south on Prospect and west to Tenth or 11th. He then went east on Tenth or 11th and proceeded to Missouri. He drove south on Missouri to 17th and east on 17th to Ohio where he was stopped.

Sgt. Perry Franklin blocked the street and together with Officer Laird made the arrest. Gibson was charged with careless and imprudent driving and is to appear in police court, Aug. 18.

Gibson allegedly ran three stop signs and ran at speeds aound 45-50 miles per hour without lights on. No license information could be obtained due to the fact that license plates were not on the car.

Saturday morning after the night in jail, Gibson reported to police that he lost his Missouri License CS1-298. He was released on a toal of $150 signed bond.

● Area Fires

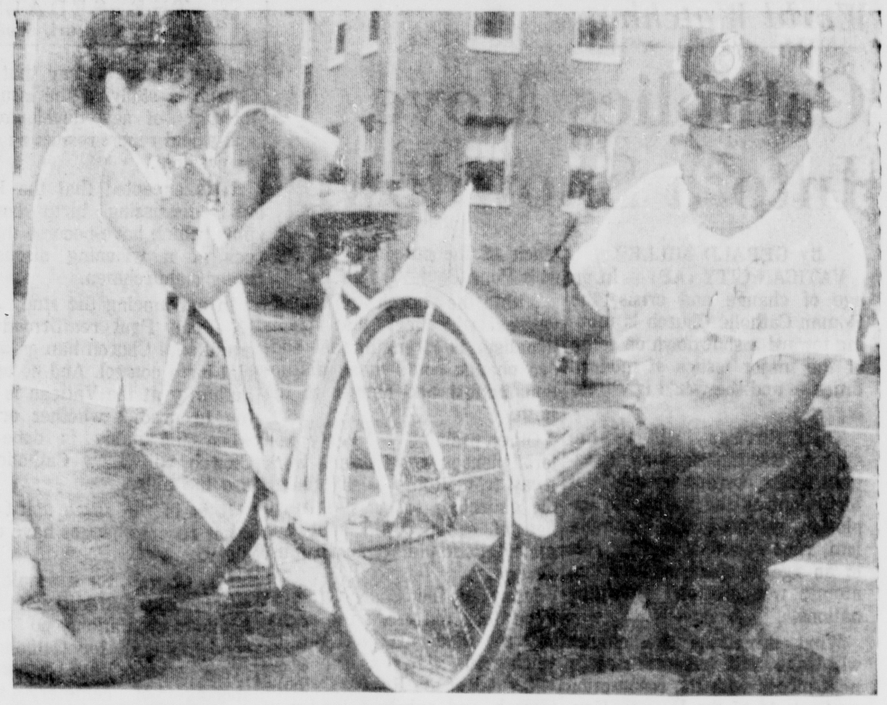
The Pettis County Fire Department made a run to an area one-half mile north of Highway 50 on Route 0 at 4 p.m. Saturday where a gras fire was burning out of control. The fire spread to the Dick Moonsess farm. About ten acres were burned off with damage to fencing being incurred.

The Smithton Fire Department aided the county firemen.

A 1964 Chevrolet sedan belonging to the ITT Kellogg Co., Battle Creek, Mich., was extensively damaged about 7:50 p.m. Saturday when it caught fire as it was being driven on Pettis County Highway C near the Flat Creek bridge.

F. A. Schutte, Route 1, Smithton, to whom the car is assigned, reported it appeared to have caught fire in the heater or wiring to the heater although it was not turned on. The fire burned beneath the dash and on the motor before it could be extinguished.

The Pettis County Fire Department answered the call and used one booster line to put the fire out, while persons on the scene before the firemen tried to kep the flames in check by throwing gravel and dirt over the motor.



SAFETY CHECK—Members of the Sedalia Police Department held a safety check for bicycles and a bicycle rider test for members of Girl Scout Troop 397, Wesley Methodist Church, Thursday morning. Soviet Union Would Help Other Allies

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev interjected a hard line into heretofore restrained Soviet reaction to the Viet Nam crisis Saturday. He warned that the Soviet Union would defend other Communist countries in the event of war.

His remarks on the Viet Nam conflict came as Western leaders began to voice cautious hope that the crisis had blown over.

In a speech at Ordzhonokidze published in the government newspaper Izvestia, Khrushchev vigorously condemned this week's American air attack on Vietnamese military bases as "arbitrary and piratical methods in relations between states."

"We wish to warn all wildmen and half wildmen, normal and abnormal, who do not wish to live in peace and respect the sovereignty of nations not to interfere in the internal affairs of other countries," Khrushchev declared.

"The Soviet Union does not want war," he said, "and is doing everything in order to prevent it. But if the imperialists unleash a war on the Socialist countries, the peoples of the Soviet Union will carry out their sacred duty and will be able to stand up for their country and for other Socialist states."

Khrushchev's remarks were the first mention here since the American retliatory air raid Tuesday of any Soviet commitment to defend other Communist countries in the event of of war. He described the air attack and naval encounters between American and attacking Vietnamese torpedo boats as "aggressive actions against the (North) Vietnamese Democratic Republic."

His tough tone and harsh words contrasted sharply with restrained Soviet reaction earlier in the week. With pressure now somewhat lessened, it was thought Khrushchev decided to interject a harder Russian line in order to head off any Communist Chinese criticism.

Khrushchev spoke at the 40th anniversary celebration of the North Ossetin autonomous republic in the Caucusus Mountains.

Provision Included In Agriculture Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—A provision to give permanent status to the grain market news service in Missouri was included in bill passed by the Senate Saturday.

Sens. Stuart Symington and Edward V. Long, Missouri Democrats, said the service has operated on an experimental basis the last three years.

The provision, added to the House-passed bill by the Senate Agriculture Appropriations subcommittee at the request of the Missouri senators will be considered by a Senate-House conference committee.

The two senators said in a statement that the daily reports in Missouri covering grain markets at terminal markets and country elevators might face discontinuance if not made permanent after the maximum period of experimental operation.

Today's Queens Have Many Talents

Gilbert Youth Service

Back in times past, it wasn't too difficult for a queen to ascend to her throne.

All she needed was an hour-glass figure, an assortment of bathing suits, and a certain amount of composure under the kleig lights.

Now contests for queens have become as extensive and exhaustive as the battery of exams to which the college-bound student is subjected.

Modern queens must be good at everything.

They must be deserving and intelligent. They must be able to create poetry and tasty cakes. They must be well-informed, so they can enter spiritedly into a discussion of American political philosophy. They must be expert homemakers, quick with the needle, and dextrous with the iron.

But in spite of the increasing demands on regal contestants, contests rage unabated. In the recent National College Queen contest, college girls from 50 states toiled outdoors in a strong wind at the World's Fair in New York, ironing little aprons and then donning them to make a skillet casserole.

They participated in forums on economics and photography, took part in a hair-styling competition, set tables, and somehow found time for interviews, a visit to the UN, theater parties and television appearances. When at last the winner, Alice Ruby from Bennington College, was crowned, there was still energy enough left for a ball, with dates from the United States Merchant Marine Academy.

Why do they compete for this title, or to be Miss Teen-Ager, Miss Junior Miss, Miss Magnolia, or Miss Pocono Pines?

There are reasons, good and plenty. The big national contests usually carry college scholarship rewards, even for those who place rather than win.

Fringe benefits abound. There are possibilities of advertising commitments, personal appearances in department stores, modeling in fashion shows and for photographers. Magazines geared to the teen-age audience are always on the lookout for new faces.

Even those who failed to reach the top can count on being feted back in their home states, for local pride is of great importance, and brass bands, and a governor's welcome await the returnee.

WINDBLOWN, but unperturbed, Gloria Marie Barber demonstrates dexterity with a steam iron as part of the many-faceted competition for National College Queen. Gloria Marie, a student at the University of Florida, represented that state.

Canned Goods Save Cookout Work

Grill-top cookery outdoors is a favorite with homemakers. Easy as pie to fix, easy to clean up and delicious is the canny dinner the hostess above is fixing. Beef stew, green peas, baked apples for dessert are heated and served from their cans—eliminating pots and pans.

by Kay Sherwood
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A point made by virtually every family-living expert is that the homemaker is a happier and mentally healthier person if she takes a day off from the household routine now and then.

This is advice with which I heartily concur, particularly as summer lengthens and the weather encourages a languid attitude towards work. In fact, my attitude towards household routine is not only mentally unhealthy—it's positively murderous.

Unless the children are away at camp, however, days off in the summer are hard to come by: Too much overseeing, too many chauffeuring assignments and the brisk schedule of late-afternoon, early-evening events (golf, tennis, baseball, swimming) which means a dinner hour which fluctuates like a yo-yo.

To sooth the way for more time off, we must prune the household routine to the essentials and develop a system for easy dinner service.

An outdoor grill, whether it is a fancy built-in affair or a tabletop hibachi, is a great work-saver. You can almost eliminate dirty pots and pans by utilizing various means of grill-top cookery and you won't heat up the kitchen.

The grilltop cookery offers many more menus than the hamburger-hot dog-steak standbys. One discovery this summer is how good fresh fish is cooked over the coals, accompanied by garden vegetables cooked in individual aluminum foil packets with a sprinking of water and butter or margarine.

Another new discovery is the world of really excellent prepared canned foods. Cans of stew, beef Stroganoff, chili, vegetables or any one of a number of delicacies can be heated up in the can on the grill—the essence of simplicity. The homemaker who told us about these foods advises draining excess water off the vegetables and seasoning them in-the-can.

Be sure to puncture can top, or remove lid, first.

Most of the better canned main dishes will need little, if any, extra seasoning. Boon to the family that eats in shifts is the number of small cans of main dishes which can be heated individually over the coals. For salads, the ease of canned tomato or beet aspic chilled in the refrigerator and ready to slice and serve recommends itself on those nights when you simply don't feel like shredding the lettuce.

Serve on paper plates, if you want to simplify the dishwashing even further.

Birthday Berlin Wall Next Week

BERLIN (AP) — The Red wall dividing Berlin has its third birthday next Thursday. Nobody is rejoicing.

Many in the West think it should have been strangled at birth. It's too late for that now. After three years the wall is bigger and uglier than ever.

The best diplomatic brains of the world have wrestled with the problem of getting rid of it. Nobody has come up with a workable idea.

Western statesmen say it must go. But how, without nuclear war? Communist leaders show signs of discomfort when challenged about it, but for propaganda reasons they stoutly defend it.

Alexei Adzhubei, the editor of the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia and son-in-law of Soviet Premier Khrushchev, reacted angrily when questioned about the wall by a West German newsman in Munich recently. The newsman told him that if the wall fell only three million of East Germany's 17 million population would be left after a short period.

Adzhubei spluttered, complained he was being provoked, and ended the discussion.

Walter Ulbricht, the Communist ruler of East Germany, says the wall will come down "when West German militarism has been rubbed out." By that he means when Communist mastery of all Germany has been achieved.

The two parts of Germany are rigid in their positions. There may have been an easing of relations between Washington and Moscow after signing of the limited nuclear test-ban treaty, but this has not filtered down to Berlin.

As time goes by the Germans seem to be thrust further apart by the wall—a creation of the Communists to screen and mute the economic inequities between East and West, and to prevent escapes from the East.

Bonn's All-German affairs Ministry estimates that since the wall was built in August 1961 at least 71 people have been killed trying to reach the West.

From the wall's birth until the end of July, a total of 17,705 East Germans have risked death to flee to the West, according to the Bonn Refugee Ministry.

Grand Old Man Observes 90th Birthday In Style

By JULES LOH

NEW YORK (AP) — In his 90th year the old Federalist, John Adams, observed that his health was not what it once was but that he still could "walk three miles over a rugged rocky mountain."

On the eve of his 90th birthday Herbert Hoover, the grand old man of the Grand Old Party, would enjoy nothing better.

But there will be no mountain hikes for Herbert Hoover. For several years now he has tramped his beloved fields and fishing streams only in his memory of younger days. But when he celebrates his birthday Monday and joins Adams as the only nonagenarians among former presidents, he will experience once again something denied him in the vigor of his life: A warm and sincere outpouring of affection by his countrymen. To Herbert Clark Hoover, a man his country and even his party once discarded, this must be a joy unmatched even by the exquisite sight of a Mayfly dancing on a trout stream.

He will receive the formal felicitations of the Congress and the President and the flags flown over the Capitol and the White House on that day especially in his honor.

But the light has grown dim in his steel gray eyes. His collar fits loosely around the once thick neck and his health is considerably feebler than that of the robust Adams. He hasn't been out of his Waldorf Towers suite since May 22 a year ago when he got dressed and went downstairs against his doctor's orders to pay honor to the astronaut Gordon Cooper. The exertion was more than he could take and he went right to bed. A few weeks later he fell seriously ill from anemia and internal bleeding.

Hoover now spends his days working a little, but the major work he set out to do when he left the White House, work that as recently as last year matched his own incredible energy with that of eight secretaries and a research staff, is virtually finished. Now he has only two secretaries and seldom sits at his desk.

There is nothing in the imposing suite to remind him of the bitter years.

Many Americans today were unborn, or were babies, during the anguished days of the Great Depression and knew only by hearsay that shanty towns once were called Hoovervilles, newspapers spread over park bench tenants were Hoover blankets and signs carried by bonus marchers said "In Hoover we trusted, now we're busted."

Those who now look at Hoover's life and accomplishments can view them without emotional distraction. They are able to see him not as the architect of the depression, to use the 1932 phrase, but as the engineer of programs that saved more than a billion persons from famine after two great wars, as the head of massive studies that resulted in streamlining government organization, as the dedicated public servant who never has accepted a cent for his services, and as the voluntary head of a dozen educational, charitable and scientific organizations from the Boys Clubs to the World Rehabilitation Fund.

It is one of the ironies of Hoover's life that political partisanship should bring him such grief, because he himself never had a taste for it.

He had held public office in two administrations, Republican and Democratic, and before he ran for the presidency — the only office he ever sought, and that reluctantly — nobody was quite sure what party he belonged to.

He had supported Teddy Roosevelt's Republican bolt in 1912, and during the 1918 congressional campaign urged election of men who would support Woodrow Wilson. When Hoover's name was entered without his permission in the Michigan Democratic primary he drew the largest vote. Franklin D. Roosevelt has been quoted in a letter to Josephus Daniels as saying that "Herbert Hoover is certainly a wonder, and I wish we could make him President of the United States. There could not be a better one."

Hoover never bothered to answer the personal abuse leveled against him. "No man can catch up with a lie," he reasoned. "If the American people wish to believe such things about me, it cannot be helped."

Instead he has contented himself with retirement to what he calls his "comfortable monastery" in the Waldorf and busies himself with writing his memoirs, his well received "The Ordeal of Woodrow Wilson," his massive four-volume account of his relief work, and a historical work yet to be published.

Hoover regards his pipe as a barometer of his health. Two years ago when surgeons removed a malignant tumor, he was up in bed a few days after the operation and asked apprehensively for his pipe. The nurse asked the doctor and the doctor said all right. Hoover fired up and announced with satisfaction through a billow of smoke, "We're back in business."

Hoover has little patience with those who take their lives too seriously. His favorite testament, one from a Boys Club that says simply: "Herbert Hoover is a good egg." Recently he got a chuckle when a sixth grade class in Enid, Okla., named a pet ground squirrel Mr. Hoover, then discovered it was a girl. One of his favorite stories is about a youngster years ago who asked him for three autographs, explaining it took two Hoovers to get one Babe Ruth.

Hoover writes everything, from ponderous books to letters to children, in longhand with a pencil. Typewriters, dictating machines, even ball point pens, he says, are "stimulants to verbosity."

Seven years ago when he went out to Independence, Mo., to help dedicate the library of one of his warmest friends, Harry Truman, a local matron fluttered up and asked what ex-presidents do when they retire.

"Madam," said Hoover, "we spend our time taking pills and dedicating libraries."

But the joke didn't apply to Hoover. He maintains stoutly that no one should retire from work or he "will shrivel up into a nuisance, talking to everybody about pains and pills and income tax." He has said, "when I'm not working, I get tired of myself."

Miss Stauffacher To All-States Scout Encampment

Miss Cynthia Stauffacher, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. Gordon Stauffacher, left Friday night for Camp River Ranch outside of Carnation, Wash., to attend one of the five All-States Girl Scout encampments. The other four encampments are being held at Elizabethton, Tenn., Twin Lake, Mich.; Redwood City, Calif. and Conowingo, Md.

Cynthia has had considerable camping experience, six years of attendance at the two week camp at Camp Pin Oak in the Lake of the Ozarks State Park and last year in the Outpost unit. She has served as a Program Aide at Sakajawea Day Camp and Troop Camp. In June Cynthia took her first year Counselor-In-Training at Oakledge Camp in the Kansas City Council.

experience, school and social club activities, scouting experience, knowledge of foreign languages and certificates and awards earned. In a personal interview, personality and poise are evaluated.

After being selected Cynthia was informed what books she should read and be familiar with and what to take with her. At All-States, Aug. 10-26, the first week will be spent in reviewing and learning skills and the second week in carrying out their project which is training leaders and their troops for the out-of-doors. At the end of the project the work will be evaluated.

Cynthia's advisor in Sedalia is Mrs. George T. Lockett. Her troop leader is Mrs. Ted Wells.

Ike's High Opinion of the Press

By BOYD LEWIS
President
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

GETTYSBURG, Pa. — (NEA) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower doesn't want to name the "sensation-seeking columnists and commentators" he criticiized at the Republican National Convention, but he wants it known that he has the highest respect for the press as an institution.

He made this clear in answer to a request by this writer for clarification of his widely discussed comment, which touched off a raucous demonstration against newspaper reporters and broadcasters at the San Francisco Cow Palace. The following day Richard Nixon was cheered at the convention for remarks critical of the press.

General Eisenhower suggested that persons who took his words to be critical of the "bulk of the press personnel" might have been motivated by "some feelings of guilt." He did not spell these out.

The press, General Eisenhower said, ranks with the school system "in its importance as a defender of our freedom and our free institutions." Press and schools, he said, are "two indispensable factors in a self-governing society."

I wrote to General Eisenhower on July 24 after returning to New York from San Francisco, explaining that I did so as a former war correspondent accredited to his SHAEF headquarters during World War II and one who had been familiar with his real views of the press as they had developed in later years.

"My purpose," I told him, is to ask if you would be willing to clarify a statement made during your address to the Republican Convention in San Francisco which dismayed me and many of my colleagues. It is your reference to 'sensation-seeking columnists and commentators.'

"From almost any lips but yours," I continued, "This phraseology might have gone into the convention limbo along with the partisan banners and placards. But when the revered General Eisenhower uttered them many delegates stood screaming and shaking fists at the press benches. It was obvious to these that all of the reporters were 'columnists and commentators' and all of the columnists and commentators were 'sensation-seeking.' . . .

"It was obvious to anyone watching your reaction to the explosion on the floor that you had no intent to bare the teeth of extremists against the press, which, in measure far from mean, had given you and your causes friendship and support over many years."

I asked the General if he would care to tell what he "really thinks about the free press" so that I might quote him in a message to a group of picked newsboys from all over the country who are in Washington on "Operation Enterprise." Tonight it will be my pleasure to read General Eisenhower's letter to these ace newspaper delivery boys at a dinner in the National Press Club climaxing a week of visits to government and defense installations.

Mr. Eisenhower's amended record makes a suitable text for one seeking to encourage outstanding carrier boys to pursue a career of public service in journalism.

I ended my letter by saying "I cannot believe that you would want to leave the record unaltered."

The General's letter, dated July 31, 1964, makes it clear that he did not. His complete letter follows:

"Dear Mr. Lewis:

"You, yourself, quoted the words I used to differentiate from the mass of the newspaper world and the relatively few individuals to whom I adverted in my convention talk.

"I did not mention reporters, photographers and all the others that have participated in the establishment and the maintenance of a press coverage in the United States that is the envy of the world.

"Since I never engage in personalities when I find it necessary to criticize, I went so far as I possibly could (without naming names) of defining the people who I said 'could not care less about the good of our Party.'

"My respect and admiration for the bulk of the American press has so often been expressed publicly that it would seem almost redundant for me to have to repeat them. If anything stands higher than the press in its importance as a defender of our freedom and our free institutions, it is our school system; indeed, I am not sure that such a distinction should be made between these two indispensable factors in a self-governing society.

"On the personal side, the great bulk of the press has treated me considerately, even generously. Consequently I feel that it is only those who have some feeling of guilt who have tried to interpret my words as strictures against the bulk of the press personnel.

"Incidentally, I note that you refer to your association with me throughout the war in Europe and later at Columbia University. I am sure that you have found in your memory many words of mine spoken in tribute to men of the press; quite often I referred to them in Europe as 'quasi-staff officers of my headquarters.' I can scarcely think of any words that could, in my estimation, refer to them in more complimentary terms.

"I hope that this letter will clarify for you my thinking and interest in the matter.

"With best wishes,
Sincerely,
(Signed)
Dwight D. Eisenhower."

Woman Paints Fire Hydrant; City Objects

BINGHAMTON (AP) — Roses are red, fire hydrants too, and in the city of Binghamton, no other hue will do.

That's what Mrs. Charles Bachovchin learned after she painted the fire hydrant in front of her home an orchid color.

Mrs. Bachovchin likes orchid. Her porch furniture and petunias are that color.

But city officials informed her she had violated a water department regulation. The penalty could be a $25 fine, 25 days in jail, or both.

They indicated they would drop any plans for prosecution — if she would drop the paint brush.

Gauchos are the free-spirited vagabond herders of cattle who flourished in the unfenced pampas, or grasslands, of Argentina, Uruguay and Paraguay from the 18th century until late in the 19th. The halfbreed offspring of Spanish and Indians (mestizo) found a way of life by preying on the wild cattle for meat and hides.

Favors 'Little Federal System,' In Fear Rural Areas Will Suffer

"If an amendment is not added to the United States Constitution for ratification by the statee whereby the states will have the right to have a 'Little Federal system—one house based on population, the other on geography'," states Olen Monsees, a Sedalian and presidentof the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation, "then rural Missouri will have lost equal and fair legislative representation.

"The recent action by the Senate Judiciary Committee, headby Senator Everett Dirksen, in approving a bill which would delay the Supreme Court action for two years is a tremendous thing in that it will give the states ample time to properly get through an amendment for ratification."

Monsees' endorsement contains the following reasoning:

Far-reaching changes in the American system of government will be the result of a decision by the United States Supreme Court forcing the states to reapportion both houses of their legislatures on a population basis.

Heretofore, the Constitution of the U. S. has been the model for state constitutions — one house being set up according to population; one house, like the U. S. Senate, according to their considerations, principally geographic.

On June 15th the U. S. Supreme Court handed down a series of opinions that will mean the end of our present Federal-State system here in Missouri, unless Congress passed an amendment to the constitution for ratification by the states to restore our constitutional system of division of powers and checks and balances, as set up by the constitutional framers.

Chief Justice Warren, in delivering the majority opinion of the Court, indicated that states are not entitled to have a "Little Federal" system such as we now have. Rather, he said, states must see that they have legilsative districts in "both Houses of its Legislature as nearly of equal population as is practicable."

This is all rather confusing and in conflict with Earl Warren's attitude 14 years ago when he was governor of California, at which time he denounced the "one-man, one-vote" system, stating:

"Many counties are far more important in the life of the state than their population bears to the entire population of the state. It is for this reason that I have never been in favor of restricting their representation in the Senate to a strictly population basis."

Basically, what will happen will be members of the House will be elected on a population basis, rather than geography as they are now. Our most populous areas are located near our metropolitan cities, and a majority of our representation will of necessity be form these areas. As a result, the varied agricultural interests of this state will not represented by virtue of a less populous area.

Even though fewer and fewer Missourians live on farms, agriculture is the resource base of a huge industry and should be represented in our state legislature. Agriculture is Missouri's largest single industry — over one and a quarter billion dollars annually. Many persons have commented, including the Governor, that most good legislation can be attributed to rural legislators.

Reapportionment on this basis could result in the destruction of the two-party system, and this could produce, in effect, a unicameral legislature with the added disadvantage of having two bodies operating therein.

In the big-city states, this means ultimate control by the big-city bosses—New York City would rule New York state, Detroit would rule Michigan; Chicago would rule Illinois, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh would control Pennsylvania; Los Angeles and San Francisco would control California; and St. Louis and Kansas City would control Missouri.

There are amendments before Congress which would permit one house to be apportioned on other than population factors, providing the proposal is approved by the voters.

Here is what has been done here in Missouri prior to the U. S. Supreme Court decision—two suits have been filed in the United States District Courts of St. Louis and Kansas City by individuals to force reapportionment of the Missouri House of Represenatives and the State Senate to provide greater representation for urban areas.

The case will be tried in Kansas City, due to the fact that the suit filed there covers both the House and the Senate; while the St. Louis suit covers only the House. The Missouri Farm Bureau Federation has intervened in support of Missouri's present system. However, due to the June 15th decision of the High Court, the U. S. District Court will certainly rule in favor of forced reapportionment of both houses to provide greater representation for urban areas.

"This bill approved by the Senate Judiciary Committee," concludes Monsees, "is certainly welcome news to rural Missouri and we feel full support should be given Senator Dirksen's proposal."

Goulet Says He Was Flop In First Film

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Robert Goulet, a candid fellow, admits that he was a flop in his first movie.

The singing star of Broadway's "Camelot" appeared to be a natural for the movies.

"I goofed," he says. "I turned down 'The Unsinkable Molly Brown" and took 'Honeymoon Hotel' instead. I didn't want to start out in movies singing. I wanted to prove I could act.

"So the critics told me I should have stuck with singing. I don't know what went wrong.

"So far I haven't seen 'Honeymoon Hotel' but I've read all the reviews. I don't want to knock the picture — just myself."

Goulet learns from mistakes. There's an improvement in his second movie, "I'd Rather Be Rich."

"But I'm looking now for a good singing role," says Goulet. "Straight acting is tougher than I figured."

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Red Skelton proved to 14,000 people in Casper, Wyo., what makes a star great.

Halfway through the show, he emptied his shoes of water.

"I really shouldn't have done that — this is the first fresh water they've had in Wyoming in months."

The crowd, reacting to hot, dry spell which the rain ended, gave Red a standing ovation. A friend of Skelton's in the audience said most of the audience sat in an uncovered section and stayed with Red to the soaking end.

"For that many people, I would have done my act in a blizzard," Red said.

30 Are Stranded On Ferris Wheel

PAOLA, Kan. (AP)—About 30 persons were stranded on a ferris wheel for an hour Friday night after a cable broke, leaving the wheel without power.

Most of the crowd at the Miami County fair ignored other attractions and gathered to watch firemen lift the riders from their swaying seats. Firemen used a truck with a bucket on a long boom.

When the cable broke, it lashed the legs of the wheel operator, Robert Schafer, 25, of Kansas City, Kan. Despite severe bruises, Schafer slammed on the brake and stopped the wheel.

Carnival workers then blocked the wheel with planks so it could not turn during the rescue.

"Those people on the wheel were brave and sat still," said Scharader Jones, a fair official. "It was sort of risky when they got out of the swaying seats into the buckets. Some of them cried when they got down on the ground."

Say Aerial Attack Might Lead to War

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Greek Defense minister Peter Garoufalias said today that Turkey's "unjustified aerial attack" on a Cyprus village Friday had created "a highly dangerous situation which might lead to war."

Garoufalias issued the statement as the chiefs of the Greek armed forces met to consider the military implications of the new crisis.

Garoufalias said the flight was an action provoking tension and simultaneously creates a highly dangerous situation which might lead to war."

Tigers 4, Athletics 3

DETROIT (AP)—Jake Wood's pinch-hit single in the 13th inning scored Bill Freehan and gave the Detroit Tigers a 4-3 victory over the Kansas City Athletics Saturday.

Freehan led off the inning with a single off Ken Sanders, the fifth Kansas City pitcher, and advanced to second on Dick McAuliffe's sacrifice bunt. After an intentional walk to Norm Cash, Wood batted for reliever Fred Gladding and lined a hit to left field to break up the extra inning duel.

Gladding blanked the Athletics over the last four innings and picked up his fifth victory in six decisions.

The Athletics had tied the score in the ninth when Dick Green singled off Tiger starter Dave Wickersham, took second on a sacrifice bunt and tallied on Wayne Causey's two-out single.

White Sox 9, Red Sox 2

CHICAGO (AP)—The normally light-hitting Chicago White Sox erupted for five runs in the second inning and three more in the third, and rookie Fred Talbot coasted home for a 9-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox Saturday.

The victory was the 11th in 13 games for Chicago over Boston this season.

Talbot didn't alow a base runner until he had an eight-run lead, nor a run until Tony Horten and Dick Williams hit back-to back home runs with one out in the ninth.

Talbot drove in the first run of the game with a wind-blown double in the second inning. Floyd Robinson singled in two more runs, and Don Buford and Moose Skowron each drove in men in the big second.

Indians 16, Twins 8

CLEVELAND (AP) — Fred Whitfitld drove in five runs on a home run and two singles and reliever Gary Bell checked a six-run uprising as the Cleveland Indians trounced the Minnesota Twins 16-8 Saturday.

The Tribe batted around twice in the slugfest, sending 10 men to the plate in a five-run second and again in the six-run sixth innings. It was the Indians' fourth victory in a row and ninth in the last 11 games. They blasted Minnesota pitchers in a 16-hit attack. Cleveland's run total was its highest in seven years.

Bell replaced starter Dick Donovan in the fifth with one out and none on after the Twins had scored five runs on homers by rookie Tony Oliva and Jimmie Hall. The Cleveland right-hander yielded a solo homer to Bob Allison, then ended the threat.

Whitfield hit his sixth homer of the season off ex-Indian Jim Grant in the first with one on. The Cleveland first baseman whacked a two-run single in the second and knocked in another run in the fifth.

Orioles 6, Yankees 5

NEW YORK (AP) — Rookie outfielter Sam Bowens' 10th inning home run powered the Baltimore Orioles to a 6-5 triumph and their second straight victory over the New York Yankees before the American League's largest crowd of the season Satorday.

A crowd of 52,796, largely attracted by the annual Old Timers Day ceremonies, saw Bowens break a 5-5 tie with a two-out line drive into the lower left field stands on a 1-1 pitch by relief pitcher Hal Reniff.

The victory widened the Orioles lead to two games over the Yankees, who fell into third place one-half game behind the Chicago White Sox, who defeated Boston 9-2.

Baltimore and New York conclude their four-game series with a doubleheader Sunday.

The homer, No. 13 of the season for Bowens, was his third hit of the game. Previously he doubled and singled, scoring in the fifth on a sacrifice fly by Dick Brown, and again in the seventh on a home run by Earl Robinson.

The Orioles, trailing 2-1, had gone ahead in the seventh, scoring four runs to knock out Roland Sheldon and take a 5-2 lead.

The Yankees drew even, scoring a run in their half of the seventh on Joe Pepitone's 16th home run and two more in the eighth when with two out, Stu Miller hit Phil Linz with a pitch and Bobby Richardson followed with his fourth homer of the campaign.

Whitey Ford, the Yankees' ailing southpaw, and Milt Pappas, Baltimore's star right-hander, were the starters but but neither was involved in the decision.

Women Bowlers Preparing For Fall And Winter

The Sedalia Woman's Bowling Association, even in this warm weather, is preparing for the coming fall and winter. A meeting of the executive board has been called for Tuesday, Aug. 11, at the Chamber of Commerce offices starting at 7:30 p.m.

All presidents of the fall leagues are urged to attend, and if unable to do so individually, each is requested to send a representative to represent that particular league.

The annual meeting of the Woman's Bowling Association has been called for Saturday, Aug. 15, in the Assembly Room of the Pettis County Court House. This meeting is scheduled to get underway at 7:30 p.m.

All members of the association are requested to be present. At this meeting city tournament plans will be up for discussion.

Three-Way Tie In Horseshoe Tourney Play

A three-way tie resulted for first place in the weekly horseshoe tournament Thursday at Liberty Park. The tie was between Sam Harlan, Wayne Troutwein, Kansas City, and Bud Beard, all who won eight games and lost one. The win was credited to Harlan, however, according to the number of points on his losing game. Troutwein was second and Beard was third.

Others competing were Wayne Winston, fourth, 6-3; Bud Larson, fifth, 5-4; Logan Wulff, sixth, 4-5; Al Kroenke, seventh, 2-7; C. Martin, eighth, 2-7; E. Carr, ninth, 2-7; V. Abney, tenth, 0-9.

The public is cordially invited to come and participate in the weekly horseshoe contests which are held on Thursday night at Liberty Park.

Colts 4, Cardinals 3

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Reliever Jim Owens snuffed out an eighth inning St. Louis rally with two strikeouts Saturday night and the Houston Colts edged the Cardinals 4-3.

Owens, third Colt pitcher in the inning, came on after the Cardinals had rallied on Ken Boyer's two-run homer and had put the potential tying and go-ahead runs on base. He ended the threat by fanning pinch hitters Dal Maxvill and Mike Shannon, then set the Cards down in the ninth.

Dave Roberts' two-run triple in the second inning off loser Ron Taylor, who was making his first start after 44 appearanies in relief, and a two-run seventh gave the Colts a 4-1 lead before the Cardinals struck back against Don Nottebart and Hal Woodeshick in the eighth.

Bill White, who had extended his hitting streak to 16 games with a first inning single, led off with his third hit, a double to right field. Boyer followed with his 16th homer and Woodeshick replaced Nottebart. After Dick Groat flied out, singles by Carl Warwick and Tim McCarver chased Woodeshick and brought Owens to the rescue.

The Cardinals threatened again in the ninth when Curt Flood walked and advanced to third on a sacrifice and wild pitch but Owens got Boyer on a grounder to short to end the game.

Singles by Jerry Grote, Al Spangler and Joe Gaines around a walk to Nellie Fox produced the Colt runs in the seventh. Roberts tripled after singles by Walt Bond and Bob Aspromonte, driving in the first two Houston runs.

Julian Javier knocked in the Cards' first run with a fourth inning single.

PHILADELPHIA AP — The National League-leading Philadelphia Phils continued to feast on the last-place New York Mets Saturday as they rode an eight-run fifth inning to a 12-5 victory.

It boosted the Phils' lead temporarily to three games over San Francisco and 4½ over Cincinnati. The Giants and Reds played a night game at Cincinnati.

Six of the eight Philadelphia runs in the big fifth were unearned, as the Mets contributed two of their four errors during the rally. Twelve Phils batted.

Ruben Amaro drove in three with his third homer and Wes Covington got two hits in the inning, a double and a single.

Giants 1, Reds 0

CINCINNATI (AP) — Gaylord Perry blanked Cincinnati on two hits and Willie Mays drove in the only run with a sixth inning triple as the San Francisco Giants nipped the Reds 1-0 Saturday night.

The victory kept the Giants 2½ games behind the National League-leading Philadelphia Phillies, who beat the New York Mets in an afternoon game, and dropped third-place Cincinnati 5½ games off the pace.

Perry faced only 30 batters in evening his season record at 8-8. He gave up singles to Vada Pinson, in the fourth inning, and to pinch hitter Mel Queen, leading off in the ninth.

The only other Red to reach base was Johnny Edwards, who got aboard in the second inning when Hal Lanier booted his ground ball. The San Francisco right-hander struck out seven and didn't walk anyone.

Southpaw Joe Nuxhall matched shutout innings with Perry until the sixth when Willie McCovey singled and Mays tripled to center field. The Giants collected eight hits off Nuxhall, who dropped his seventh game in 15 decisions.

Dodgers 5, Braves 4

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Ron Fairly's triple with the bases loaded sparked a four-run fifth inning uprising and carried Sandy Koufax and the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 5-4 victory over the Milwaukee Braves Saturday.

Koufax withstood a late Milwaukee counterattack and gained his 17th triumph against five defeats.

En route to his victory Koufax set a National League record—striking out 200 or more batters for the fourth straight season. He fanned nine all told, running his season total to an even 200.

Tony Cloninger was the losing pitcher. He carried a 2-1 lead into the fifth, then ran into a volley of four hits which sent him to his shower and netted the Dodgers four runs.

Tommy Davis completed the rally with a single, which extended his hitting streak to 20 games and tied the major league season high shared by Willie Mays of San Francisco and Ed Bressoud of Boston.

A crowd of 17,647 raised the Braves' home attendance to 676,989, a gain of 206,663 over last season.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Home runs by Bob Bailey and Gene Freese backed up Bob Veale's seven-hit pitching in Pittsburgh's 5-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs Saturday.

Bill Mazeroski and Veale were on base with singles when Bailey blasted his homer after two were out in the fifth inning, putting the Pirates ahead 3-2.

Freese connected for his homer with Manny Mota on base in the sixth.

The Cubs got three of their hits and both of their runs in the first inning. Joe Amalfitano and Leo Burke opened with singles. Then, with one out, Ron Santo walked and Ernie Banks hit a two-run single.

Sports Scraps

By D. KELLY SCRUTON

LAST week I compared politics with sports. I still contend it is a great and vitally important sporting event. It compares with horse and auto racing in that it takes a team and team work to produce a winner. In the race at hand the first heat is over and now the winner must reorganize his team for the BIG EVENT of Tuesday, November 3rd. This is the feature event and promises to be a "dilly."

The stable boys, trainers and mechanics of the racer have their chores laid out before them. They, as trainers and mechanics, must get their favorite ready for the BIG EVENT.

It's a cinch both competitors are going to be bidding for their opponent's "thunder," for the winner must be a crowd pleaser if he is to get the votes on his side.

They will also be bidding hard for the support of the backers of their opponents in the "heat" or "primary" event. Some of the losing supporters took it hard, others took it with grace, and now that the August "heat" is over, they are hopeful their opponent's backers will fall in line. Some will, some will not, but nevertheless Missourians are in for another fanfare of publicity for each contender.

Not bragging or gloating, the entry I rode "all-the-way" did finish the Democratic primary first, and I personally hope that Secretary of State Warren E. Hearnes, will have the backing of all the voters in the final run.

A week ago a former Smith-Cotton High School star athlete and a good friend of mine passed on to a better world and his just reward. Thomas P. "Dolly" Farris, was a real sportsman in his day and he had the respect of his school mates in Smith-Cotton High School, and in later years maintained that respect along with youngsters coming up.

I knew "Dolly" back in the depression days in the 1930's. Things were rather gloomy and when the NYA was started, a director was needed for Sedalia. "Dolly" was recommended and he put on a program for the Sedalia youth at the old Y.M.C.A. building, Fifth and Lamine. He was to it many Sedalia boys enjoyed those hours of recreation in the old gym.

Our contacts became closer as he more-or-less helped the Golden Gloves in 1940 and the last year of 1941 when the shadows of World War II were upon us. Through his efforts we were able to hold our last Golden Glove tournament in January of 1942.

Later he entered in the insurance business which he followed until his health began failing several years ago. But he still would stop on the street and talk with some of those youngsters, now grown men, with whom he worked during his recreational days in the NYA, as well as with school chums of the early 30's.

He had many many friends —to which can be attested by the callers during his illness.

He wil be missed, not only by his devoted wife, and fine son Tom, Jr., but his many friends.

THE Missouri State Fishing Tournament, the third annual event, is slated for September 25-27, it has been announced by the Mo-Ark-Lakes, Inc., Branson, Mo. The novelity of it all is that contestants will fish one day on each of the three lakes, Bull Shoals, Table Rock and Taneycomo.

Scoring will be on the following species: black bass, rainbow trout, channel catfish, crappie, white bass, walleye and perch-types. Limits will be in accordance with the regulations of the Missouri Conservation Commission, except that perch-types will be limited to 30 per day. Winners will be determined by their accumulated score at the end of the third day.

Any angler in the continental United States will be eligible to compete, by purchasing an entry ticket.

Copies of the regulations of the tournament can be obtained from either Bill Hoke, 500 North Sycamore, Branson, or Gene Gideon, Branson.

It was interesting to note the past few days several area fishermen were "warming up" on trout. George Whitman, 422 East Fifth, Sedalia; John Harvey, Route 1, Green Ridge; W. J. Eickhoss, Alma; Mr. and Mrs. C. Gillum, Deepwater.

I expect there were many other Sedalians on one of the three lakes recently, but for some reason they kept it a secret, as they were not listed in the news release of the Mo - Ark Enterprises, at Branson.

If you go, at least let us know what you got — big or little ones.

Mrs. Simmons Scores Hole-In-One Saturday

Mrs. Kathryn H. "Tats" Simmons, 2306 First Street Terrace, scored a hole-in-one Saturday morning on the Sedalia Country Club golf course. Mrs. Simmons had her ace on big "dinky" number six hole which is about 130 yards from the woman's tee to the green.

She was playing with Mrs. Jean Routszong and Mrs. Hazel Brown when it happened.

Before making her shot on number six, she borrowed Mrs. Brown's number five wood, and made the perfect swing.

Mrs. Simmons is the first woman for some time to report an "ace" at the local club.

Babe Ruth Championship Playoffs To Start Monday

The Babe Ruth League championship playoffs will start Aug. 10, with the National League winners, New Car Dealers, playing the American League winners, Adco, in the opener at 7:30 p.m. The playoffs will be a best two out of three game series. The second games will be played Aug. 11, at 7:30 p.m. A third game, if needed, will be scheduled for Aug. 12.

The presentation of trophies to the winner of each league will be Monday evening after the games.

After Tuesday's games the trophies for the rookie of the year, most valuable player, batting champion and the team sportsmanship awards will be made.

The past week's results are as follows:

Monday's competition saw Adco take Rotary 21-1, and Walkers down Browns 12-7. Adco had 21 runs, nine hits, and no errors. Rotary tallied one run, no hits and seven errors. Walkers had 12 runs on nine hits and two errors while Browns had seven runs on six and four errors.

Tuesday's action saw New Car Dealers defeat Walkers 9-1 ar Machinist down Rotary 9-1. The New Car Dealers had nine runs on eight hits and committed no errors. Walkers tallied one run on thre hits and made two errors. The Machinist scored nine runs on four hits and one error, as Rotary tallied one run on two hits and committed no errors.

Wednesday's play saw the Optimist take S & M by forfeit due to the fact that S & M could not field a team. Team Five downed Western Auto 9-8. They scored nine runs on seven hits and three errors, while Western Auto took eight runs on 11 hits and committed one error.

Fulton Team To Play In First Game

WICHITA, Kan. (Special) Aug. 8 — Defending champion Wichita (Kan.) Dreamliners will clash with the Fulton Sports, Missouri titlists, in one of the two games which open the 30th annual National Baseball Congress Tournament in Wichita Friday night at 9:15 p.m.

In the opening game at 6:30 p.m. the Arkansas and Colorado champions are scheduled to collide. They will be determined by the outcome of state tournaments at Ft. Smith, Ark., and Hugo, Colo.

The winners of these two games are scheduled in a second round contest in this double elimination tournament Sunday at 7:45 p.m., part of a five-game program that day.

Baseball great Stan Musial is to be honored by the National Baseball Congress in ceremonies between Friday's opening games at 8:30 p.m.

Six teams will be scheduled for initial appearances Saturday night in three games, starting at 5:30. These participants will represent four state champions already determined, Watkins, Iowa; Brandon, Neb.; Coyle, Okla. and Chicago (Ill.) Saxtons, in addition to teams not yet certified — the winners of the New Mexico state tournament at Albuquerque and the Dixie All-Negro series at New Orleans, La.

Half the field, 16 teams, have been processed into national competition with the remainder to be determined by the outcome of state tourneys and bi-state playoffs.

Other teams which have already won their way to the National Tournament include the Fairbanks (Alaska) Goldpanners, Ponchatoula (La.) A's, Nassau (Bahamas) Islanders, Fallon (Nev.) Merchants, Girard (Pa.) Fords, Gibsonton (Fla.) Chiefs, Wichita (Kan.) Service Auto Glass, Eureka (Calif.) Humboldt Crabs, Milwaukee (Wis.) Falks and Cotuit (Mass.) Kettleers.

Girls' Khoury League Action Nearing An End

Girls' Khoury league softball season is drawing near an end, with some of the action slated to be completed this week.

In action at Liberty Park Friday night, the Beatles downed the Fillies in a chic league contest, 13-11.

Barbara Davis hit the lone homer of the game for the Fillies in the seventh with the bases loaded.

Pitching duties for the Fillies were sharped by Debby Vansell with one strike out and Barbara Davis, who fanned six. Doreen Soanka took the win for the Beatles with six strikeouts.

Shepley Will Confer With GOP Candidates

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Ethan Shepley, Republican nominee for governor, will confer with GOP candidates for the state legislature Monday in Jefferson City.

Shepley and Jean Paul Bradshaw of Springfield, the GOP nominee for U.S. senator, will host the meeting at the Missouri House chamber.

Spokesmen for Shepley said he would fly Tuesday to Hershey, Pa. for a public meeting on behalf of GOP presidential candidate, Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater.

Thursday and Friday, Shepley will campaign in southwestern Missouri. He will appear at the Ozark Empire Fair in Springfield Saturday.

Bears Gain Victory Over Collegians

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Bears switched tactics in gaining a 28-17 victory over the College All-Stars before a crowd of 65,000 in Soldier Field Friday night.

They experienced more difficulty in defensing the All-Stars than they did most of their additional Football League foes, but they also indicated they will have more punch when they open defense of their league championship.

Trailing 10-7 at the half, the Bears unloaded a strong passing game in the second half and overcame the collegians, who played even beyond the expectations of Coach Otto Graham.

The Bears rolled up 371 yards with 287 coming on passing. Three of their touchdowns were direct strikes through the air and their fourth was set up on a 39-yard pass, after which quarterback Bill Wade stepped over from the one-yard line for the score.

While the Bears were concentrating on offense, their tremendous defense which carried them to last year's title sagged a bit under the efforts of Chuck Taylor, a brilliant halfback from Arizona State who will play with the Washington Redskins, and quarterback George Mira, the scrambler from Miami of Florida, who is headed for the San Francisco 49ers.

George Allen, the architect of the bear defense, praised the All-Stars for their splendid showing.

Taylor not only utilized his speed but was a standout in every respect. He took a 29-yard pass from Pete Beathard of Southern California in the second quarter and two plays later ripped off a nine-yard gain that helped set up a 14-yard field goal by Dick Van Raaphorst of Ohio State. That gave the All-Stars a 3-0 lead.

After the Bears had taken a 7-3 lead, the touchdown coming on a Wade to Mike Ditka 12-yard pass, Taylor took a pitchout from Mira and heaved a 14-yard touchdown pass to Ted Davis of Georgia Tech, leading the All-Stars to a 10-7 halftime edge.

The All-Stars then yielded to the Bear attack which pulled the Chicagoans into a 28-10 lead before Mira flipped a five-yard touchdown pass in the final minute of the game.

"Our mistakes beat us," said Graham. "Their last two touchdowns came after a fumble and an interception. The Bears didn't beat us. We beat ourselves."

Raiders Meet Kansas City Chiefs Today

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—The American Football League's upset team of 1963 will collide with the league's biggest flop of last season when the Oakland Raiders meet the Kansas City Chiefs Sunday at Frank Youell Field.

The Raiders, AFL doormats for the two previous seasons, stunned the league last year by compiling a 10-4 record and placing second in the Western Division.

The Chiefs, defending AFL champions, skidded to a 5-5-2 record, with two of those losses to the Raiders.

But in Sunday's exhibition game, the Chiefs are favored. The reason can be summed up in two words—mental attitude.

"After winning the title, we got complacent," says Coach Hank Stram. "Now we're hungry again."

Abner Haynes, the speedy exhalfback who set a league record with 21 touchdowns in 1962, will be making his debut as a flanker in place of the injured Chris Burford of the Chiefs.

120 Girls Will Tee Off In National Meet

LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (AP) —A field of 120 girls will tee off Monday for the annual National Junior Girl's golf tournament at the Leavenworth Country Club.

Heading the list of contenders are the four semifinalists from last year: Janet Ferraris, 17-year-old San Francisco girl who is the defending champion; Peggy Conley, Spokane, Wash., the runnerup; Jacqueline Fladoos, Dubuque, Iowa, and Roberta Albers, Temple Terrace, Fla.

Miss Ferraris came here from Waukegan, Ill., where she won the Women's Western Junior golf title. Miss Conley was the runnerup.

The 120 players represent 29 states and Canada and among them are many state champions. One is Miss Jakie Evans, 15, of Topeka, who won her second consecutive Kansas crown earlier this week at Emporia. Another is Sue Asher, Rolla, who won the Missouri title last Tuesday.

The tournament will end Aug. 15.

Much Action In Womens' State Ball Tourney

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — Barnes of Springfield, Merchanettes of St. Joseph, Bethany C.T. and High Point won day games Saturday in the Missouri Women's softball tournament.

Patty Jobe of High Point pitched Bluejays blanked Tri-C of Conception 6-0 in a regulation seven-inning game.

Barnes easily defeated Henderson of St. Joseph 10-4. Sherry Evans of Springfield hit two singles and a triple.

The top-seeded Merchanettes trimmed the Columbia Stars 9-3.

Bethany ran over the D. and R. Tigerettes of Rushville 15-0. Dorothy Clutter hit two home runs, one a grand slam, for Bethany.

In the losers' bracket Easton defeated Weston Bobb-sox 3-0, and Ravenwood downed Tarkio 2-1.

The semifinals will be played Sunday afternoon, the Finals Ssunday night.

Lou Fette Visits New York City; Plays In Anniversary Game

Lou Fette, former major league pitcher, has returned to his home in Warrensburg after several days visit to New York City with his family. The purpose of his trip was to play in the 25th anniversary game of the 1939 All-Stars.

Fette was invited to New York by the Mets and the game was played as a two-inning preliminary contest to the Mets and the Milwaukee Braves.

It was a wonderful visit according to Fette, who visited with his old manager, Casey Stengel, who managed the Boston Braves when Fette played with them. He also visited with one of the old "Gas House Gang" of the St. Louis Cards, Joe Medwich, and Johnny Vander Meer.

They visited the New York World's Fair, also at Nigara Falls, and in Washington, D.C., where they visited the grave of the late President John F. Kennedy. Fette was accompanied by Mrs. Fette and their two daughters Mary Lou, 19, and Susan Jane, 12.

World News In Brief

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri has appealed to his opponents to call off their planned hunger strikes, work stoppages and other potentially explosive protests against India's critical food shortage.

He warned that such demonstrations could plunge India into a new wave of unrest. The leaders promised to consider Shastri's plea, but it was doubted that they would forego the opportunity of making political capital out of the shortages.

ROME (AP) — The threat of a three-day railroad strike has ended in an apparent victory for the new government of premier Aldo Moro.

The Communist-led General Confederation of Italian Labor Friday night called off its scheduled strike set for Aug. 8-10. It said an agreement, also supported by non - Communist unions, had been reached on workers' demands for higher fringe benefits.

DUESSELDORF, Germany (AP) — Two persons were missing and feared drowned today after a Dutch pleasure boat and a German tanker barge collided here in the Rhine River, police said.

The Dutch vessel Ahoy, had 64 passengers when it collided Friday with the tanker, Rheintank 11. Police said 16 persons from the Ahoy were hurled into the water.

New York is the only state in the Union which directly touches both the Great Lakes and the Atlantic Ocean.

Of the 11,800 fire deaths in the U. S. during 1962, 6,400 occurred in homes and one-third of these victims (2,200) were children.

Washington Capsules

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission plans to set off a small nuclear blast deep in a salt mine near Hattiesburg, Miss., Sept. 22, the first of three in "project dribble" for devloping techniques to detect underground nuclear explosions.

The nuclear device, designed to yield an explosive force of five kilotons, will be set off 2,700 feet down in the mine, 28 miles southeast of Hattiesburg.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has sent to the White House a bill to assure attorney and investigative help to persons charged with crimes but without money to defend themselves.

Under the plan indigent defendants would be represented by private attorneys, counsel furnished by legal aid societies or other local defender organizations.

The bill would apply only to federal cases. Money to pay lawyers, investigators and any other needed expert assistance would be drawn from the Treasury by the courts.

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 280 cases of meningitis, with over a score of deaths, have occurred at military bases this year, Defense Department records show.

The largest number of cases and deaths were at Army posts. From Jan. 1 through July 24 there were 216 cases with 19 deaths.

Ten of the deaths were at Ft. Ord, Calif., the big West Coast training center.

Martial Law In China

TAIPEI (AP) — Communist China has clamped martial law over its mainland coast from Shanghai to Hainan Island and moved troops to coastal areas, the official Nationalist Chinese Central News Agency said today.

The agency said martial law was imposed after the United States bombed North Viet Nam Wednesday, and said about 20 per cent of the militiamen from communes in a southern province were moved to coastal areas for patrol duty.

Moderate Line Steer Still Rocky's Aim

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is going to make another attempt to steer Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater toward a more "moderate" policy line, sources close to Rockefeller say.

The governor is withholding any commitment to campaign personally for the Goldwater-Miller ticket, either within or outside New York State.

Rockefeller's public position, a spokesman said Friday, is that he is standing by his oft-repeated pledge to support the party's national ticket.

The word "support" cannot, however, be translated into campaign speaking appearances in behalf of Goldwater, said Rockefeller's press secretary, Robert L. McManus. He said Rockefeller had no such plans at this time.

Welch Raps 'Unbridled Democracy'

DALLAS (AP) — "Unbridled democracy is the worst form of government," Robert Welch, founder of the John Birch Society, said Friday night in a speech to the sixth annual convention of the Christian Crusade.

The 600 delegates gave Welch a standing ovation at the end of his two-hour speech.

The retired Belmont, Mass., candy-maker also characterized communism as "simply a huge dirty boil on the body of mankind that needs to be lanced."

The Birth Society, Welch said, has been "incredibly smeared," adding that the society is a "permanent and growing body. . . Dedicated to less government, more individualism, for a better world."

T. Coleman Andrews of Richmond, Va., director of the Internal Revenue Service under President Eisenhower, said in his keynote address Friday night that setments of the American press have "deliberately misquoted candidates for public office."

The aduience applauded when he said coverage of the Republican convention at San Francisco last month "was one of the most disgraceful examples in the history of the press."

At a press conference crusade leaders indicated strong support for Sen. Barry Goldwater over President Johnson in the November election.

Dr. Billy James Hargis of Tulsa, Okla., a minister, said "God is behind the conservative cause," and cited Goldwater's nomination as an example of that belief.

He said Dallas was chosen as the convention site as a show of encouragement for conservatives who were "criminally libelled" after the assassination of President Kennedy here.

Nation's Politics Confound Teens

By EUGENE GILBERT

American teen-agers have just flunked a quiz on politics. But then, how would a thousand and more representative adults do with it?

With national attention focused on the upcoming Presidential election, we were curious whether the young people were keeping up on such matters. A key to their awareness would seem to be their understanding of current political vocabulary.

So we asked 1187 of them across the country to name an American politician who could be called an "extreme rightist."

The poll was taken before the recent Republican national convention in San Francisco, which focussed attention on the question of rightism. Had it been taken after the convention, the answers might have been different, but here's what they were then:

Over two thirds of them couldn't come up with a name at all. Of the remainder, 16 per cent mentioned Sen. Barry Goldwater. Others referred to such diverse personalities as Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, Sen. Jacob Javits, Gov. William Scranton, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, Gov. George Wallace and Sen. Everett Dirksen.

Definitions of the term "extreme rightist" ran the gamut from "super patriot" to "segregationist and advocator of slavery." A 17-year-old boy from Lyndhurst, Ohio, said that an extreme rightist is "a person who wants immediate change backward," while a 14-year-old Brooklyn girl felt that the label applied to one "who is emotionally strong for democracy—even to the brink of war."

Goldwater Called Liberal

More of the young people claimed familiarity with the terms "liberal" and "conservative," although slightly more than a third were at a loss when asked to name a politician with a liberal philosophy and nearly half had no notion at all as to who might be considered conservative.

About 27 per cent classified President Johnson as a liberal and about half as many cited Gov. Rockefeller as an example of liberalism. Sen. Goldwater was described as liberal by about four per cent of the interviewees. Other personalities mentioned ranged from Sen. Fulbright to Chief Justice Earl Warren to Gov. George Wallace.

A 15-year-old Pennsylvanian defined a liberal as "one who is for the common people." Said a New Yorker: "A liberal is a person who is open minded on all issues and usually compromises between the idea of the right-winger and the left-winger."

Other explanations were: "a person who wants to change things real fast;" "a person who thinks the way of a minority;" "part leftist, but thinking of being rightist," and "a median between Republican and Democrat."

Nearly half — 43 per cent — of the three interviewed admitted they didn't know which public figures might be considered politically "conservative," but 45 per cent agreed that Senator Goldwater exemplifies conservatism. Other names mentioned were those in the political spotlight this year—President Johnson, Adlai Stevenson, Richard M. Nixon and Governor Scranton.

Definitions of conservatism seemed clearer and weren't quite so divergent as other explanations.

"A conservative is a person in favor of maintaining the status quo," explained Kenneth L. Schutt, 16 of Mitchell, S.D. Sixteen-year-old Judy Paderewski of Lyndhurst, Ohio, said that a conservative "wants more power for the individual citizen than the central government," and Stanley Butenski, 13, of Brooklyn added, "It's someone who wants less government control and more states' rights for the people."

Quite a few of the teen-agers equated "leftist" with "communist," but most didn't feel the case was completely black or white. Fourteen - year - old Mark Rosse of Brooklyn, for instance, defined a leftist as "a person who believes in extended government control and federal programs to help the people, the extreme left being communism." Gary Lach, 16, of Mitchell, S.D., put it like this: "A leftist is one whose political philosophy tends to favor socialistic measures as opposed to free enterprise."

There was only one area in which the young people were in general correct agreement—the function of the electoral college.

Eighty per cent of the boys and girls were aware that the President is not elected directly by the American people and many were able to give knowledgeable explanations of the electoral college and its role.

Although more than one agreed with a girl of 17 who thought the college exists "to help decide the presidency by breaking a tie," the response of Larry Russo, 14, of Brooklyn is more typical:

"The electors of each state, equal to its numbers in Congress, are expected to cast their votes for the candidate selected by popular vote in their state."

3 Die In Refrigerator

CHICAGO (AP)—Three children were found suffocated Friday night in an unused refrigerator on the back porch of their apartment building.

The bodies of Cynthia Ann Hartman, 4, and her brothers, Joseph 5, and Martin, 6, children of Mr. and Mrs. George Hartman, were found by police several hours after their mother reported them missing.

FBI Evidence To Grand Jury

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — Evidence against four Athens white men charged with the slaying of a Washington, D.C., Negro is expected to be presented to a grand jury this month.

Solicitor General Clete Johnson said Friday that the four could be brought to trial during the week of Aug. 31.

Johnson said the state "would prosecute the murder charge very vigorously if the evidence is there."

The four, identified by the FBI as Ku Klux Klansmen, were named in state warrants charging murder in the shotgun slaying of Lemuel S. Penn. Penn was shot to death on a lonely road during the early morning hours of July 11. His auto was blasted with shotgun fire.

U.S. Commissioner Girlard Hawkins held the four under $25,000 bond each after a hearing on federal charges brought under the new Civil Rights Act.

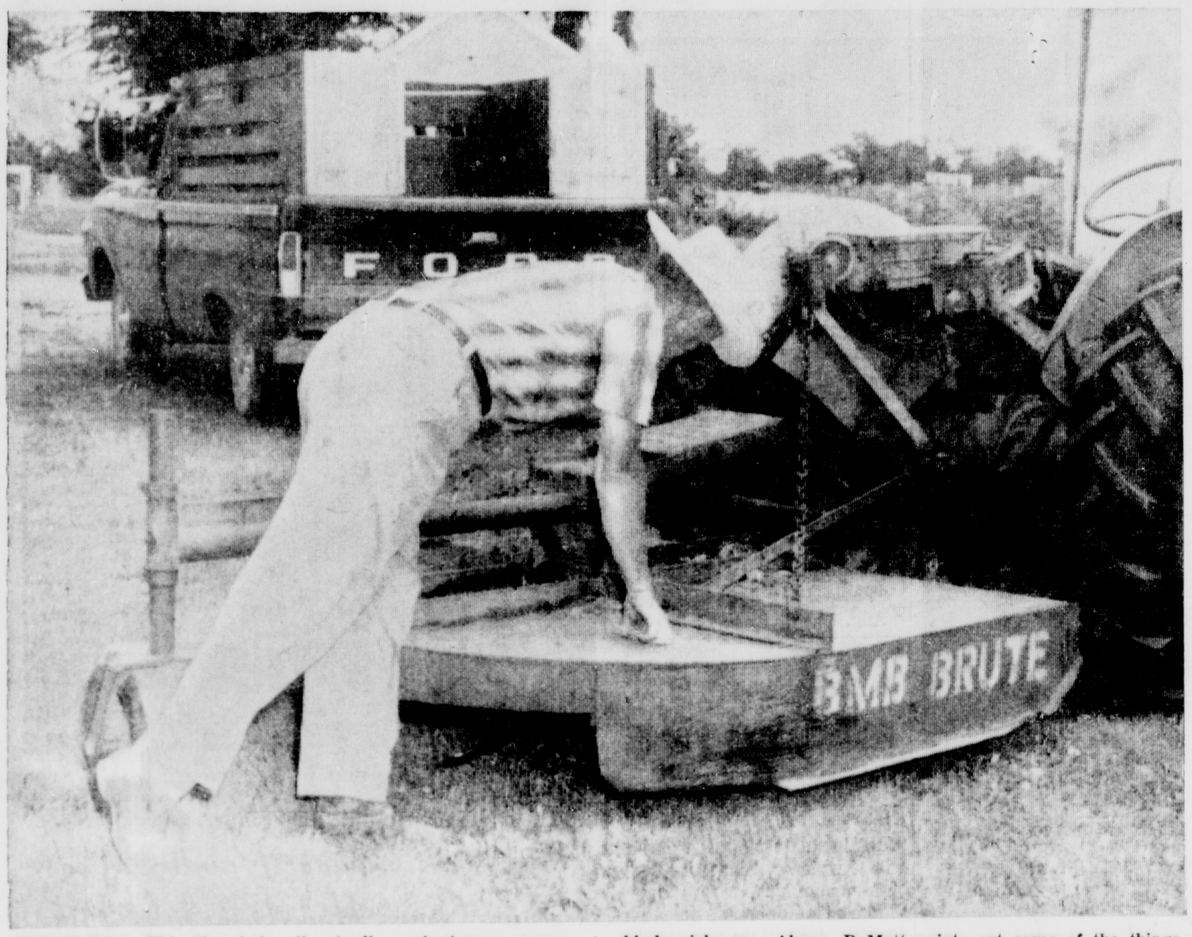
THE SEDALIA DEMOCRAT

Sunday, August 9, 1964 — In Combination With The Sedalia Capital — Feature Section



BRUSH HOG—This "brush hog," actually a giant power mower, is one of the most dangerous pieces of equipment on the farm of Eldon DeMott. Powered by a tractor, it mows down small trees, throws rocks, dirt and any other material the blade picks up. Above, DeMott points out some of the things not to do. Never get too close. The blade shown could cut off a foot. It's really a brute.

Changes On Missouri Farms Call for Safety Precautions

Farm Work Third Most Dangerous

By RALPH JONES

Missouri's changing agriculture scene, as reflected in the photo of a farmer behind a walking cultivator powered by a span of mules, compared to the modern machinery of today, indicates the farm safety factor has also changed, and in fact is becoming more and more important.

Back in the old days that some of us admittedly recall, about the only safety precautions we observed were to not smoke in the barn, stay away from behind a frisky mule, and to make sure we were not bitten, or kicked, or stepped on, by one of the farm animals.

But today the story is different.

"The modern farm is a comparatively safe place to live, but it remains a dangerous place to work," says C. E. Stevens, University of Missouri extension farm safety specialist.

Farming today ranks as the third most hazardous occupation, with only mining, including oil drilling, quarrying and construction have a higher accidental death rate. According to the National Safety Council, there were 8,700 farm residents killed in accidents in 1962, which is about the same for an average year. There were 800,000 disabling accidents among farm residents the same year.

With these figures in mind it is shown that work accidents, the smallest classification nationally, on the farm remain second only to motor vehicles accidents. Therefore, it is apparent that safety features and procedures developed in other industries, are as necessary on the farm as in other work if farm safety is to be brought into line with the rest of the nation.

Pettis County farmers and farmers in surrounding counties are making an extra effort to be sure their workers and families understand their jobs, and the proper, safe way to operate the equipment and machinery they handle throughout the year.

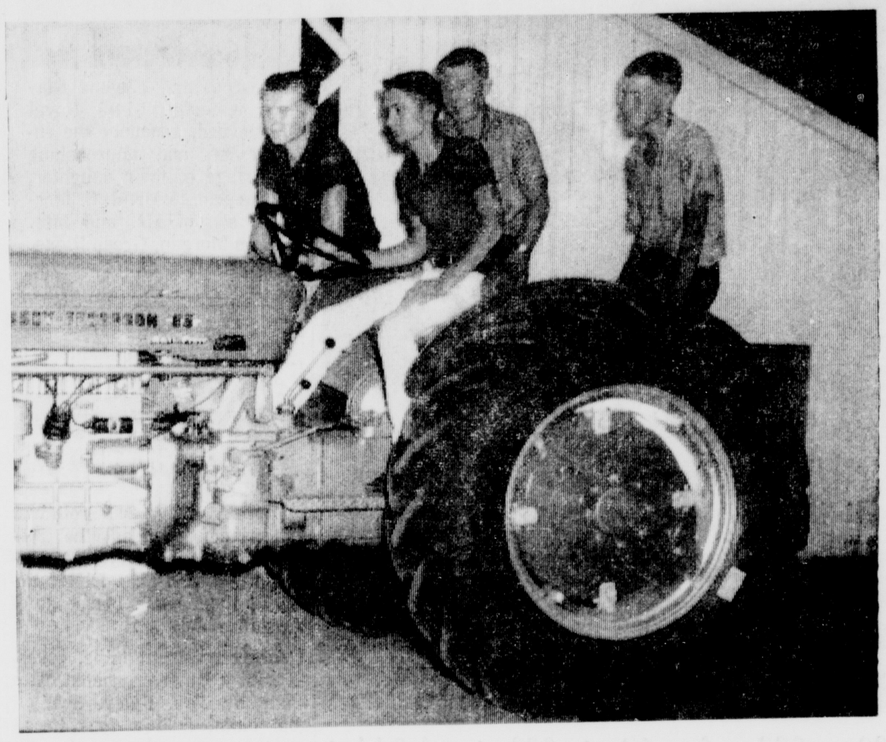
By far the tractor is involved in more farm power mishaps than any other piece of machinery, according to Safety Council figures. Each year there are about 50 people in Missouri killed in tractor accidents, and about ten of these people are under 14 years of age. These accidents are caused by poor judgment and lack of knowledge of how a tractor operates under various conditions.

Records show that automobile driver training has effectively reduced the accident rate among drivers who have received the training, so the University of Missouri Extension Service has adopted a program of tractor driver training among 4-H club members. Such a program is in operation in Pettis County.

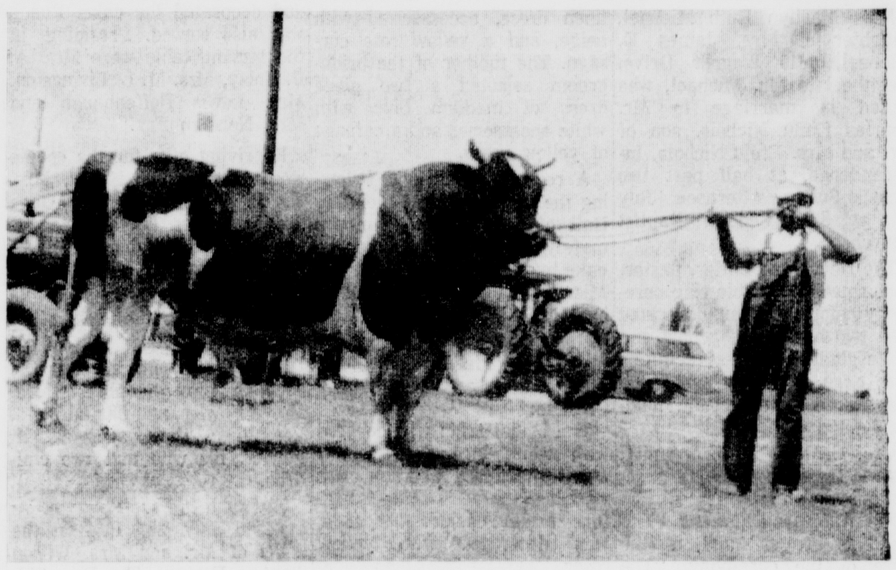
In the tractor driving program the participants are taught the fundamentals of traction operation, with safety stressed throughout the program. Each year a county-wide contest in tractor driving is held, with the winner going on to represent the county in the state contest.

Under the various programs stressed in meetings, clubs and by pamphlet, farmers and their families are reminded of other farm hazards, and shown how to prevent accidents due to these hazards.

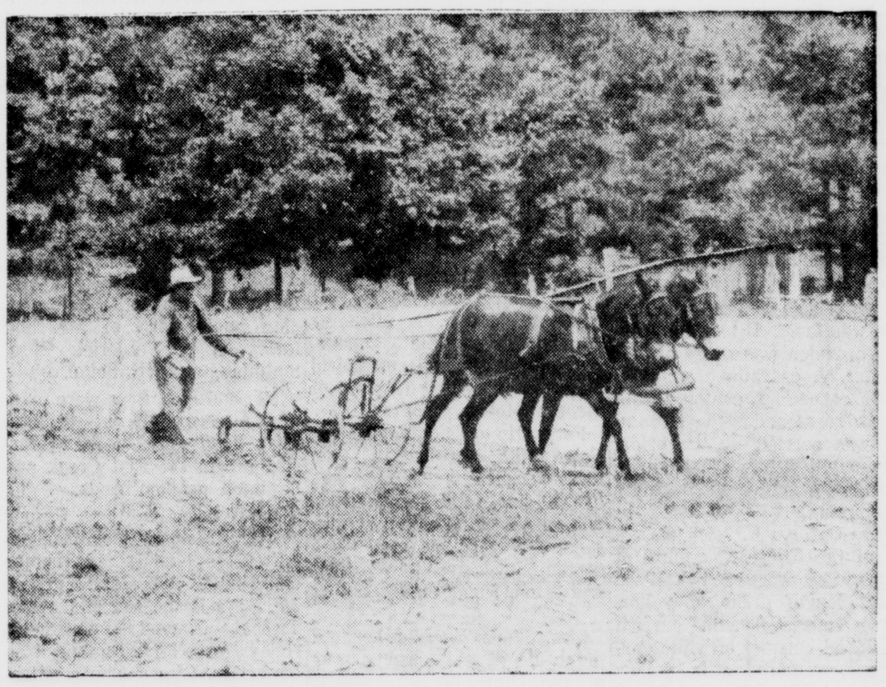
The bicycle improperly ridden is a hazard, both to the rider and vehicular traffic. Electrical equipment can cause serious accidents and deaths. Pamphlets pointing out the dangers involved in electrical equipment are available. Fire is always a danger around gasoline, hay barns and other farm buildings. In the over-all picture, farmers are being taught to recognize hazards, and how to correct these hazards, in hopes that the farm accident rate can be reduced through education.



UNSAFE PRACTICE—Extra riders on a tractor are a safety hazard. The youths above, all entrants in the Pettis County 4-H Skilled Tractor Operators Contest, were reluctant to pose for this photo, because the rules of the contest state they will be graded on safety precautions before and after the contest. They agreed to violate the rule only after contest officials assured them they would not be penalized for demonstrating the unsafe practice.



BULL HANDLER—Farm animals must be handled with care. Above, Tommie Klein, Hughesville, shows the proper way to handle a bull through use of a ring-clamp on the end of a long pole. Actually, this is a "friendly" bull, and seemed more interested in the photographer than in being handled by Klein.



MULE DRIVER—Homer White a farmer who lives near Van Buren, Mo., says he wouldn't trade one mule for a whole block of tractors. White is shown here doing his plowing with aid of the sturdy Missouri animals. His two mules are among about a dozen and a half used in farming in Carter County. Some consider mules safer than tractors. (AP Photo)

Record 6 Months Racked Up By Insurance Firms

David Eisenstein, local general agent for Mutual of Omaha and United of Omaha, announced a record breaking first six months for both companies.

A total of over $1,931,000,000 in benefits was reached as of June 30, 1964, marking an all-time high in payments to Mutual of Omaha policyowners. "This reflects a 12.51 per cent increase in benefits payments in the first six months of 1964, compared to the same period in 1963.

He added that the company's premium income reached $157,680,000 thus far this year—a $11 million increase over the same period last year.

United of Omaha recorded a 64 per cent increase in applied-for life insurance business for a six-month period ending June 30. With more than $297 million of life insurance issued the first half of 1964, United now has a total of in-force life insurance of $3.5 billion.

Local agents for both companies in this area are: Frank Brosch, Burris Carter, Mrs. Mary Hoffman Harlan, Harold L. Silberstein, Mrs. Lily E. Thomas, all of Sedalia; Roy M. Maddux of Stover, and Mrs. Frances Riley of Knob Noster.

FOR ROAD TRAVEL—Chester Wissman, who drives and auto thousands of miles per year, always displays a red flag on farm equipment moving on the highway. He pulls off the highwty for auto traffic whenever possible. "Few drivers realize the top speed of a tractor is some 12 miles per hour. Compared to an auto or truck moving 70 miles an hour, this is like standing still," he explains. Wissman recommends all car drivers consider farm machinery on the highway as standing, and slow down as soon as the machinery is sighted. He also recommends farm equipment be kept off the highway if possible, and if not, the driver should pull off the highway and allow speedier traffic to pass.

Guinea Suffers Shortages; Other Ills of Independence

CONAKRY, Guinea (AP) — Neatly lettered signs with the French words "arrete momentane" — stopped temporarily — hung on the doors of most public elevators here. There are neither spare parts nor technicians to get them moving again.

The phrase also seems to describe the entire country after five years of independence under President Sekou Toure.

Despite possession of rich bauxite—aluminum ore—deposits and large diamond and iron reserves, Guinea suffers chronic shortages, is harassed by smugglers and circulates a currency which is virtually worthless outside her border.

Some three million people live in Guinea, which is about the size of Oregon.

Conakry is a flower-filled city of 125,000 spread along a rocky seaside peninsula. Hundreds of Soviet-built cars and trucks bounce through its potholed streets Store shelves are bare and prices are high. A "good" restaurant meal may consist of a piece of stringy meat, one vegetable and a roll which experienced diners carefully examine for insect damage.

Alone among France's black African colonies, Guinea chose full independence in 1958 rather than President Charles de Gaulle's offer of "association."

French aid was cut off and thousands of trained Frenchmen departed.

Britain and the United States remained largely aloof from the dialogue with their North Atlantic Treaty Organization ally France. Toure sought aid from the Communist bloc. In exchange for Guinea's bananas, pineapples and other produce, the Soviet Union sent technicians and manufactured goods and began building elaborate public works.

Much of the assistance proved ill-planned or ill-suited to tropical conditions.

At least 80 per cent of Communist-bloc credits have been used and no new major grants or loans are in sight from either East or West.

U.S. foreign aid—chiefly wheat and rice shipments—has become vital to Guinea's economy.

Toure's government clearly intends to keep on friendly terms with East and West.

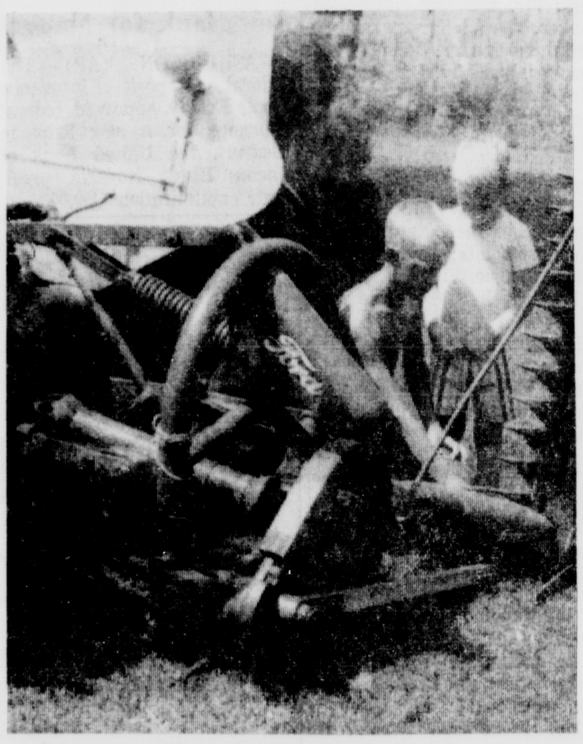
This point was driven home to Chinese Premier Chou En-lai when he attacked the Western nations during a visit this year. A Guinea government announcement said the country was grateful for Chinese aid but it intended to maintain friendly relations with everyone —including the Western powers.

Despite the economic picture, the president maintains secure control through the nation's only political party, the efficient Parti Democratique de Guinee.

His policy of swift replacement of foreigners by Guineans in all government jobs absorbed many young men who might otherwise have used their energies in dissent.

On West Africa's political spectrum, Toure, 42, is easily the head of state most inclined toward Marxism-socialism. Ironically, he is criticized by some Guineans for being too conservative. At the same time, nationals in Ghana complain that President Kwame Nkrumah is more conservative than Toure.

The year 1970 is often cited here as the expected turning point. Government officials say slumping farm production will have climbed back by then to the level it reached at the time of independence.



DANGEROUS—This photo shows both safe and unsafe practices. For safety the power take-off connecting the mowing blade to the tractor is properly covered. The two children, John DeMott and Stanley Dayton, should never be permitted near the blade. Their parents have taught them to stay away from the blade but were permitted to inspect the mower for the photo.

About Town

LCDR Frederick D. Darnell, United States Navy, arrived in Sedalia Aug. 1, to visit his mother, Mrs. Arthur Billingsley, 1508 South Moniteau.

World's largest crab is Japan's giant spider crab, which sometimes measures 11 feet from tip to tip.

Hughesville Women Entertain 4-H'ers

Hughesville Women's Extension Club met Aug. 5 at Liberty Park. Members of Hughesville 4-H Club and their mothers were guests.

After covered dish luncheon, Beverly Fowler and Sue Williams modeled 4-H sewing.

A report on poisons was given by Mrs. Jack Fowler. Mrs. George E. Williams gave family life report.

There were six members present. Visitors were Mrs. Leonard DeBord and Linda, Mrs. Robert Wiskur, Van, Bobby, Dwight, Dayle, Sonya, and Roger and Sammy Farnsworth.

The next meeting will be Sept. 2 with Mrs. Williams.

Disney Plans Far Ahead In Film Shows

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Television producers who scurry to make deadlines could take a lesson from Walt Disney. He's three-fifths finished with his programs for the coming season, which doesn't start until Sept. 20.

The 1964-65 season is a special one for Disney — his 10th. His shows, first on ABC and now in color on NBC, have always reflected taste, quality and variety. The selection next year will continue to be varied, with accent on original, multichapter films.

"Of the 25 shows, we'll have about five nature films, two feature movies, two cartoon shows and the rest three and four-part story films," said Walt. "There's a reason for doing films in three or more parts. We put more time and bigger budgets into our shows than most television producers do.

"We believe in getting more action and bigger backgrounds for our stories, not just shoot them against a wall. We can justify the expense when we use sets for three or four shows. For instance, I had a whole Philadelphia street in the '90s built for 'Gallagher,' a story about a newspaper copy boy written by Richard Harding Davis."

Walt doesn't like to be pressed by deadlines. Hence 15 of the year's product of 24 hours is filmed.

"And we've got nature photographers out in the field shooting subjects for 1965 and 1966," he added.

As host of the series, Walt must spend some of his time as an actor. "There's some ham in all of us," he admitted. "I can shoot about five introductions in a day, and I find the work fun. It gives me a chance to get away from everything else for a day."

He tries to work animals into his act, and the results are often unexpected. For the lead-in to the show of "Nicki, Wild Dog of the North," he put a bunch of baby dogs, cats, guinea pigs, possums and skunks in a cage to show young animals don't harm each other as long as they're not hungry. Someone suggested adding chicks and ducklings, and this was done.

Mrs. Charles Ehilu Nichols

Miss Marilyn Ruth Michael Wed To Mr. Charles Ehilu Nichols

Miss Marilyn Ruth Michael, daughter of Mrs. James E. Michael, 1610 Wagner Drive, and the late Mr. Michael, was united in marriage to Mr. Charles Ehilu Nichols, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ehilu Nichols, Independence, at half past two o'clock Sunday afternoon, July 26, at East Sedalia Baptist Church.

The Rev. Jack Butler, pastor, performed the double ring ceremony before an altar, decorated with two baskets of yellow and white gladioli, chrysanthemums and daisies and a 15-branch brass arch candelabrum, holding lighted cathedral tapers.

Mrs. Clyde Waters, organist, played traditional wedding selections and accompanied Mr. Clyde Waters as he sang "The Wedding Prayer" and, at the close of the ceremony, "The Lord's Prayer."

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her brother, Mr. James Robert Michael, the bride wore an empire gown of veiled silk organza. The bodice was designed with an oval neckline and long tapering sleeves, with a cording of silk defining the lifted waist. Appliques of Alencon lace framed the neck and highlighted the front of the bell-shaped skirt. At the sides and back, unpressed pleats released its fullness and lengthened to a chapel train.

The bride's veil of silk illusion was fastened to a flowered crown, which was made by her mother. A cascade bouquet of white carnations centered with yellow roses and white streamers was acrried by the bride. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom.

Miss Carolyn L. Michael, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a two piece street length dress of yellow drawn embroidery. She carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations, centered with yellow roses and adorned with net and yellow streamers. Her accessories were white.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. James Robert Michael, sister-in-law of the bride, and Mrs. Robert L. Cooper, sister of the bridegroom. Their dresses, accessories and bouquets were like those of the maid of honor.

Flower girl was Miss Bonnie Baldwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Baldwin, Independence, a cousin of the bridegroom. She wore a white dotted dacron dress sashed with yellow satin. A lily-of-the-valley adorned basket was filled with yelow rose petals and tied with white bows. She wore a wrist corsage.

Ring bearer was Master Robert Alan Michael, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Robert Michael, Kansas City, nephew of the bride. He carried rings to the altar on a white satin pillow edged with lace.

Best man was Mr. Robert L. Cooper, brother-in-law of the bridegroom. Groomsmen were Mr. William White and M. Gerald Scholbohm, uncles of the bridegroom.

Ushers were Mr. Richard Karrick, Houstonia, cousin of the bride, and Mr. Gordon Neal. They lighted candles preceding the ceremony.

Mrs. Michael chose for her daughter's wedding a beige linen dress, accessorized with beige, and a yellow rose corsage. The mother of the bridegroom selected a two piece dress of medium blue with white accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

A reception was held following the ceremony in Fellowship Hall of the church. Approximately 200 guests were served cake by Miss Kay Anderson and Miss Marscha Evans, and punch by Mrs. William White.

Hostesses at the reception were Mrs. Idella Sands, Mrs. Lulu Waters and Mrs. Sophia Crosslin.

The bridal table was covered with white lace over yellow. The triple tiered wedding cake was highlighted with a miniature bridal couple. The cake was decorated with yellow roses.

Gifts were displayed at the gift table by Miss Sharon Bartlett. Mrs. Franklin Barnes, cousin of the bride, assisted guests at the register.

Small net bags filled with rice were distributed to guests by Miss Debra Jo Bremer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Bremer, Otterville, cousin of the bride.

The bride is a 1961 graduate of Smith-Cotton High School. She wah graduated from IBM School in St. Louis, and was employed in the IBM department of Town and Country Shoes.

The bridegroom, also a 1961 graduate of S-C, is attending Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg, and is employed by the Fisher Body Division of General Motors, Kansas City.

For a trip to Colorado Springs, Colo., with her husband, the bride donned a three piece brown suit with beige blouse and white accessories. Her corsage was of yellow roses. The couple is at home at 11325 East Lexington, Sugar Creek.

Mrs. James Wheeler honored the bride at a kitchen shower at the home of her mother, Mrs. Howard Gwinn, 667 East Tenth.

A dinner was given at Flat Creek Inn for the bride by her co-workers at Town and Country Shoes July 18. The group presented her with a kitchen wall clock.

Mrs. Richard L. Shoemaker

Miss Anita Ann Weber is July Bride of Richard L. Shoemaker

Before the altar of St. Patrick's Catholic Church, Chanute, Kan., Miss Anita Ann Weber and Mr. Richard L. Shoemaker exchanged double ring wedding vows at eleven o'clock Saturday morning, Aug. 1. The Rev. John L. Kavanagh, Strong City, Kan., officiated.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Edwin Weber, Chanute, Kan., are parents of the bride. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Shoemaker, 1509 East Fourth.

Altar boys were Mr. Orville E. Briener and Mr. Timothy Watts. White gladioli, entwined with huckleberry, decorated the altar.

Mrs. Lottie Wortman, organist, played "The Bride's March" by Sir Joseph Barnby, and the Mendelssohn wedding music for processional and recessional. She was accompanist for Miss Jeannette Francis, Kansas City, Kan., who sang "Panis Angelicus" by Cesar Franck, "Ave Maria" by Marsh, and "On This Day, O Beatutiful Mother," by Lambillotte.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, wore a gown of satin with fitted bodice and an overblouse of organza with satin appliques. The bateau neckline was edged with satin. The satin skirt, with pleated chiffon overskirt, fell into a sweeping chapel train. The bride wore a pillbox hat with tiers of pearls at the front to hold her veil of silk illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of white orchids and English ivy and wore a diamond pendant given to her by the bridegroom.

Miss Diana Jean Weber and Miss Marcella Mary Weber, the bride's sisters, were maid of honor and bridesmaid, respectively. They were attired in blue chiffon over satin gowns with jackets of blue organza over chiffon. The long skirts were bell shaped. Their wedding ring hats were covered with tulle. Bridal attendents carried cascade bouquets of white fuji chrysanthemums and English ivy.

Miss Lori Ann Upton was flower girl. Rings were borne to the altar by Master Scott Maring.

Best man was Mr. Jess A. La Puma, Jefferson City, and Mr. Gary Upton was groomsman. Ushers were Mr. Robert Franklin, Mr. Gary Kennedy and Mr. Henry Braman.

Guest book was attended by Mrs. Judy Hardie, Kansas City.

A printed whipped cream sheath, jacketed with linen, in sleeveless, three-quarter style, and white accessories were worn by the mother of the bride. The bridegroom's mother wore an apricot dress of peau de soie, with accessories to match. Their corsages were cybidium orchids.

Wedding guests were received in the guest room of First National Bank following the ceremony. Mrs. Alta Breiner made reception arrangements.

Wedding cake was served by Mrs. Gloria Upton, assisted by Miss Eleanor Crumley. Mrs. Susie Colvin and Miss Darlene Horner, Humboldt, poured punch, assisted by Mrs. Merle Horner and Mrs. Joyce Breiner.

Irish linen, brought from Ireland by Father Kavanagh, covered the bridal table and was overlaid with blue tulle, draped at the sides and tied with blue bows. Three branch silver candelabra bracketed the four tiered wedding cake.

Following the reception, dinner was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Weber to out of town guests. Mrs. Gerald Gifford and Mrs. Floyd Osborn directed the reception.

Out of town guests were: De-Ann White, Betty Muller, Jim Newberry, Roseanne Tweedy, Cheri LaMar, Mrs. Pauline A. LaMar, Sandra Briggs, Mary Beth McCord, Donna Hurter, Kansas City; Jeannette Francis, Kansas City, Kan.; Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Hewlett, Springfield; Mr. and Mrs. Leo Breiner, Frontenac, Kan.; Mrs. Emma Dietrich, Mrs. Merle Horner, Darlene Horner, Humboldt, Kan.; Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Meyers, Fredonia, Kan.; Mrs. John Hardie, Overland Park, Kan.; Mr. and Mrs. Bill DeNoon, Olathe, Kan.; Mr. and Mrs. Jess A. LaPuma, Jefferson City; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Shoemaker, Carold Shoemaker, Jodella Shoemaker, Linda Pearson, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Pearson, Mrs. J. R. Williams, Harry Satterwhite, Sedalia; Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Shoemaker, Witchita, Kan.; Mrs. Joe Stockmann, Miami; Joseph J. Stockmann, Malta Bend; Judy Brazil, Katie Dawes, Shawnee, Kan.; Sandra Thompson, Iola; Mrs. Don Barbour, Prairie Village, Kan.

For traveling, the bride wore a dress of white and trquoise silk with an orchid corsage. The couple is at home at 4108 McGee, Kansas City, after a wedding trip through southern Missouri.

Thirty guests were at the rehearsal dinner July 31, given at Tioga Inn Ballroom, Chanute, Kan., by the parents of the bridegroom. Guests were their son and his fiancee, members of the wedding party and out of town guests.

An arrangement of white fuji chrysanthemums was used as a centerpiece at the U-shaped table. Bride and bridegroom placecards marked guests' places.

Mrs. Harold Dean Mettenburg

Miss Mary June Greer is Bride Of Mr. Harold Dean Mettenburg

In a double ring ceremony at eight o'clock Friday evening July 24, Miss Mary June Greer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Junior Greer, Route 4, became the bride of Mr. Harold Dean Mettenburg, 414 Wilkerson, at Mt. Herman Baptist Church. The bridegroom is the son of John Mettenburg, Route 4, and the late Mrs. Jeackel Mettenburg and was reared from infancy by an aunt, Mrs. N. J. Sprinkle, 414 Wilkerson.

The Rev. Warren G. Green performed the ceremony before the altar, which was flanked by two standing baskets of white gladioli and pastel pink, yellow and orchid Shasta daisies. At the sides of the altar, in the foreground, stood two seven branch candelabra, entwined with greenery and tied with white bows and holding burning tapers.

Miss Ginger Sue Taylor, niece of the bridegroom, played traditional selections at the organ before the ceremony. She played "May Thy Blessing Rest Upon Them" and accompanied the vocalist, Mrs. Richard Schroeder, LaMonte, who sang "If I Could Tell You" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Candles were lighted by Miss Janet Taylor, niece of the bridegroom, and Miss Stephanie Schroeder, LaMonte, who wore pastel pink dacron dresses with sleeveless fitted bodices, scoop necklines and full skirts. Both wore frenched pink carnation wrist corsages.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of heavy white La Rose satin brocade featuring a fitted bodice with a scooped neckline, tiny cap sleeves and a bell shaped skirt with a bustle effect over net. Her ballerina length veil of double illusion nylon tulle fell from a tiny circlette of fabric from her dress. She carried white rosebuds in the form of a cross centered with white and pink sweetheart rosebuds tied with pink satin ribbon edged with white nylon lace and tied in lovers' knots. Her only jewelry was a necklace of blue teardrop aurora borealis crystal, a gift from the bridegroom.

Mrs. Lawrence Weathers, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Her dress of orchid brocade taffeta was made like that of the bride. She carried a Colonial bouquet of white carnations tipped with orchid, tied with orchid ribbon.

Mr. Lawrence Weathers, brother-in-law of the bride, was best man.

Miss Cynthia Ann Greer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James John Greer, was flower girl. She wore a gown of white nylon organdy over pink and yellow rose printed batiste, styled with scoop neckline, sleeveless fitted top and full skirt. She wore, on one wrist, a corsage of frenched yellow carnations and carried a white basket filled with pink rose petals.

Nephews of the bride, Master Nick Sprinkle and Master David Sprinkle, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Sprinkle, Hammond, Ind., carried rings to the altar on heart shaped pillows fashioned from the same material as the bride's dress.

An orchid whipped cream dress was worn by the mother of the bride and was accessorized with white. The bridegroom's aunt wore a blue dress of dacron with beige accessories. Their corsage were yellow carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception for 125 guests was held in the church basement. Lace over pink covered the bride's table. The table was accented with pink and white streamers and white wedding bells. Smilax and baby white pompon chrysanthemums surrounded the base of the three tiered wedding cake, which was graced with a miniature bridal couple on the bridal tier. Tall lighted white tapers, in crystal holders, were at the sides of the cake. Serving were Mrs. James John Greer, sister-in-law of the bride, and Mrs. Freddie Taylor, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Donnie Kabler, sister of the bride.

The couple is at home at 5720 Virginia, Kansas City.

The bride is a Hughesville High School graduate. The bridegroom was graduated from Hughesville High School in 1960. Upon graduation, he entered the U. S. Army and served three years in Germany. He is now in training at the police academy for Kansas City Police Department.

Mrs. Ernest Pruitt

Miss Carolyn Grother Marries Mr. Ernest Pruitt July 25th

At seven o'clock Saturday evening, July 25, Miss Carolyn Grother, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Grother, Route 1, became the bride of Mr. Ernest Pruitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Pruitt, Roswell, N. Mex., at Holy Cross Lutheran Church, near Cole Camp.

The Rev. W. J. Boehne, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, Cole Camp, officiated at the double ring ceremony. The altar was decorated with bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums and white stock. Five branch candelabra, decorated with white bows and Stephanotis, were at the sides of the altar. They held burning tapers.

Mr. Eric Heimsoth, organist, played traditional wedding songs. Mrs. Melvin Heimsoth sang "The Wedding Prayer" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Candles were lighted by Mrs. Roger Meyer, Cole Camp, and Mrs. Junior Cairer, Kansas City, both cousins of the bride. They were attired in street length white satin brocade dresses with yellow cummerbunds. Their headpieces were white chrysanthemums and yellow rosebuds.

At the altar, the bride was given in marriage by her father. She chose a crystal white gown of bombazine and Chantilly lace, styled with a stem bodice, long sleeves, which tapered to traditional points over the hands, and a scalloped Sabrina neckline trimmed in pearls and sequins. The bouffant skirt of bombazine tiers, edged in Chantilly lace and fashioned with a flat lace front panel, swept in the back to an aisle wide chapel train.

Her bouffant silk illusion veil was fashioned with a double crown of re-embroidered Alencon lace and was trimmed in pearls and crystals. She carried red roses and Stephanotis.

Mrs. Paul Hehner, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Leon Lunn, Miss Ella Faye Hurt and Mrs. Kathleen Peters. They wore yellow stain brocade floor length dresses and white crown headpieces. Their bouquets were of yellow rosebuds and white chrysanthemums.

Mr. Leon Lunn was best man. The bridegroom chose as groomsmen, Mr. Charles Grother, brother of the bride, Mr. Larry Viebrock, cousin of the bride, and Mr. Robert Bangart.

Miss Carol Ehlers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ehlers, Windsor, cousin of the bride, carried a basket of red rose petals and preceded the bride down the aisle. She was attired in a white satin brocade floor length dress, tied with a yellow sash. A white pearl crown was placed on her hair.

Guests were escorted to their seats by Mr. Kenneth Harms and Mr. Melvin Brandes.

The mother of the bride wore a beige dress with matching jacket and accessories of white. The bridegroom's mother chose a pink dress with pink and white accessories. Both mothers wore white chrysanthemum corsages with their costumes.

Mrs. Orville Heimsoth listed guests' names.

The bride's parents were hosts at a reception after the ceremony. The bridal table was covered with linen. A large bell centered the table and was streamered with yellow and white. Yellow roses were placed on the three tiers of the wedding cake, which was baked and decorated by Mrs. E. J. Kersieck, Cole Camp.

For the wedding trip, the bride wore a blue faille dress and accessories of white. The couple is at home in Kansas City.

Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Witt, Sr., 1001 East 20th, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Nancy Joann, to Mr. Gerald Eugene Lansing, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Lansing, Valparaiso, Ind. The wedding is planned for Sept. 26.

Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Tracy, Fairview, announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Jean, to Mr. Larry W. Jageman, son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Jageman, Knob Noster. Miss Tracy was graduated from Fairview High School, and is a student at Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg, majoring in speech education.

Mr. Jageman, a Knob Noster High School graduate, received a bachelor of science degree in 1955 from CMS. He is to receive his master's degree in special education from CMS Aug. 15.

The wedding ceremony is to take place at Trinity Methodist Church, Kansas City, Aug. 22.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Harder, California, announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Rita Raye, to Mr. Larry Gene Lowe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Lowe, St. James. The wedding is to be Sept. 5. Miss Harder and Mr. Lowe are both seniors at the University of Missouri, Columbia.

Bridal Shower Honors Bride, Karen Kullman

Pink and lavender was the color scheme of the bridal shower given July 30 by women of Lincoln Methodist Church in honor of Miss Karen Kullman, Lincoln, who is to be married Aug. 15 to Mr. David Gruhn. The shower was held in the church dining area.

The serving table was covered with a pink lace cloth over pink, caught at intervals with lavender taffeta rosettes. The lavender flower arrangement was flanked by two branch crystal candelabra, holding pink and lavender tapers.

The gift table was covered with a white crepe cloth with pink parasol design over pink. A parasol of pink and streamered pink wedding bells centered the table. Arrangements of pink and lavender gladioli carried out the color scheme throughout the room.

Mrs. H. F. Hansen and Mrs. J. S. Thomas arranged decorations. Appropriate games were played under the direction of Mrs. Hazel Kroenke.

The bride-to-be was assisted in opening gifts by Miss Cheryl Brown. Mrs. Rose Gruhn recorded gifts.

Cake, pink lemonade, lavender punch, nuts and mints were served to 35 women by Mrs. Gene Weakley, Mrs. Roland McCandless, Mrs. T. Wehmeier and Mrs. Roy McCubbin. Miss Barbara Kullman, cousin of the honoree, poured punch.

A Good Chance for Survival

As mentioned previously in this column, conversation over the Far Eastern flare-up almost dominated street corner talk to the exclusion of comments on the primary election the day after that momentous occasion.

Since then, as war clouds seem to dissolve, there is revival of post-mortem discussions about what happened at the polls. This is beginning to resolve itself into serious and sensible interpretations rather than needling, twitting, and expressions of bitterness.

It's time for the tumult and shouting over the primary election to die down. There's a big pile of political wood to be sawed by both Democrats and Republicans before November. This general election activity in itself will provide plenty of tone and pitch of distinctive timbre to satisfy the appetite for noise of any political gourmet.

And surely we may expect the campaign ahead to be spiced by the perennial pollsters. Of course they will be seeking interpretations of the political atmosphere and probably be as inaccurate as some editorial writers have been picking winning candidates.

Speaking of polls, there is the one about a private opinion poll of 14 people of assorted ages, occupations, philosophies, wealth and interests. It was conducted by an intrepid researcher.

This poll was different from others in that no questions were asked. Instead, the pollster just snooped and listened, like some eavesdroppers do on Ohio avenue.

This was on a day when the Chinese Reds and the Russian Reds were pfffting at each other good and hard. A bad drought was playing havoc with the crops. DeGaulle and Castro were restless. Four brand new national crises were thriving.

And what were these 14 people talking about? The current baseball games, the fact that a new bank was about to be started, how tall the weeds were, and what price is the city going to charge for collecting garbage!

If that's the kind of conversation pollsters hear on Ohio avenue during hot pre-election periods, then maybe we're going to survive after all!

Checking the Farmer

When a farmer notices an airplane flying lowly over his fields he may or may not know that it contains an aerial photographer checking on him from the Department of Agriculture.

This is the biggest aerial photography operation in the world and its purpose is to determine whether this farmer is staying within his Federal conservation and planting acreage allotment.

Although farmers are informed that their fields are photographed once a year, they may be innocent of violating their allotment. So far, less than 10 per cent have been found guilty.

The pictures taken are so precise that very small discrepancies can be discovered. The pictures are sent to each county agricultural office where officials establish each farmer's acreage. Those who are found to exceed their acreage are given notice and an opportunity to adjust their planting and dispose of their overproduction. They prefer to comply rather than lose their price supports.

This aerial photography operation is two-thirds self-supporting through the sale of prints to farmers, geologists, oil and gas companies, research groups and interested individuals. It is one government program that helps pay for itself.

The Flower Pot

There are, after all, some eternal verities even in this day of gadgets, plastics, built-in obsolescence and constant change.

Take, for instance, the lowly flower pot. Archeologists have determined that clay pots were used by gardeners as far back as 17,000 years ago.

That probably predates the wheel, another fundamental invention. But whereas today's wheel has been sophisticated far beyond the original rolling log, the little clay pot is hardly different from that used in ancient times, despite many attempts to find substitutes along the way.

That pot of geraniums on the window sill is not only a link with the distant past but an augury of the future. For it is not unlikely that when men—or women, anyway—eventually set up housekeeping on the moon, their lonely bubble shelters will be adorned with flowers growing in pots made of two parts moon dust and one part nostalgia.

Johnson Grim In Reporting Crisis

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — President Johnson, reporting to congressional leaders on the Vietnamese crisis, admitted the danger of war with Red China, but said this was a risk the United States had to take. He was hopeful, however, that military operations could be confined.

A grim President told congressional leaders that the first Naval attack on the U. S. destroyer Maddox was a test and that the second was "unexpected" and a "complete surprise." Regarding the second attack, he added: "We didn't expect them to go that far."

The President said that both attacks were obviously designed — 1, to see how far the United States was prepared to go in retaliation; 2, to win sympathy and support from both Red China and Soviet Russia.

Asked if the Vietnamese didn't already have the complete backing of Red China, Johnson said in brief: We don't know how far Red China will go beyond its present support of arms — that is, we don't know for sure that Red China is ready to become involved in an all-out war with United States.

Johnson added that a war with Red China is a possibility we must risk.

Both Johnson and Defense Secretary McNamara told the congressional leaders that they were acting upon the advice and recommendation of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and that we had to take this risk to protect our vital interests in the Far East.

However, Johnson was hopeful that our limited measures would prevent the Vietnamese conflict from erupting into all-out war.

"We will do our utmost to keep it limited."

Future events, he said, will turn on whether Red China takes any further action on behalf of the North Vietnamese that might provoke an open conflict with the United States.

Johnson said we have no assurances that Red China will go this far, despite the unprovoked attack on our Naval vessels by the North Vietnamese.

When Republican leaders urged that Johnson begin giving the American people more information about the "true situation" in Vietnam, he replied that he was giving the public all the information he could at the present time short of endangering military security.

One Republican recalled that Secretary McNamara had promised to begin bringing American boys home from Vietnam, but now, the GOP leader remarked, we are sending more over there.

McNamara replied that we had to take whatever steps were necessary to protect our vital interests, and if this meant sending more troops and equipment to Vietnam, he had no other alternative. Then he said, in effect, "I am acting entirely on the advice of our Joint Chiefs, and they have strongly advised these retaliatory measures we are now taking."

FINDING THE WAY

We Need the Right Glue

BY RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Among the humble and yet essential household items is that necessary item of glue. Once a smelly, sticky substance, it has become glamorized and attractively packaged. It's still glue. Necessary for repairs and mending, it is required in every household. What is also important is that the right substance is used as the cohesive agent.

Move out of the household into the larger areas of life and see how the wrong glue is used.

Critics insist that there are churches which are held together by social custom or ethnic factors. They are said to have become exclusive clubs instead of inclusive fellowships. If there are churches that are held together by people desiring social advantage, political prestige or economic preferment, then the wrong glue is being used.

On almost every national occasion there are speakers who seem to equate democracy with religious convictions. Obviously, the presence of a great faith is going to feed the ideals of a nation. The very necessities of human dignity and responsible freedom require the essential of a religious conviction. But the use of religion as a kind of glue to hold the nation together is the wrong use of religious faith.

There are enough tensions and strains in life today to test any cohesive. We know men and women who are having a breakdown. Nations find old and trusted procedures shattered. The familiar maps are suddenly torn apart. Neighborhoods not only change, they break up. So do families.

Yet in the midst of such situations, there are other persons who stand firm and refuse to be shattered. There are neighborhoods that ride out of the storms unbroken. There are families that have withstood strains which have caused others to come apart.

St. Paul told the Corinthians that love could endure anything. "Love knows no limit to its endurance, no end to its trust, no fading of its hope; it can outlast anything." That's not a commercial for a religious glue, it's a description of a power which is quite different. Love is an interacting, uniting power. It doesn't just "glue together" a man and a woman. It brings them into the common, transcending and responsible relationship of husband and wife. It doesn't just glue together races, it brings them into an understanding familyhood.

We're held together by many cohesive relationships. Those persons and institutions that withstand the tensions have deep inner resources which hold them steady. It's important that we use the right kind of glue.

What Are the Goals?

Are our goals too high
That we ourselves set
And we wonder why
That they're never met,
Are our debts too great,
Our morals too low,
Do we see too late
The way they grow;
Do we never reflect
On the shadows that blight,
Our self respect,
Our knowledge of right;
Do we claim to be
What we aren't at all,
Are our lives not free
And our thinking small,
Is our conscience clear
As we look ourselves o'er
Without any fear
Can we add up the score,
Do we do unto others
As we want them to do
Unto us — are men brothers
To all men — or a few —
Are our goals merely pride,
What is our destination,
Are we worthy when tried
Of our good reputation —
Goals to which we might hold,
Are they solid and tight,
Where no virtues are sold —

Refuse Application For New Ruby Trial

DALLAS (AP)—Judge Joe B. Brown has turned down an application for a new trial of Jack Ruby, given the death sentence for killing Lee Harvey Oswald, accused as the slayer of President John F. Kennedy.

Next step in the appeal procedure is for Ruby's lawyers to take the case to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals, the highest criminal appeals court in Texas unless a constitutional question is involved.

Before his ruling, Judge Brown said, "The trial record does not support some of the statements" defense lawyers made in petitioning for a new trial.

The defense attacked Judge Brown's failure to move the trial to another county and his refusal to disqualify prospective jurors who had witnessed the shooting of Oswald on television.

Approves Construction At Military Bases

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Appropriations Committee has approved $1,582,969,000 for construction at military bases in the United States and abroad.

The amount is $16,045,500 less than the House approved May 26, and $296,031,000 less than the Johnson Administration requested. It is $2,911,000 less than Congress appropriated for military construction last year.

THE WELL CHILD

Hypertension in Family? Keep Salt Intake Low

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., Newspaper Enterprise Association

Just as you may toss salt over your shoulder for luck, you should pass up the salt shaker for health.

An adult should get about one gram of salt a day, but most of us eat nearer 10 grams a day. Doctors have long thought that an excess of salt causes high blood pressure. Recent studies now appear to support this idea.

Eskimos of Alaska get less than three grams a day and show no tendency to high blood pressure but in Japan where the salt intake is higher even than in the United States (about 26 grams a day) the incidence of hypertension is about four times as great as it is here.

A curtailment of salt intake is now believed to be even more important than a cutting down of calories because weight reduction without salt restriction will not lower the blood pressure. There is apparently a hereditary factor at work also because some persons who regularly take in large amounts of salt do not develop high blood pressure.

The moral of this story is that, in a family in which several members have developed hypertension, the salt intake should be limited to the body's minimal needs in childhood. Waiting until your child comes of age before restricting his salt intake is likely to prove futile because it is applied too late.

Q—Our 6-year-old daughter recently had a boil. What causes boils? Can we do anything to prevent a recurrence?

A—Boils are caused by the common infection germ, the staphylococcus. The best prevention is frequent washing of the hands by all members of the family with a soap that contains hexachlorophene. This is especially important after touching the nose or going to the toilet. It is also wise to scrub toilet seats, washbowls, and bathtubs frequently with this same antiseptic soap. Changing the underwear daily also helps. If recurrent boils develop in spite of these precautions, your doctor may want to use one of the newer antibiotics such as oxacillin, which can be taken by mouth.

Q—Since when are doctors using carbonated soft drinks to cure a baby's indigestion? Does it really help?

A—Carbonated soft drinks will often be taken by a baby or small child when other fluids are not. In situations where it is essential to get the baby to take fluids, they are of value, but there is no advantage in such carbonated drinks if the child will take sufficient fluid in other forms.

Fifty Years After

By CYRENE DEAR

WASHINGTON, D. C. — It may be coincidental that The Wilson House, 2340 "S" Street, N.W., where Woodrow Wilson spent his last years and where he died, February 3, 1924, should now become a national shrine 50 years after the beginning of World War I. It was officially certified on July 30th by Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson.

The Georgian brick house, just off Embassy Row, is a comfortable homey four story residence filled with mementoes of President Wilson's turbulent years. His large portrait, above the fireplace in the library, gives presence to the room filled with pictures of his allied war colleagues, Clemenceau, Lloyd George and Orlando. A formidable upright piano stands in a corner near the bookshelves which contain biographies of Wilson and his times but not his own papers which are in the Library of Congress. Comfortable chairs of no particular period give the room a well lived in look.

Edith Bolling Galt Wilson, the former President's second wife, selected this house, although it was purchased for them by Wilson's staunch friend Bernard Baruch. On the third floor is an exact replica of the President's White House bedroom with his large four postered bed and a silk painting, of the furled flag and eagle hanging above it. Pictures of his family decorate the wall beside the bed and the water decanter and pill box remain on the table. His dressing gown is thrown across the bed. Princeton tigers are scattered throughout the house. Wilson was a student, professor and later President of Princeton.

Woodrow Wilson was an expert typist and once won a speed contest. He typed most of his own speeches. The old crescent-shaped Hammond typewriter with the silver box beside it for Greek letters still stands marked "Trip of the President to Pacific Coast, September 1919." He was talking his League of Nations to the people but he had a stroke in Pueblo, Colorado, which ended his famous plan for peace.

Woodrow Wilson had the love of two fine women in his life. His love letters to Ellen Axson Wilson published recently by his daughter Eleanor Wilson McAdoo, are poetic testimony to the love they shared for 28 years. He was criticized for marrying Edith Bolling Galt, a Washington socialite, soon after but she cared for him to the exclusion of some of his best friends during his last years at the "S" street house.

Wilson was a controversial president, a scholar, an idealist with staunch admirers but also bitter enemies. His secretary for many years, Joe Tumulty was denied his presence during the last years but never failed in his loyalty to his chief. He wrote these words upon learning of the late President's death:

"Yes, Woodrow Wilson is dead. But I catch a vision o his indomitable courage. I see him on his memorable tour, struggling for national and international life. I hear the sound of preparation for his welcome in city, town, hamlet and crossroads. I hear. . . drums. I hear . . .bugles. . . I see thousands of assemblages. And then I hear him in Pueblo. Again, I see Woodrow Wilson stricken down at the Zenith of his power. Now he is dead. But his spirit lives—the spirit that tried to wipe away the tears of the world; the spirit of justice, humanity, and holy peace."

A fitting memorial is planned by the Wilson Memorial Commission established by the late President Kennedy in 1962 but the Wilson House on "S" Street, bequeathed to the American People by Edith Wilson under the guardianship of the National Trust to preserve and maintain, will always be a memorial in honor of the 28th President of the United States.

Stone Workers End Strike at 7 Plants

CLEARFIELD, Pa. (AP) — The United Stone and Allied Workers Union, AFL-CIO, has announced it has reached an agreement on a new two-year contract with Harbison Walker Refractories, ending a strike at seven plants which began July 1.

Gaston Leblanc, union district director, said the contract, covering 800 to 900 workers, calls for a nine-cent hourly increase, retroactive to July 1, and another nine-cent boost July 1, 1965.

The walkout affected four plants in Clearfield, one each in Pittsburgh, Portsmouth, Ohio, and Cape May, N.J.

Tanker, Freighter Collide In River

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A tanker and a freighter collided on the fog shrouded Delaware River near the Philadelphia Navy Yard.

First reports were that the Texaco tanker, Wisconsin, struck the freighter Steelmaker on the starboard side just forward of the bridge.

A 15-foot gash could be seen in the side of the freighter. It was visible from water level to the deck. Only minor damage to the tanker was reported.

There was no report of casualties. A Navy spokesman said the freighter was aground, the tanker resting at anchor.

Hanging is almost extinct as a means of execution in the United States. There are only six states which still prescribe hanging as the method of execution. Out of the approximately 40 to 50 executions which take place annually, there is rarely more than one which is carried out by hanging. Hanging is still used in some parts of Great Britain.

Teachers Plan On Leaving SMS College Due To Dismissal

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — An unofficial poll shows 29 members of the faculty of Southwest Missouri State College are considering leaving the school because of the recent dismissal of the college president, Dr. Leland Traywick.

Results of the poll, taken by five faculty members, was announced by Dr. Tom Stombaugh, president of the faculty senate. The senate will meet early in September.

Stombaugh said 98 faculty members teaching at the school were reached in the poll and asked whether they were considering seeking a position elsewhere because of the "Traywick affair."

Traywick was released from his post at the Springfield college in a dispute with the Board of Regents. He has been hired as president of the University of Omaha.

Stombaugh said 29 of those polled gave affirmative replies, three said they were undecided, one refused to answer and the other replies were negative.

In one of the most spectacular scenes in the 20th Century-Fox epic, "Cleopatra," Elizabeth Taylor, in the title role, triumphantly enters the city of Rome. Richard Burton, as Mark Anthony, and Rex Harrison, as Julius Caesar, co-star in the De Luxe Color attraction, written and directed by Joseph L. Mankiewicz and produced by Walter Wanger. The romantic spectacle opens Thursday at the Fox Theatre.

A composite photo is used to illustrate Universal's hilarious romantic comedy in color, "The Brass Bottle." The genie, Burl Ives, is visible only to Tony Randall, and not to his financee, Barbara Eden, while the specialty dancing girl in the rear, LuLu Porter, is real enough for everybody. Freedom of Religion Topic Used at WMU

"Religious Liberty—A Baptist Heritage," was presented July 29 by Harvey Circle for Woman's Missionary Union at Mt. Herman Baptist Church. Mrs. Keith Venable was chairman. Participating were: Mrs. Pete Fidler, Mrs. Beryl McCoy, Mrs. R. L. Sprinkles, Mrs. Harry Joe Runge and Mrs. Russell Bellamy. Mrs. Venable offered prayer.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. R. F. Sprinkles, president, with the song, "Break Thou the Bread of Life." Mrs. Charles Bybee led prayer.

Eleven members and nine children attended.

Mrs. A. C. Henderson, Jr., gave the last three chapters of "Spiritual Life Development."

The Watusi

New Dance Takes Humans Back To Primitive Style

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The Watusi — and its 57 wiggling variations—has taken the town by twister.

It's danced at swank movie colony parties in black tie and at a half-dozen Sunset Strip nightspots by the sweatshirt and Capri pants set.

An anthropologist of the dance might see it as a full cycle from primitive man back to primitive man.

The Watusi — it's named for a tribe of tall Africans—is harder to describe than do. The dancer keeps his feet flat on the floor, shuffling them in a three-step while wiggling his hips and the shoulders forward, up and back.

Lana Turner is one of the wildest Watusi dancers in town. So is Patrice Wymore. When producer Ross Hunter gave a plush black tie party recently after the showing of his movie "The Chalk Garden," he brought on a group of real Watusi dancers to entertain.

They didn't entertain long because half the movie stars were on the floor doing the wild gyrations.

The current madness also includes the frug, the swim, the hitch hike and the hitchhiker.

In the frug the feet stand still and the torso shakes, rattles and rolls.

All the dances are easy to do. That's part of their popularity.

The idea is to keep moving. The rock 'n' roll beat will do most of the moving for you.

The earliest reference to the practice of diving occurs in the Iliad, where Patroclus compares the fall of Hector's charioteer to the action of a diver diving for oysters. Thucydides mentions the employment of divers during the siege of Syracuse to saw down the barriers which had been constructed below the surface of the water.

Bush Gets 190 More

Absentee Votes Bring No Change

The count of the absentee votes cast in the primary election was completed Friday afternoon in the office of County Clerk James Green and no change in the nomination of any candidate was effected by the vote. Hilary A. Bush, Lt. Governor, picked up 190 votes over Secretary of State Warren E. Hearnes for the nomination of Governor, Bush receiving 285 votes and Hearnes 95.

As a result of the absentee votes Bush finished the primary with a 305 majority over Hearnes for the county. Bush received an unofficial total of 2,647 and Hearnes a total of 2,342.

In the local race for State Representative Emmet Sullivan received 247 absentees and along with his 1,656, an unofficial count of 1,903, still far short of winning from Joe F. Rains who received 124 absentees combined with his 2,593 votes for a total of 2,717, or a majority for Rains of 814 votes. The third man in the race, Harry Elmer Kerr received 10 absentees plus 223 for a total of 233 votes.

The official count and canvass of the election will be conducted before the Pettis County Court, Monday, by County Clerk James Green.

New Troopers Graduated From School

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri Highway Patrol swore in 14 new troopers at its training school in Rolla Friday and, for the first time, the graduates have college credits for their training.

Under an agreement with Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg, the men received 22 hours of college credits for their training as troopers and for special English and law enforcement studies.

Col. Hugh H. Waggoner, superintendent of the patrol, said "Our job is becoming more difficult each day and to my knowledge we are the first law enforcement agency in the nation to get our training program approved for college credit.

"We are fortunate in getting outstanding young men for the patrol and everything possible is being done to keep our training abreast of the times. We want the people of Missouri to know we have geared our personnel selection and training to give more efficient service."

The new troopers and their assignments included:

Troop A at Lee's Summit — Lewis G. Ullery of Freeman.

Troop C at Kirkwood—Ralph G. Biele Jr. of Pevely, Clifford W. Cumins of Campbell and Randall P. Keller of Overland.

Troop D at Springfield — Adolph Belt Jr. of Kansas City, James D. Hall of Springfield and Thomas L. Siebert of Carthage.

Troop E of Poplar Bluff—Edward Conrad of Poplar Bluff.

They will go on duty Aug. 15.

ABWA Meeting

Miss Ida Cruzan Explains Work As Fair Entry Head

Miss Ida Cruzan, head of the entry department of Missouri State Fair, spoke about her work at the Aug. 4 dinner meeting of American Business Women's Association in the Ambassador Room of Hotel Bothwell. She was introduced by Mrs. Evelyn Raybourn, program chairman.

Mrs. T. E. Gasperson, president, introduced as her guest her daughter, Mrs. Henry Walker, Houston, Tex. Other guests were Mrs. Lauren Miner and daughter, Carolyn, the 1964 Smith-Cotton Senior girl who was recipient of the annual A.B.WA.. scholarship of $75 presented at the school recognition assembly in spring.

Miss Jessie White, music chairman, presented special music. Mrs. Jack Herndon sang "The False Prophet" and "Indian Love Call." She was accompanied by Mrs. H. O. Foraker.

A vocational talk was given by Miss Margaret Bohon who works at McLaughlin Furniture Company in the accounts department.

Invocation was given by Mrs. Frank Fisher, who also served as banquet chairman.

Tables were decorated with bouquets of garden flowers and Missouri State Fair signs, in keeping with the program.

Miss Cruzan reviewed the work on entries which are set up before the fair begins. All entries must go through the department, with few exceptions such as 4-H and FFA which are made through the University of Missouri Extension Center, in Columbia.

Most people do not realize how much work is required to get ready for a fair, the speaker stated. It takes weeks, even months, and sometimes years of planning and work to be ready by the opening date each year.

Every department has at least one entry book but some have two or three, as in horticulture; with five for beef cattle; and swine has ten entry books because there are so many breeds and weights. Since pages must be made in duplicate or even in triplicate as are those for livestock, shelves are stacked with entry books, with entries coming in by the bushel, said Miss Cruzan.

Exhibitors fill out an entry blank for each thing to be on exhibit. It is most important that these be filled out early to avoid mistakes or to give ample time for corrections to be made if necessary. Closing dates for various departments are staggered so entries will not all arrive at once. Even so, agriculture closing day is always quite busy, explained the department head. Germination tests must be made in Jefferson City. Since small seeds take the longest period of time, that closing date must be at least 21 days before the fair begins.

According to the speaker, programs are sent out in packs of 50, and one day recently five employees sent 7,000 which is quite a day's work.

Entries are usually made because of interest of exhibitors in hobbies, so ribbons indicating placement rating are another large part of the work and must be counted by the thousands from first to tenth places, along with the much sought after rosettes, Missouri plaques; and banners which are special awards to grand champions.

Miss Cruzan closed by saying most exhibitors are really nice and each year when she returns to her work at the fair it is like renewing old friendships and she is happy to see her exhibitor friends.

Steamship passage from Ireland to America could be bought for as little as $10 in the 1850s.

Malfunction At Missile Site Creates Smoke

An electrical malfunction caused some smoke in a Minuteman missile silo about 26 miles southwest of Warrensburg about 3:45 p.m. Friday. There was no fire and no danger of an explosion, an Air Force spokesman said, although all normal safety precautions were taken.

Maintenance personnel working at the site, designated as L-4, notified Whiteman Air Force Base of the incident and the base fire department was dispatched.

The Air Force is investigating the cause of the electrical failure. The Minuteman complex is fully armed and operational.

Sunnyside Extension Hears Family Subject

WAKE UP!

Retirement's 15 years off!

IF YOU'RE ENTERING the fast-flying forties, you can quickly count years till retirement. In 1961 the President signed a bill amending Social Security so you may draw reduced benefits at age 62 (80% of the benefits you'd collect at 65). And some company pension plans provide for early retirement at 55.

How much money will you have to live on for the rest of your life? Social Security payments now average $125 a month to couples 65 or more, and pension plans offer minimum subsistence. You need outside income from investments to enjoy the "extras" of life.

Fifteen years gives you time to get ready easily at First State Savings. High yield, currently 4% a year, and insured safety of savings make accumulating a retirement fund ever so practical.

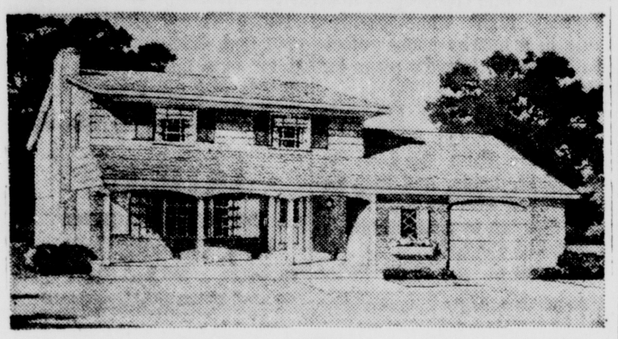
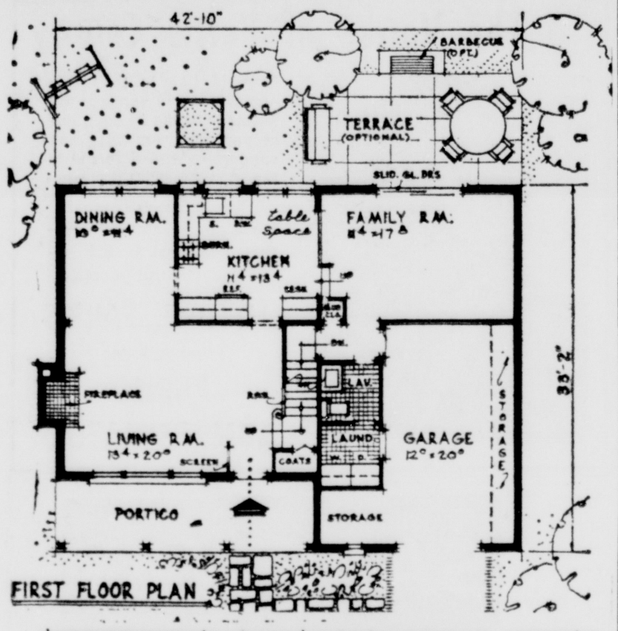
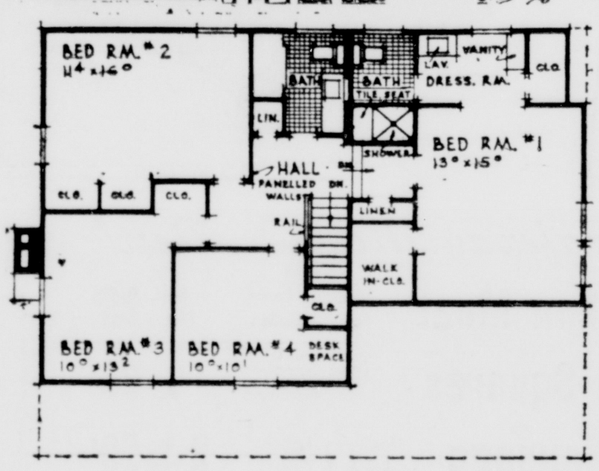
HOMES FOR AMERICANS







A SWEEPING PORTICO covered by an extension of the garage roof enhances the horizontal exterior line of this two-story Colonial, Plan HA355Y. Inside, the house is planned for the active family of today. The sunken family room offers easy access to the garage, laundry area and lavatory powder room and also boasts wide sliding glass doors leading outside. Upstairs, the smallest of four bedrooms features a 10-foot-square desk alcove — ideal for the teen-age student. Luxury touches in the master bedroom area are two large walk-in closets, a dressing room of generous proportions, a small vanity and lavatory, and a bathroom with a stall shower. The first floor contains 1,263 square feet of space, including the garage, and the second floor has 1,056 square feet of living space. The architect is Herman H. York, 90-04 161 St., Jamaica, N.Y.

Gibbons Is Stand-In for Hoffa

By JERRY CURRY

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Few smiles crack the face of Harold J. Gibbons, a rangy, 54-year-old Irish-American who runs the Teamsters Union while President James R. Hoffa fights to stay out of jail.

Hoffa personally picked Gibbons to mind business matters of the world's largest labor union while the stocky leader answers government charges in court. Gibbons has Hoffa's toughness, but not his flamboyance.

"I'm a union man because I came up the hard way," says Gibbons, one of 13 Teamster vice presidents. "I was the youngest of 23 children. When I was 14, my dad died of lung disease contracted in the Pennsylvania coal mines. That taught me a labor union is the only protection a working man has."

The 6-foot-1, 195-pound Gibbons has an amazing background. He has been a cook, teacher, college man, Socialist, foreign emissary, politician, anti-Communist, union organizer—and father of three children. He also has been jailed "for a few broken heads on the picket line."

Until last December Gibbons was executive assistant to Hoffa, who was convicted in Chicago July 26 of conspiring to defraud a union pension fund.

Hoffa is expected to appeal the conviction, which could lead to a 20-year prison term and fines totaling $13,000. He also is appealing an 8-year prison sentence given him in March in Chattanooga, Tenn., following his conviction on a charge of jury tampering in Nashville.

Gibbons resigned as Hoffa's lieutenant to return to the Teamsters local in St. Louis that he organized and in which he has fierce pride. His resignation was not made public until January.

Sources close to Gibbons said he and Hoffa had argued bitterly because Gibbons had ordered the Washington Teamsters office closed for a day when President John F. Kennedy was assassinated. But Gibbons has denied arguing with Hoffa over this.

Whatever the reason, their friends know a void exists between the two men. Hoffa apparently selected Gibbons for his present job, that of acting president, because of his talent alone.

Today, Gibbons and his wife and 17-year-old son, Larry, live in suburban Kirkwood. Their two-story Victorian frame house in a middle-income area is modestly furnished.

Their oldest son, Patrick, 24, is an Air Force lieutenant, and their 19-year-old daughter now is Mrs. Elizabeth Boggs, an art student at American University in Washington, D.C.

But Gibbons sees little of his family. When he is in St. Louis, only about one or two days a week, he spends most of his time working from a hotel suite on union business. The rest of the week is spent in Washington or traveling.

Gibbons came to St. Louis 23 years ago as director of Local 688, of the Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Employes' Union, CIO. About that time, he became a Socialist.

"I was a disciple of Norman Thomas," Gibbons recalls. "I felt the Socialists' program was the best for the working man. Some of the things we worked for then as Socialists are realities today."

But Gibbons led local 688 away from the parent body in 1948, charging that the CIO "was leaning too far to the left." A year later, he merged his local with the Teamsters.

"The bosses stopped beating us with goon squads and started trying to beat us with laws," Gibbons says. "We went into politics because it was our only answer."

Gibbons became a strong politician. A self-styled independent, he was a delegate to the Democratic National Convention in 1960 and will be again this year at Atlantic City.

In 1950, Gibbons was sent to France by the U.S. Economic Cooperation Administration to study effects of the Marshall Plan on French trade unions. Except for some caustic comments on European bureaucrats — "some of them were pretty stupid" — Gibbons felt the plan was working.

In 1957 Gibbons was elected an International Teamsters vice president — and also conducted a labor seminar at Harvard University.

Today, when Gibbons goes over proposals for a new labor contract, he has an icy demeanor, he listens, motionless and unsmiling, and then makes a decision. He's a human version of a digital computer, who deals with men instead of figures.

Gibbons tells management what he wants and management finds him a hard man to sway. But, management leaders consider Gibbons a man who can be trusted.

Reduce Charge

OLATHE, Kan. (AP) — A charge of first degree murder against Franklin Eugene Mason, 21, has been reduced to second degree in the stabbing of a youth at a rural tavern.

Lawrence J. Lohaus, 18, of Paola, was stabbed with a switchblade knife during a fight.

At Mason's preliminary hearing Friday James H. Bradley, magistrate pro tem, reduced the charge. Bradley said he was shown no cause to support a first degree murder charge.

Mason, of Independence, Mo., was released under $5,000 bond. His trial in district court was set for September.

Phi Phi Women Plan Bowling For Autumn

Phi Phi Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi Sorority made plans for a chapter sponsored bowling team at a meeting Aug. 5 at Liberty Park. Bowling begins in the fall.

A discussion was held regarding the fall rushing campaign. Mrs. Sondra Wood is 1964-65 rushing and pledging chairman.

International sorority theme for the year is "Invitation to Life." Rushing campaigns and social events will be planned around the theme.

Phi Phi Chapter traveled to Kansas City to view the Starlight Theatre Production of "Tom Sawyer" starring Bobby Rydell and entertained guests at a picnic during the summer. Regular meetings begin Sept. 28.

Miss Bonnie Wissman, president entertained at a pizza supper after the meeting.

Mrs. Galt to House For Late Husband

GAINESVILLE, Mo. (AP)—Mrs. Sue N. Galt apparently will succeed her late husband as Ozark County's representative in the Missouri House next year.

Henry Gault, 55, who sought re-election as a Republican, died of a heart attack Sunday. He was unopposed and the Democrats had no candidate for his post.

Marvin Pare, county Republican chairman, appointed Mrs. Gault as the GOP candidate in last Tuesday's primary election. State law allows for such action by a county chairman when a candidate dies within 15 days before a primary.

No Job Offers For Dalton In Washington

KANSAS CITY (AP)— Gov. John M. Dalton, who returned from Washington Friday, said no one has offered him a government job.

Governor and Mrs. Dalton spent Thursday night at the White House and Dalton said he had a friendly visit with President Johnson.

There have been reports that Dalton might succeed Luther Hodges as secretary of commerce.

"I've heard those rumors," he said, "but I have not been offered any job, and if I was, I would think long and hard before I would accept it."

Dalton said he has 153 days left as governor.

"Then my wife and I plan to take a trip and get some rest," he said. "We need that rest and we want it before we decide what to do.

"I think, however, that I will return to the practice of law."

Smoke In Minuteman Silo Blamed On Electrical Circuit

WHITEMAN AIR FORCE BASE, Mo. (AP)—A malfunction of an electrical circuit caused smoke in a Minuteman missile silo about 26 miles southwest of Warrensburg Friday.

There was no fire and no danger of an explosion of the missile in the silo, an Air Force spokesman said.

The smoke was discovered by maintenance workers who summoned firemen from Whiteman AFB.

Cutoff Is Threatened

Moment Of Truth Rushing Toward Premier Tshombe

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—The moment of truth is rushing toward Premier Moise Tshombe and his government of "national reconciliation and public safety," less than one month old.

The Communist-backed rebel warriors who captured Stanleyville Wednesday inflicted more than a defeat. By this one stroke, the rebel "popular liberation army" threatens to cut off the northeastern Congo from the last vestiges of Leopoldville's rule. The rebels won a launching pad for forays into the central Congo, already seething with discontent and tribal hatreds.

Advised and financed by the Chinese Communists, a spectral "Congolese people's republic" proclaimed last month by the Kivu rebel chieftain, Gaston Emile Soumialot, is fleshed with reality amid Stanleyville's fantastic extremists. They made Antoine Gizenga's 1962 breakaway regime a blood-stained nightmare.

Yet, less than two weeks ago, Stanleyville's 300,000 Congolese were wild in their enthusiasm for Tshombe, cheering the man they once called responsible for the murder of their idol, Patrice Lumumba, the Congo's fiery first premier.

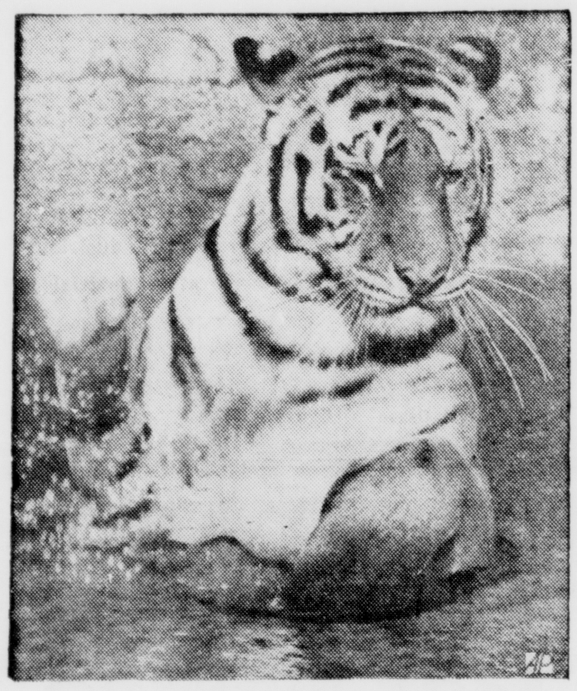
"I am the new Lumumba," Soumialot said this week in a radio broadcast claiming to come from Stanleyville. "I will come soon to Leopoldville," the goateed, 42-year-old former department store clerk boasted.

The past weeks have shown Tshombe how heavy is the task of trying to preserve the Congo's unity. Working days of 20 hours and more have taken some of the snap out of this 44-year-old scion of Lunda tribal royalty.

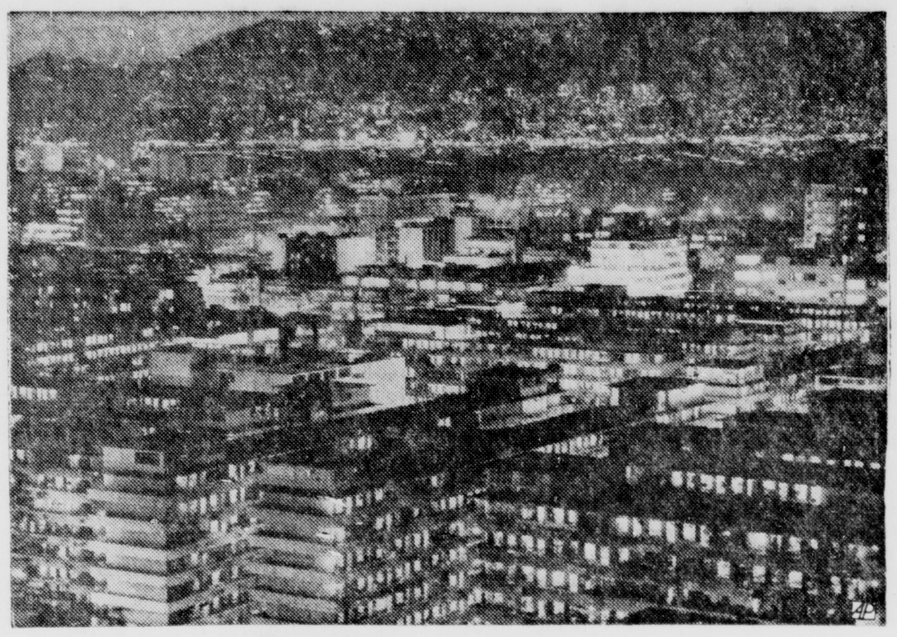
For those who doubted the Katangan's ability to change his secessionist spots, Tshombe has done everything to prove he was sincere when he raised his right arm and swore to kep the Congo intact.

But Tshombe's, and the Congo's, tragedy is that there is no strength in his right arm. The Congo's 35,000-man army, fathered by the 1960 mutiny, is a broken instrument.

With some exceptions, soldiers have refused to fight the rebels. Often, a rebel telephone call from the next town sent them running for safety. In less than three months, the rebels took one-sixth of the Congo's territory, usually by default.



REFRESHING PAWS — A tiger, resident of the county zoo in Milwaukee, forgot fabled feline reluctance to get wet and splashed in a pool to beat the 90 degree heat.



NIGHT IN HONG KONG — Lights are brighter in Hong Kong where the Colony has erected 7-story modern apartments to house thousands of refugees once housed in kerosene-lighted squatter shacks. Each building, like one in front, accommodates 2,500 people.

Aid Pleas Unheeded As Gang Robs Man

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A teen-aged gang beat and robbed a man Thursday night while persons living in a nearby house rejected his woman friend's pleas for help.

Seven youths took $12 from Ramsey Eddington, 50, and $11 from Miss Ruth Dockett, 34, both of St. Louis, and then began beating him with a blackjack. She ran to a nearby house and called for help.

Police were called after the gang fled. Eddington was treated for cuts and bruises. Miss Dockett was not injured.

SUNDAY

CANDID CAMERA (5-6-13) 9 p.m. — Comedian Woody Allen is told by a public stenographer that the emotional love letter he tries to dictate to her is the sort of communication that should be written in his own hand, in a featured sequence on "Candid Camera."

SHOW OF THE WEEK (4-8) 9 p.m. — "The Bachelor Game" starring Barry Nelson, Elliott Reid and Diana van der Vlis, with Carolyn Groves. In an effort to boost waning circulation, a young magazine editor (Nelson) attempts to get the life story of an oft-married movie star.

MOVIE (4) 10:15 p.m. — "The Far Horizons." The sweeping story of one of the most dangerous and significant adventures in America — the first overland journey across the mountains to the Pacific — across the perilous, unexplored Louisiana Territory. The story is told by focusing on those who dared this journey: Meriwether Lewis, Indian fighter, William Clark, and the Shoshone girl who guided them — their loves, their courage, and their struggle for survival.

WEDNESDAY

SUSPENSE (5-6-13) 7:30 p.m. — Keenan Wynn stars as a newspaper reporter who senses a big news story, in "Two-Bit Gangster." Sebastian Cabot is host-narrator. Wynn as Bill Ottman is puzzled by the fact that during a bank robbery a former hoodlum has given his life in defense of an innocent bystander. Later, a call from the red-haired robber gives the clue that helps fit the pieces into place.

THE VIRGINIAN (4-8) 6:30 p.m. — "A Bride for Lars." A neighboring rancher injures his back a few weeks before his wedding — and hires Trampas to pick up the mail-order bride (guest star Katherine Crawford.) Trampas is sent off with the warning that his life depends on bringing the girl back safely. Indians, outlaws, and a bewitchingly beautiful bride-to-be certainly don't make the assignment any easier.

MOVIE (4) 8 p.m. — "Bright Leaf." Based on Foster Fitz-Simons novel of love and conflict — and the turmoil of power that built one empire on the destruction of another. Driven off his land for becoming too attractive to a tobacco tycoon's daughter, tenant-farmer Brant Royle, has returned — armed. Financed by a 'business woman' (an old flame), he has joined forces with a medicine show man and a fellow who has just invented a unique device — a cigarette-making machine. Gary Cooper stars.

FRIDAY

MY THREE SONS (6-13) 8 p.m. — Robbie Douglas bones up on golf so he can play with distinction in the father-and-son tournament with Steve. In "Par For the Course," Robbie's pal, Gil, is against the match, fearing Steve will be disappointed in his son if he loses. And it soon appears Robbie will have a chance to find out if Gil is right.

THE DEATH OF STALIN (4-8) 9 p.m. — An NBC White Paper program telling the story of the last stages and the end of the Stalin era in Russia through rare film footage and first-hand reports from many prominent persons. Chet Huntley is narrator.

SATURDAY

THE DEFENDERS (5-6-13) 7:30 p.m. — London-born Leo Genn stars as a Nobel Prize-winning scientist charged with his wife's murder, in "The Colossus." Attorneys Lawrence and Kenneth Preston (series stars E. G. Marshall and Robert Reed) are faced with the problem of defending Dr. Morten Chaney (Genn), an accused man who, because of his scientific genius, places himself above the law.

OUTER LIMITS (6-13) 10:30 p.m. — Nick Adams as Mike Benson and Nancy Malone as Laura Hanley are mysteriously teleported from Earth and chosen to represent Earth in a fight for survival against a male and female from another planet. In "Fun and Games," if Mike and Laura refuse to fight, they and the planet Earth will be destroyed in five years. Mike thinks it would be better to return to Earth and live five years than take the chance of losing and dying on some unnamed planet.

MOVIE (4-8) 8 p.m. — "The Journey" in color, starring Deborah Kerr and Yul Brynner with Robert Morley, E. G. Marshall and Jason Robards, Jr. The story, set in 1956 near the end of the Hungarian revolt, of the strange relationship between a beautiful Englishwoman and a Russian officer.

MOVIE (4) 10:15 p.m. — "The Big Lift." Montgomery Cliff and Paul Douglas star in a personal drama — set within the framework of the true-life drama of the Berlin airlift. It is the story of two pilots who have been assigned to stay in Germany after the war as part of the air lift. Each faces a different conflict when both fall in love with German girls — and both try to exist within the turmoil of war-torn Berlin.

R-V District Schools Open On Aug. 31st

Pettis County R-V District schools will open Aug. 31. Classes for the first seven grades, with an anticipated enrollment of 235 pupils, will be housed in the Houstonia building, while the upper five grades, with an anticipated enrollment of 180 will meet in the Hughesville building.

Employed personnel are:

Elementary—Mrs. Lula Wheeler, grade one; Mrs. Jewell Schroeder, grade 2; Mrs. Barbara Leftwich, grade 3; Mrs. Nadine Payne, grade 4; Mrs. Estella Raines, grade 5; Mrs. Ruth Leftwich, grade 6; Mrs. Alyce Miller, grade 7; Mrs. Patty Bridges, music; Mrs. Henry Hayworth and Mrs. Lue Taylor, cafeteria; Dave Shields, custodian; Wallace Smiley, maintenance of service systems; Mrs. Loretta Robb, school secretary; Paul Vannatta, elementary principal.

High School — Bob Arnold, physical education and principal; Mrs. Patty Bridges, music; Mrs. Sarah Fricke, home economics and history; Loy Holman, industrial arts and driver's education; Miss Goldilee Kissinger, English; Mrs. Lois Kent, junior high school; Lloyd McDowell, business education; Paul Stephens, social studies and mathematics; Don Stratton, chemistry and mathematics; Mrs. Mary Wheeler, Mrs. Lorene Smith, cafeteria; William Schlomer, custodian; Wallace Smiley, school transportation and maintenance of service systems; Vivian Vannatta, secretary to the superintendent.

Much work has been done by custodial and maintenance personnel in repair and renovation of equipment and cleaning and decorating rooms and hallways.

Parking areas at both schools has been resurfaced and all playground equipment shifted to the elementary school.

Bus routes are being established so that no bus will begin loading earlier than in the past or finish unloading later. Since routes are radically changed from last year, every family having children riding buses will be notified of approximate times children will be picked up.

Seek Pictures Of First Year College Attendees

Pictures of Sedalia trade area residents who will be attending college for the first time this year, will appear in the Aug. 30 edition of The Democrat-Capital.

Those who have not already submitted pictures and desire publication of their pictures in this edition are invited to send one to: School Editor, The Sedalia Democrat, Sedalia, Mo.

Include with picture: name, name of parents, address, college or university you will attend, high school you graduated from and year graduated. Subject student will major in may also be included. Picture should have name printed on back. Pictures may be brought to the news room on the second floor of The Democrat building or mailed. Such pictures may be picked up any time after they have been published.

This edition is the only time of the year pictures of students going to college are accepted for publication. Deadline for submission is Tuesday, Aug. 21 and cannot be accepted thereafter due to increased news room activity resulting from the State Fair.

It has been estimated that only 1 per cent of all songs copyrighted and published in he U. S. ever achieve success, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

DOUBLE-BREASTED COAT with fake fur collar, pile lining is smart for school.

YOUR EYES AND VISUAL FUNCTIONS

When getting children ready for the school year nothing can be more important than eyes and health. Learning depends upon vision. Children's vision depends upon the thoughtful care of parents.

Children should be given a careful, painstaking examination of eyes and vision at an early age. Only in this way can parents be sure that the child enters school prepared to learn and do the required school work.

Many noted authorities say that more than half of all school children have inadequate visual skills to achieve successfully in their studies. Every child deserves the chance to learn and compete with the other children in the class.

The Missouri Optometric Association suggests that it is eminently worth while to have the school child's eyes carefully examined at least once each year. Optometry has developed a system of preventive and protective eye care for the student that is a wide departure from the methods in use a decade or two ago.

Especially is this true in the prevention and control of myopia (near-sightedness). It is the exception today for a child or young adult to develop high amounts of myopia when under modern optometric care. The onset of myopia can often be prevented entirely by proper and timely care.

Smithton R-VI Schools Open Half-Day Aug. 31

Smithton R-VI Schools will open Aug. 31 for a half-day session. Buses will run at the same times and on the same routes as last year, unless parents are otherwise notified. There will be no lunches served on the first day. Lunchroom operations will start Sept. 1.

Several new teachers have been added to the staff for this year. In the elementary school, Marlene Meyer, who taught at Warsaw, will teach first grade. Mrs. John Bronson, who taught last year at Georgetown will teach second grade. Gladys Atkins, who has been teaching in Hughesville, will teach the sixth grade.

In the junior and senior high school, Rodney Meyer will be principal and varsity coach. Mr. Meyer has been coach at Lincoln High School four years. Rebecca Rothganger will teach junior high science and mathematics. She taught in a Raytown Junior High and last year taught at Georgetown. Judith LeTourneau, a beginning teacher, will teach commercial subjects. Don Crank, also a first-year teacher, will teach driver education, physical education and will be assistant coach.

Courses added this year include contemporary issues, mathematical analysis, and advanced biology. A speech therapist will again be furnished in cooperation Children's Therapy Center, Sedalia. Mrs. Rhoads will be employed for the full school day this year, instead of a half day as in the past.

Improvements to be made to the building and grounds include painting of classrooms, and refinishing floors, new darkening drapes for the math room, new desks and chairs for fifth and sixth grade rooms, new playground equipment, a sealer applied to the blacktop drive and some improvements on the sewage disposal system.

Ohio had 3,939 churches of various connections in 1850.

Warsaw R-III Plans Opening For Aug. 31st

Warsaw Public School R-III will open Aug. 31.

High school and grade students are to enroll Aug. 17 through 21. High school students are to pay book fees when enrolling. The fee is $8, plus $1.25 for each work book needed.

Beginners and students attending for the first time should present their birth certificate and a record of immunization for smallpox, diphtheria and polio.

Schedule for enrollment is: Aug. 17, seniors, fifth and sixth grades; Aug. 18, juniors, third and fourth grades; Aug. 20, freshmen and first grade; Aug. 21, seventh and eighth grades.

Morgan Co. Prepares To Open Schools

High Point, R-III District recently elected one new member to the board of education and appointed a new president. M. E. "Bill" Phillips was elected for a two year term replacing J. E. Wood, and Glenn Atkinson became the new president.

The teachers remain the same. Mrs. Lucy Papen will begin her 15th year as principal. Mrs. Margaret Martine has been a middle grades teacher for 16 years and Mrs. Anna M. Pullen will start her third year in the primary department.

New board members at Latham R-V District will be Dean Irey taking the place of William L. Higgins.

At Latham Mrs. Janet Berry, will replace John Pealer as principal. Mrs. R. G. Thompson will take the place of Mrs. Lois Moser and Mrs. Frances Pettigrew who has been doing substitute teaching will become regular primary teacher.

The biggest turnover in board members in Moniteau County Elementary Schools was at Clarksburg C-II. Henry Hodges will succeed Floyd Birdsong as non-member secretary to the board. Donnie Harris will take Harold Coffelt's place and Lloyd Winebrenner replaces Bill Baker.

Mrs. Dorothy Sappington will replace Mrs. Rachel Sappington as primary teacher.

When Senate Bill 327 was enacted by the 72nd General Assembly and became effective the whole plan for electing county board members was changed. The old board, elected by district board members in Moniteau County was dissolved and plans set up for electing a new board by direct vote of the people. Election date was changed from the second Tuesday to the first Tuesday in April.

Four of the former board members filed for reelection and three were elected without opposition. L. R. Martine a board member for many years was defeated by William Carpenter. Bobby Bryant and Fred Bolinger were elected to replace Charles Haller and Leo Engelbrecht, who did not run.

The present six-man board is made up of Merlyn Hays, president, Bollinger and Carpenter from District II (South) and Hugh Alexander, Jack Bowlin and Bryant from District I (North). The law provides that the county superintendent of schools is the secretary of this board.

Cleaning, finishing and painting of the interiors of buildings is being done to prepare for opening of school Aug. 31. A new front curtain for the stage at C-II, Clarksburg, was put into use for the closing of school activities last May.

Enrollment will be up in each district, especially in R-III, High Point.

Benton County R-I Convenes Aug. 31

Benton County R-I School, Cole Camp, will open Monday, Aug. 31. A full day of classwork is planned with all departments operating.

The new addition, consisting of four classrooms, a library and study hall combination, a multi-purpose room, rest rooms, and additional heating equipment will be ready later in the year, possibly by Dec. 1.

New faculty members include Ray Fitterling, high school principal; DeWayne Duncan, grade school principal; Bob Cossin, coach and physical education; Mrs. Opal Williams, grade three; Mrs. Diana Cossin, grade five; Miss JoAnn James, grade five; Larry Tevis, high school English and Spanish.

Book days for high school students will be announced later.

Mrs. Laura Brauer Heads R-2 Library

Mrs. Laura Brauer, Syracuse, will be new school librarian at Morgan County R-2 School. She was formerly on the Tipton School faculty.

Improvements Made At Morgan R-2 School

A new roof is to be put on the east wing of Morgan County R-2 High School building. Work on a two-year bonded pitch and gravel roof is scheduled to be completed in September.

More than $8,000 has been spent for new text books to be used in R-2 schools, Dean Riley, superintendent, has announced.

Pressures From Children ,Adults Focus Attention

Growing Importance of Libraries

A major area of the great American system of education—one that is all too frequently neglected in the thinking of the average layman — is currently under tremendous and constantly rising pressure to fulfill its increasingly important role.

This is the area of learning dependent upon the smooth functioning of the nation's libraries —in communities, in schools and in colleges.

The pressure arises from the collision of great hordes of school children of all ages flowing into libraries everywhere for help in completing research and required reading with the sharply increasing numbers of adults in quest of more knowledge necessary to their own advancement.

An example of what's happening is cited by the American Library Association. A survey in an eastern city indicates that high school youngsters will spend more than 12,000,000 hours during a year in libraries.

Add to this an increase of 40 per cent over the past six years in circulation of adult books and the picture begins to take on substance.

The more than 17,000,000 grown-ups enrolled in adult education classes, the millions of others in company sponsored classes, and countless others seeking on their own to fit themselves for advancement or for the new career opportunities opened up for them by these technological times, all increase the burden.

Strive to Expand

Libraries are striving to expand their facilities, their staffs and their services. The complexities of the age have prompted the adaptation of electronic data machines in some colleges to their library problems, to lessen the time devoted to search and thus to increase the availability of needed information.

Further expansion of the services of libraries is, of course, dependent on finances made available to them by government and private action.

Common conception of the library once held it to be a storehouse for books people might like to read. Some authorities point out the library is rapidly becoming an encyclopedic institution aimed at making important and needed information quickly available.

Yet the need for more books—basic to all education — to replace outmoded volumes and as additional copies to meet the avid demand, far exceeds current ability of many libraries to provide them.

Some 10,000 more librarians are needed to staff school libraries. This makes an opportunity for interested youth in-aid and loans available to those who will train for library careers.

A 104-page booklet jam-packed with information on the subject is available at 50 cents from the Educational Division of the American Library Association, 50 E. Huron St., Chicago, Ill., 60611.

For people interested in evaluating library services in their own communities, single copies of a leaflet titled "How Does Your Library Stack Up," are available free to those who send a stamped self addressed envelope to the Public Library Association, care of the ALA at its Chicago address.

Offer Reading Lists

Single copies of reading lists for college bound high school students, one on "Outstanding Biographies" and the other on "Outstanding Fiction," also are available free on request from the Library Association's Young Adult Services Division.

The association and its divisions offer many other constructive services to the general public.

Learning How To Read, Now Many Faceted

Parents new at having children in school may find themselves puzzled by the different methods being used today to teach youngsters reading, the most important of the three R's, says the Naitonal Education Association.

The two newest methods are called the "language approach" and the "augmented alphabet" methods, according to Dr. Ethel M. Thompson of the Elementary-Kindergarten - Nursery department of the Association.

Most Widely Used

Most widely used now is the Individualized approach which allows children to select their own materials and set their own pace.

Some new notion of how new methods for teaching reading work may be had from the friendly "battle" between schools in Illinois sister cities separated only by a street.

Studies show pupils in Urbana, where the "look-say" or whole word recognition system is used, are ahead of the "phonics" readers in Champaign, at the end of the first month of school.

Importance Enhanced

Introduction of teaching machines and visual education methods into classrooms have served only to enhance the importance of learning to read well.

All depends in the end on an understanding of words and their meanings, singly and in combination. All refer back to books which continue the major repositories of knowledge and wisdom.

Green Ridge R-VIII Opens On Aug. 31st

Opening day for Green Ridge R-VIII Schools has been set for Monday, Aug. 31, with a full day's schedule.

Estimates indicate enrollment will be about the same as in the past, with 250 elementary and 100 high school students.

Three new faculty members have been employed. Mrs. John Purchase will teach fifth grade; Mrs. Robert Roach, special education; James Edmundson, coach and physical education instructor.

The bus loading area and parking lot has been resurfaced. New lights and a new backstop have been erected on the baseball field. Additional fall plans call for more landscaping.

Classes begin at 8:45 a.m.; dismissal at 3:25 p.m.

California R-1 School to Use New Addition

California R-1 School will open Aug. 31. This year will begin use of new building built through a special school bond election Oct. 9, 1962, when a $500,000 bond issue was approved.

The new addition consists of two rooms for science, chemistry, physics, etc.; two rooms for the mathematics department; more space for home economics, modern equipment; industrial arts facilities; space for music department, more office space; physical education space, and four rooms for elementary grades.

Seven teaching areas will be vacated in the old building, making additional library space and study hall areas. Offices will be available for the principal and guidance director. The agriculture shop and classroom area will be increased, due to relocation of industrial art classes. More room will be available for cafeteria expansion. Because of the vacated classrooms, the fourth through the eighth grades will have extra space, and the old gymnasium will be available for elementary exercise area in bad weather, along with a junior high physical education program, separated from senior high school.

The new building is located just south of the present high school building. It was built on space formerly used as a school parking lot. The elementary addition is on the west side of the elementary building.

Teachers will begin duties on Aug. 26. Pupils will start back to school Aug. 31.

A 9-PLY CASHMERE YARN has been created to give extra body to sweaters.

Windsor Schools Employ Several New Teachers

Opening date of Windsor public schools will be Aug. 31.

New teachers are: William Walter Fish, science; Gloria Carpenter, junior high English and publications; Thomas Goddard, physical education and basketball coach; Robert J. Southern, vocational agriculture; James O. Wallace, social studies and assist with athletics; Lois Kay Bailey, girls' physical education; Mrs. Evelyn Allee, elementary; Mrs. Frances Tullis, remedial reading.

Enrollment dates for junior and senior high students will be: Seniors, Aug. 21; juniors, Aug. 24; sophomores, Aug. 25; freshmen, Aug. 26; eighth graders, morning, Aug. 27; seventh graders, afternoon, Aug. 27.

Textbook rental fees for top four grades will be $8. Seventh and eighth grade books are furnished.

Summer maintenance included 3,000 square yards of playground covered with asphalt. All ceilings in rooms on lower floor of old elementary building have been covered with acoustical tile.

Safety for Young

Parents Urged to 'Map' Safe Way Back to School

There are a greater number of parents of elementary school children in this nation than ever before who will have to give more than cursory attention to this matter of safety in traffic for their youngsters this year.

This situation arises because many of the youngsters may be going to school over unfamiliar routes to new schools just opened or to older schools to which enrollment problems have made it necessary for them to be transferred, or to schools in areas into which their families have moved.

The procedure recommended to parents in all such cases is the same as recommended in the instances of first-timers.

Explore the area for the best and safest route for them to take, then walk them over it a few times before the opening of the school term.

Everywhere the now indispensable School Safety Patrolmen will be on duty to help their schoolmates to safety. Also, police safety measures will be amplified by use of adult Crossing Guards.

But these precautions can not cover all eventualities, and neither can they be at peak efficiency until after the school term has started.

One way of assuring the interest of young children in learning the safest routes to and from school is to prepare a block by block map of the area over which they will have to travel, and then induce them to help chart the safe course on the map.

Never cross a street in the middle of a block. Go to the intersection.

Always mind your School Safety Patrolmen. They are there to protect your safety.

American school children have built up an enviable record of safety from traffic hazards, thanks to the efforts of the schools, the police and automobile clubs.

Parents can help keep that record improving.

Watch the Wall!

By GEORGE FIELDING ELIOT

Are the Reds wondering if it might be wise to tear down the infamous Berlin barrier? Since they built it three years ago this week, it has raised more problems for them than it has solved

ON THE MORNING of August 13, 1961, the people of Berlin awoke to a terrible discovery. Treacherously, in the darkness of night, the East German Communists under Walter Ulbricht had begun the raising of a wall across the city, a wall that divided free West Berlin from Communist East Berlin and barred movement between the two.

The roar of furious outrage from West Berlin and West Germany was heard around the world. By nightfall, the Berlin Wall was hitting the front pages and the tv screens all over the globe.

Berliners had no doubt about its meaning. It symbolized what Nikita Khrushchev meant when he called Berlin a bone that stuck in his throat. It meant that the humiliating daily spectacle of East Germans making their way through Berlin to freedom and opportunity in the West could not longer be endured by Khrushchev and his puppet, Ulbricht.

So they built the Wall—with its concrete barriers across once open streets and squares, with its bricked-up doors and windows in buildings facing the Western sector, with its few and closely guarded checkpoints, its patrols and machine guns and mines.

It was intended as a symbol of despair to the people of East Germany. Submit, bow your necks—there is no longer hope of escape.

The East Germans refused to yield to despair. Instead, day after day for three long years, they have risked their lives, exercised their ingenuity and patience to find ways of "defeating" the Wall.

They have dug tunnels under it. They have picked their way brick by brick through the walls of houses. They have crashed through the checkpoint barriers in trucks and motorcars. They have swum canals. They have jumped from roofs into nets held by West Berliners. Many have lost their lives in these persistent ventures. Others have been caught and dragged back to captivity. But many more have won their way to freedom in the West: some singly, some in whole family groups. And they are still at it.

The world, watching the Wall, has had continuous evidence of the very truth that Ulbricht built the Wall to hide: that the German people, having seen communism in their midst, want no part of it. This was plain enough when they were simply fleeing from it as fast as they could. The Wall forced them to risk their lives to get away from it—and they go right on proving that they would rather be dead than Red.

In the first days of the Wall, many Amercans thought we should bring up tanks and bulldozers and smash it then and there because it denied our right to free movement within Berlin. But others warned that the Russians might send their troops to help defend the Wall—and possibly start World War III.

SO THE WALL STOOD. It still stands. And today those who built it may be wondering whether they might not better tear it down themselves. Last Christmas, Ulbricht offered to allow free passage for West Berliners to visit relatives and friends in East Berlin. Again the Wall became front-page news as West Berliners crossed over in tens of thousands to visit dear ones they had not seen for years. The free passage was strictly one way—west to east: but it marked a shift in Communist policy, the recognition of a need to ease the tension, to tone down despair.

The Communists may have thought they gained something in this way. At any rate, they offered to repeat the experiment at Easter. But there had been criticism in West Germany of the Christmas experiment because it is contended that even the degree of official contact necessary to arrange passes for individuals is in some way a recognition of the Ulbricht regime. So the Easter visits were barred as politically inadvisable.

This may seem unduly harsh to Americans. Yet the Wall is a symbol—or a barometer, if you like—of something more than despair and brutal repression. In the hearts of all Germans, it is a symbol of their divided country: the denial of the hope which still lives in German hearts—however much they may avoid it with their practical minds—the hope that one day Germany will be reunited.

This is the most dangerous, the most sensitive, the most explosive political problem of Europe today. It is a problem which is in the minds of all the great men who visit Berlin from time to time, although they are careful not to discuss it in public.

But they all go to visit the Wall. Two Presidents of the United States have stood at "Checkpoint Charlie" and looked at the Wall with revulsion in their hearts. In the shadow of the Wall, John F. Kennedy spoke the words that no German will forget: "I am a Berliner!" At the Wall, Lyndon B. Johnson pledged America's might to the faithful defense of the liberties of West Berlin. Kings and prime ministers, chiefs of state, delegations from the free parliaments and congresses of the Western World—all have stood before the Wall, sensed its meaning, and denounced the cruelty and folly of its builders.

It is as though the Wall has become a shrine to which the leaders of the Free World come from time to time to be rededicated to the great task remaining before them. If Herr Ulbricht were a sensitive man, he would start tearing it down tomorrow morning.

The Little-Known Side

On Aug. 10, Americans will mark the 90th anniversary of his birth, yet few people really know much about him—a man with enemies, but no ex-friends!

By EUGENE LYONS

The former President signs autographs for members of the Boys' Club of America, a favorite charity.

IN THE PERIOD after President Herbert Hoover's defeat for re-election, he was often described—by people who did not know him—as a "lonely old man." The truth is: very few men were so richly blessed in loyal and gregarious friendships.

During World War II, Hoover was kept from contributing his special expertise to the national effort, yet he was one of the best-informed men on public affairs. This was because, in every department of government, there were men and women, Democrats and Republicans, New Dealers and Old Dealers, who had a devotion to the former President that can only be described as filial. Though he solicited no information, they kept him apprised, in confidence, of developments which seemed to them of special interest to him.

In 1947 Hoover went on a fact-finding mission for President Truman. I asked men who accompanied him how he managed to gather so much detailed data in such a short time. Part of the answer was: the amazing number of Hoover friends deployed throughout the world! In virtually every capital, there were sure to be diplomats, businessmen, and military men, humbly placed or eminent, Americans or foreigners, for whom a request from Hoover was a test of loyalty on which they never defaulted.

To have worked under Hoover once, it seemed, was to become a reserve officer in his "army" for life. These friends were (and those who survive still are) an extraordinary lot. Because of their intense devotion to the Chief, they were devoted to one another, forming a kind of loose fraternity. For each of them, Hoover's suggestion had the effect of a command. On his part, he took for granted that they would drop whatever they were doing, at whatever sacrifice in time and money, to rush on errands of mercy or public service—paying their own expenses to boot.

In talking to many of these friends, I became increasingly aware that I was dealing with the initiates of a cult—a cult that rested solely on admiration and affection. One of his friends, in trying to convince me how they all felt about the Chief, used the word "veneration." Another, when I alluded to Hoover's supposed coldness, all but lost his temper. "Cold?" he exclaimed. "How could anyone who inspired such loyalty and such warmth have been cold?"

Once a year, as many of these initiates as could manage it got together with him for dinner. In the earlier years, before the ranks were thinned by time, there were usually more than 200. It was a purely sentimental occasion, a family party, and no one recalls just how it got started. A "silver" loving cup (made of high-quality tin) was presented to the guest who had come the longest distance. It was won by men from Europe and China, Africa and Australia. In 1947, because he was away on the Truman mission, the dinner took place without him, an empty chair symbolizing his presence in spirit.

No President in this century, not even F.D.R., has been under such concentrated attack from many directions. But the Hoover cultists point out proudly that no attack ever has come from people close to him. Although a spate of vicious anti-Hoover books polluted the national air in the last year of his Presidency, they were written, without exception, by people who did not know him personally. The ugliest were by men who had not even met him.

A Devoted White House Team

Here, for the record, is a fact that should be known and savored: Hoover had a multitude of enemies but no ex-friends. Of the top 100 men whom he appointed to office during his term in the White House, some died, a few retired for reasons of health, many were promoted—but not one resigned, not one was dismissed.

Hoover's gift for friendship and for inspiring associates rates high in an accounting of his personality. Those who have known him best have loved him best. In nearly 70 years of business and public service, not one major coworker of Hoover's turned against him.

Whatever the general public may have thought of him at any given time, the men and women closest to him have loved him constantly in all seasons. They loved him largely for those very qualities of warmth, kindness, and geniality about which the public knew almost nothing.

In talking to Hoover's lifelong admirers, one discovers, too, that their affection has had in it a large element of protectiveness and eagerness to shield him against a heartless world. They felt that they must guard him against his willingness to credit others with his own motivations, to underrate human cussedness and greed. But, when they took it upon themselves to fight the Chief's personal battles, they got precious little encouragement from him.

In their unswerving loyalty to Hoover, his friends were dealing in his own native coin. Without exception, they recounted examples of the Chief's quiet, unobtrusive, but vigilant concern for the men and women in his unofficial family. Not the big and dramatic things but small acts typical of the man, like this one Edgar Rickard took relish in telling:

In the summer of 1946, Rickard was in a San Francisco hospital for an operation. Somehow, Hoover surmised what his friend did not say: that he yearned to have with him his married daughter, then in Massachusetts. A few days later, on the eve of the operation, the door opened, and there she was! Hoover apparently had telephoned her and suggested that it would do her father good to see her. By the time she reached New York, Lucius Boomer of the Waldorf-Astoria, who was another in that circle of Hoover cultists, had arranged the transportation. And, at the San Francisco airport, Hoover himself met her and drove her at once to her father's bedside.

Another friend told about the time during World War I when a subordinate of Hoover's in the U.S. Food Administration wrote an indiscreet letter, which said in effect: "To heck with the boys on Capitol Hill!" The letter fell into the hands of a senator who rushed to Hoover to demand that the man be disciplined. "When I appoint men I take responsibility—even for their mistakes," the Food Administrator told him.

There are people who practice sin in secret, but Hoover is that rarer individual who practiced virtue in secret. He went to extreme lengths to hide some of his private benevolences, especially from those who benefited through them. He avoided facing people he helped whenever possible, as if fearing to burden them with the obligation of gratitude.

An Early Concern for Mankind

Hoover's philanthropies began in college days, when much of his modest summer earnings went for "loans" to classmates poorer than himself. When he began to earn his first substantial salary, in Australia, he sent a monthly slice to his friend, Lester Hinsdale, for distribution among Hoover relatives and needy students. The fact was disclosed by Hinsdale; it's not the kind of thing that Hoover would tell or admit. Forever after, he ran away from questions about his personal charities as if they were clandestine vices. Will Irwin wrote in 1928:

"For 20 years, I have in California or New York observed men and women of our common acquaintance sliding smoothly through a crisis like a long illness or unemployment. Then, years later perhaps, I would learn, by some impulsive confession or through the process of dovetailing two remote facts, that the solvent was—Hoover."

Herbert Corey, writing in Nation's Business, gave similar testimony: "Extremely generous, he has saved many of his old friends from humiliation as their earning power declined." He would wangle a loan, a job, or other help for them, and only years thereafter, if ever, might they discover who was behind the miracle.

Two of Hoover's associates told me they had seen their Chief weeping. The occasions, more than 20 years apart, both involved his sensibility to the sufferings of children.

The first incident was after World War I when a campaign for child-famine relief was under way. More than a score of urchins called on Hoover, each clutching pennies in hot, not overly clean palms: their contribution to the fund. Hoover began to talk to the youngsters, but suddenly tears came to his eyes and he walked away.

The second incident was in Hoover's New York suite during World War II. My informant was present when a visitor was describing the ordeal of little children in Nazified countries. Suddenly, Hoover walked to the window and turned his back on the room. The others looked away in embarrassment when his shoulders began to shake with sobbing.

Eternally the Thoughtful Friend

From a much later period, here is a story told by Adm. Lewis Strauss in his book of memoirs, Men and Decisions. The Admiral had become the center of an ugly political battle when President Eisenhower nominated him as Secretary of Commerce. In a late night session, the Senate turned him down by a paper-thin margin. In the small hours of the morning, the Admiral and his wife, naturally depressed by the outcome, were walking down the corridor toward their hotel room when they heard their telephone ringing. It was his old Chief calling from New York.

"How are you?" Hoover inquired.

"Tired but well," Strauss answered.

"Good," he said, "I have been listening to this awful business on the radio and didn't want to go to bed until I had talked with you to make sure that you are taking it the right way."

In telling me this story, Adm. Strauss concluded by saying: "Mr. Hoover was then in his 85th year. The hour was 2 in the morning, and his regular bedtime was 10 o'clock. I reflected that there, indeed, was a man who had no ex-friends, and with good reason. I went to sleep, proud and not unhappy."

A 'copter trip to the Fair is high in price—and popularity.

"Sleepers" of the World's Fair

Here's a rundown on the surprises in New York—the exhibits and shows that got lost in opening ballyhoo and were discovered by Fairgoers themselves

By JACK RYAN

EVERYBODY KNEW General Motors, Ford, Chrysler, the Vatican, and General Electric would be big hits at the 1964-1965 New York World's Fair.

But whoever heard of "To Be Alive!", Atomsville, the Oregon Timber Show, and Space Park?

Relatively unknown exhibits, they have measured up to the giants of the World's Fair in the estimation of the more than 20 million persons who have seen the exposition so far—and they are just a sampling of surprise packages which were largely overlooked in preview hullaballoo. Here's FAMILY WEEKLY's selection of "sleepers"—shows Fairgoers have marked as musts along with the sure-fire exhibits:

When the Fair opened, Johnson's Wax Pavilion was known as the place "they give free shoeshines." That's true, but it took several weeks for the real word to spread—"Be sure to see that Johnson movie, 'To Be Alive!'"

Lippincott & Margulis, Inc., industrial designers, and producers Francis Thompson and Alexander Hammid use three screens to project the story of youngsters growing up around the world. The film is poetic, entertaining—and thrilling. In one scene, the cameras twist and turn down a treacherous mountain road. How realistic is the downward plunge? Just peek at the audience—they are rocking back and forth, compensating for the series of breathtaking turns.

Everybody knew Spain was going to the Fair in a big way. The surprise was that with the bigness came exquisite taste and exciting color. Many critics name the Spanish Pavilion by Javier Carvajal, 35-year-old Madrid architect, the most beautiful building at the Fair, an airy blending of traditional Spanish and modern. Inside, the Spaniards have produced the two acknowledged gourmet restaurants of the Fair, Toledo and Granada, catered expensively by the famed Jockey Club of Madrid. Also, there are art exhibits—paintings of El Greco, Goya, Velázquez, Murillo, Picasso, and paintings and jewelry by Dali—and regular performances which might be anything from bagpipers from Galacia to flamenco dancing from Valencia.

The Oregon Timber Show is tucked away in a remote corner, but you can locate it by listening for the "ohs" and "ahs" of the audiences. The show features championship timbermen, who race each other in timber cutting with razor-sharp saws and axes, then try to tip each other into a lagoon while logrolling. The heart-stopping part comes when timber climbers scamper up a 110-foot pole and cavort on its very top.

The African Pavilion is relatively small but jam-packed with the unexpected, notably the pulse-quickening Royal Drummers of Burundi and the Watusi dancers whose authentic African ceremonies stir even footsore Fairgoers. Tucked away in corners are playful monkeys, baby elephants, and other animals! And if you dine at the tree-top restaurant, you are likely to

Critics of the Fair say it's too much of a "looker's" exposition and not enough of a "doer's" show. But at Atomsville, the Atomic Energy Commission has a kids-only exhibit entirely keyed to participaton. Grownups watch through one-way windows while kids operate mechanical hands to pick up "radioactive material"; prospect for uranium on a vast floor map of the world, pressing buttons to learn if the region they've picked would bring riches or a big disappointment; operate a "nuclear reactor" which, if power builds too quickly, will "scram"—shut itself off like a real reactor.

Space Park, like the Atom Playground, frankly appeals to the young and inquisitive. It features the largest collection of space hardware outside Cape Kennedy, and although youngsters can't blast off, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the Defense Department have experts on hand —including an occasional astronaut —to answer questions.

YOU CAN TRAVEL to the Fair for 15 cents via subway—or for $6.50 by helicopter. And one of the surprises reported by a World's Fair spokesman is the number of people taking the high (in altitude and price) way. Before the big vacation crowds arrived, helicopters already had carried 22,000 persons, with the rate accelerating daily. By the time the Fair ends, this could be the busiest helicopter route in history, one affording a spectacular view of Manhattan and a looping tour of the Fairgrounds.

Florida attracts good crowds in an area many people bypass. The reason: nature's own showmen. As a come-on, the exhibit has offered a free duck show—trained ducks, that is, that open doors, play bells, and take comic prat falls right at your feet. It's a wonderful come-on for another show starring nature's great clowns, the trained porpoises. They sing, play basketball, upstage each other, and have as good a time as the audience. Finally, you can watch a man wrestle an alligator. Take your pick.

THE BIG pay-entertainment shows at the Fair have been soft spots financially, but "To Broadway with Love" at the Texas Pavilion may succeed with an age-old formula —corn, pop songs, girls, and spectacular costumes and settings. It's just a big "Hit Parade" but well done and fast moving.

DuPont offers one of the longest and most elaborate shows at the Fair. The first half is a curious combination of live performers interacting with figures and scenes projected on motion-picture screens scattered across the stage. The second part is a chemical-magic show that has tricks even jaded magic buffs have never seen.

That's just one selection of "sleepers." There probably are more candidates, but half the fun is finding them yourself before they become fashionable. With 648 acres to explore, there's still plenty of ground to cover in search of the wonderfully unexpected.

Spain's Pavilion is among most beautiful, its shows most fiery.

MIDSUMMER MENU

Curried Shrimp in Patty Shells

- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 small onion, thinly sliced
- 1 small clove garlic, minced
- ¼ to ½ teaspoon curry powder
- 1 can condensed cream of celery soup
- ½ cup milk
- 1½ lbs. shrimp, cooked, peeled, and deveined
- ½ cup cooked peas
- 6 to 8 baked puff pastry patty shells

1. Heat butter in a saucepan; stir in the onion, garlic, and curry powder. Cook until onion is tender.

2. Combine soup and milk; blend well and stir into the saucepan along with the cooked shrimp and peas.

3. Place over low heat until thoroughly heated, stirring occasionally. Serve in warm patty shells. 6 to 8 servings

Tomato-Cabbage Aspic

- 2 12-oz. cans cocktail vegetable juices
- 2 env. (2 tablespoons) unflavored gelatin
- 1 tablespoon grated onion
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon prepared horse-radish
- ½ teaspoon prepared mustard
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 3 drops liquid hot pepper seasoning
- 1½ tablespoons sugar
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup finely shredded cabbage
- ¼ cup finely shredded carrot
- ¼ cup finely chopped unpared cucumber

1. Soften gelatin in 1 cup of the vegetable juices in a saucepan. Stir over low heat until gelatin is completely dissolved. Remove from heat; stir in remaining vegetable juices and the next eight ingredients; blend thoroughly. Chill until slightly thicker than consistency of thick, unbeaten egg white.

2. Stir in the vegetables. Turn into a 1½-qt. loaf dish which has been rinsed with cold water. Chill until firm.

3. To serve, unmold onto chilled plate and garnish top with thin, unpared cucumber slices. 6 to 8 servings

Beef Fizz

- 2 cans condensed beef broth
- 1 cup chilled ginger ale
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice

Combine ingredients and pour over ice in glasses. 6 to 8 servings

Onion Popcorn Nibblers

- ½ to ½ cup (about 1½ oz.) dry onion soup mix
- ½ cup butter or margarine, melted
- 3 qts. freshly popped corn

3 qts. popcorn

Deviled Ham Muffins Petite

- ½ cup tomato sauce
- ½ teaspoon instant minced onion
- ½ cup shredded sharp Cheddar cheese
- 1 2¼-oz. can deviled ham
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- 2 cups biscuit mix
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1 egg, well beaten
- ¾ cup milk

1. Combine tomato sauce and instant onion in a saucepan and set over low heat until mixture comes to boiling.

2. Stir in the cheese and ham; heat until cheese is melted and mixture is well blended.

3. Stir part of the mixture into slightly beaten egg and return to saucepan, stirring vigorously. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, about 3 min. Set aside to cool.

4. Blend biscuit mix and sugar in a bowl. Combine remaining egg and milk and add, all at one time, to dry ingredients. Beat with spoon until blended.

5. Spoon 1 teaspoon of batter into each greased muffin-pan well (about 2 x 1 in.). Add 1 teaspoon of deviled ham mixture. Fill wells about ¾ full with batter.

6. Bake at 400°F for 15 to 18 min., or until lightly browned. Serve warm.

About 2 doz. small muffins

Chocolate-Filled Walnut Torte

- 6 egg yolks (about ½ cup)
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- ½ cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon instant coffee dissolved in 3 tablespoons water
- 1 cup very finely chopped walnuts (chopped in electric blender)
- 2 tablespoons fine graham cracker crumbs
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 6 egg whites (about ¾ cup)
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- Chocolate Filling (see recipe)
- Dessert topping (from pressurized can or packaged dessert topping)

1. Beat egg yolks, extract, and the ½ cup sugar until very thick and lemon colored. Beat in the instant coffee.

2. Stir in the nuts and a mixture of the graham cracker crumbs, flour, baking powder, and salt.

3. Beat egg whites until frothy; beat in the 2 tablespoons sugar, then continue beating until stiff peaks are formed. Fold gently into egg yolk mixture, blending thoroughly.

4. Turn batter into three greased (bottoms only) 8-in. round layer-cake pans with loose bottoms. If using solid-bottom cake pans, grease bottoms of pans, line with waxed paper, and grease paper.

5. Bake at 300°F about 30 min., or until top springs back when pressed lightly with finger. Set on cooling racks about 5 min., then loosen edges with pointed knife and turn out layers onto cooling racks to cool. (If paper is used, peel it off immediately.)

6. Spread cooled filling between layers. Swirl dessert topping over top of cake. If desired, sprinkle with coarsely chopped walnuts. 10 to 12 servings

Chocolate Filling

- 1 6-oz. pkg. semisweet chocolate pieces
- 1½ cups milk
- 2 teaspoons instant coffee
- ⅛ teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 2 tablespoons cold water
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract

1. Combine first four ingredients in double boiler top; heat over boiling water, stirring constantly until chocolate is melted.

2. Dissolve cornstarch in cold water and stir into eggs; stir about ½ cup of the melted chocolate mixture into the eggs and blend thoroughly. Stir into mixture in double boiler and cook over boiling water, stirring constantly until very thick and smooth. Remove from heat and stir in the extract; cool thoroughly. (If a slightly sweeter filling is desired, blend in 1 to 2 tablespoons sugar.)

About 2¼ cups filling

No Hard Feelings

In loving my enemies I find
I've excellent cause and ample
To wish them well, when I call to mind
Their virtues, as for example:

They never stick me with six no trumps,
Or come as guests and remain with mumps,
Or take me riding in midget cars,
Or show me their operation scars,
Or ask for advice they will not heed,
Or loan me books I am loath to read,
Or nominate me to head committees,
Or phone me collect from distant cities.

Yes, many a good trait recommends
My enemies in full measure.
And alongside loving some of my friends,
Loving enemies is a pleasure!

The husband was trying—without much success—to teach his wife how to play golf. At last, she decided to swing the club her own way. "I'm going to grip it like my broom," she said.

"And I'm going to swing it as I do a carpet beater," she continued.

"It won't work," her husband said.

Nevertheless, she swung away. The ball soared straight down the fairway, struck the edge of the green, and began to head for the cup. It was rolling within inches of the cup, when a squirrel hopped from the woods, snatched the ball, and dashed back to cover.

"See," said the husband smugly, "I told you it wouldn't work."

Is Debbie Reynolds

Such rumors have been circulating; here Debbie—one of Hollywood's frankest stars—gives an exact answer

You couldn't blame Debbie if she wanted to retire with this lovely family: husband Harry Karl, Carrie, and son Todd.

At right, Debbie is up a tree in her role as a mountaineer waif in the motion picture, "The Unsinkable Molly Brown."

By PEER J. OPPENHEIMER

THERE HAVE BEEN rumors around Hollywood lately that Debbie Reynolds is about to retire from the movies.

The reasons given include these:

1. She wants a bigger family. And after having two miscarriages (supposedly caused by overwork), she doesn't want to take a chance on a tragic repetition.

2. She wants to devote more time to her children who, she feels, have not been getting enough of her attention, particularly during six months of concentrated work on "The Unsinkable Molly Brown."

3. She wants to devote more time to the Thalians, a charitable organization that aids emotionally disturbed children. She has been its president for seven years.

Because the rumors have persisted, I visited Debbie in her 20th Century-Fox dressing room between scenes for "Goodbye, Charlie."

"Yes, I plan to retire," Debbie told me. "Don't we all reach our end sooner or later? But I don't want to reach the point of being retired. I would like to do so voluntarily before I have to."

"Does that mean this is going to be your last film?"

"It does not. I will stay in the film business as long as I can play leading ladies. But no character parts for me. Never!" She gives herself about six years more.

But what about those rumors concerning her retirement in the near future?

Debbie admitted she seriously considered it as recently as a year ago but not because she lost two babies. "Let me put the record straight once and for all: I did not lose the babies because I was overworked. It was caused by my rundown condition from having the previous children. It was an undetected condition that was not corrected at the time. If I had retired after Carrie and Todd were born and had lain in bed all the time ever since, the same thing would have happened anyway! But I'm now being treated by a specialist who may be able to correct the condition within a year. If it can be corrected, I will have more children. If not, then I won't. It's as simple as that."

In fact, Debbie insisted that her decision to carry on with her career instead of giving it up was the direct result of the loss of the babies. "I had retirement in mind for some time because I felt the parts I was doing were the same types I had done for years. I no longer wanted to be an ingénue. I wanted to be a comedienne leading lady. This didn't seem to be happening. So rather than waste the studio's time, the public's time, and my own time, I thought I would just forget my career and stay at home."

About to Retire?

She certainly could have afforded to call it quits. Shoe magnate Harry Karl, whom she married after her divorce from Eddie Fisher, is a multimillionaire.

"After I lost the babies, I decided I needed some exercise to get back into good physical condition again," Debbie recalled. "That's why I began to work on my night-club act. I had no commitment with any club at the time." It turned out well enough to earn Debbie an offer from the Riviera Hotel in Las Vegas, where she became an instant hit.

"People discovered a comedy quality they had not expected. As a result, I got the leads in 'Mary, Mary' and 'Molly Brown.' I had wanted to do 'Molly Brown' ever since I saw the show on Broadway. But MGM wouldn't even let me test at my own expense! They signed a wonderful star, Shirley MacLaine, for the part, but there was some contractual difficulty which prevented her from doing it. I invited studio officials to see my act in Las Vegas. That clinched the deal for me."

Debbie was most emphatic that her career has never affected her role as a wife and mother, and never will. "If I felt for one moment that my career interfered with the children, I wouldn't be working. Fortunately for me, Harry is not in show business. He is his own boss, and his time is his own. As a result, whenever I am free, we are all free. It's not as though we had conflicting careers."

Debbie insists that her career as an actress allows her far more time with her children than if she had held any other job. "When I am at the studio, they're in school. Most days after school they're at Brownies or some other activity and seldom get home before 5 o'clock. When they are free, they come here to the studio. In what other job could a mother bring her children to work with her?"

AS IF ON CUE, at that precise moment Carrie, seven, and Todd, six, ran into the dressing room followed by their nurse. There were cheery hellos and hugs and kisses, after which the children were dispatched outside so Debbie and I could continue our talk.

"I have a woman working for me who has three children and hardly ever sees them. I'm always sending her home early because I hate for her to be away from them so long. But it seems to me that children need their mother mostly after dinner. That's when you handle their problems—when you become the home psychiatrist. I'm always home in time for those 'psychiatric' sessions, and I'm always home with them on weekends. What's more, I don't accept location pictures unless I can take my family along. We went to Montrose, Colo., for 'Molly Brown,' and Paducah, Ky., for 'How the West Was Won.' And when I say 'we' I mean everybody—Harry, Carrie, Todd, and our nurse. We rented a cottage and had a family life just like at home."

Other than a brief trip to Europe—cut short by Debbie's second loss of a child—Debbie and Harry tried only one vacation without Carrie and Todd. "We went to Hawaii, and on the second day Harry said, 'I wonder what the children are doing now? Let's call them.' I said, 'They're all right,' but he missed them so that we flew home the next day."

Debbie further illustrated her concern for her children, whose father is Eddie Fisher, by pointing out that she and Harry took them along on their honeymoon.

It was obvious that Debbie has no intention of retiring because of her health or her family.

SHE HAS AN INTEREST in a slacks-manufacturing company, paper dolls, coloring books, a hospital (other than the charity hospital for which she works), a family billiard parlor, and a dozen other interests run by her company, Harmon Enterprises. "I have capable people to look after my investments," she told me. "I take care of the show part, and they take care of the business part. I earn the money and they invest it for me."

But that's an oversimplification. Debbie, who has been called an IBM machine with a cute baby face, isn't the type of girl to sit back and let others make decisions for her. I have been a member of the Thalians for almost as long as Debbie has been president, and I have had a chance to watch her closely in action. While she delegates authority, she remains deeply involved in every phase of activity. She has raised more money than all the other members combined. And, when asked how she can do it all, Debbie will shrug and smile, "It's easy when you love what you're doing."

She has always been "number one." Even as a Girl Scout she was the leader in the troop. She was at the top of her class in school. For years she held the number-one position in fan-magazine polls. She is determined now to be the number-one comedienne in films as well.

Second place was not for Debbie in marriage, either, as demonstrated by her divorce from Eddie Fisher. Nor is she willing to put up with it in her career, which is why she can determine right now when she will retire. She will never play character parts. No little old ladies for her. No second banana to anyone. For Debbie, it's either the top or nothing.

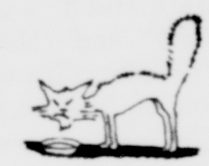
Riddles



What is a cat when it drinks sour milk?

Answer: A sour puss.

Answer: They are forever being left behind.

Why does the moon go to the bank?

Answer: To change quarters.

ABOUT THE only thing you can do with a penny these days is stick it in a fuse box and electrocute yourself.

When I was a small child (shortly after Eli Whitney invented the cotton gin), a penny worked wonders—and a dollar was a small fortune. For a penny at the candy store, you could load your pockets with a galaxy of black-and-red gooey goodies. For a dollar, you could entertain an upset stomach for at least a week.

In my gilded youth, I spent the princely sum of $7.50, which was also my entire week's paycheck, on a cotton dress. I lay awake nights brooding over this extravagance, but I wore the dress for 10 years. It was the same style for which I now pay $39.95 and lie awake wondering if I'll be able to wear it 10 months.

Frankly, fellow spenders, things have reached the sorry state in which change is a nuisance. It is handy for parking meters and sales tax, but that's about it. Members of cozy little bridge clubs where first prize is traditionally a dollar gift are now spending $5 to find something that doesn't appear to have been laced together with ravelings.

One evening last week I curled up as best I could, considering my arthritis, with a good book. This good book, published in 1937, recounted the adventures of a fellow who said he had a good mind to spend a two-cent stamp on a letter to tell another fellow what he thought of him.

If a fellow went to the post office today and requested a two-cent stamp, the man at the stamp window would have to take the rest of the day off to recover from a serious attack of giggles. In order to send a special-delivery airmail letter in this era, you have to be about as well-heeled as Andrew Carnegie was.

And if he were still alive, he probably wouldn't be giving away any lending libraries. Most communities would be lucky to get him to lend them a book.

I know the Lord loves a cheerful giver—but, while giving and spending these days, it's hard to choke back the sobs. A decent hankie costs $1.95.
